UNITY — Victory Belles show school spirit by holding up theme sign "Together We're Better."

Theme reflects unity

Every school year is unique. Each one brings surprises, adventures, and disappointments. Every year is a step towards the future of each student. Thus this school year could have had as many themes as students in the school.

The atmosphere at the pep rallies showed true pride even though the football team was unable to achieve its goal of a winning season. The spirit and energy that prevailed throughout the year reflected the unity of the student body.

This year's theme was unusual because it represents an idea rather than a thing. The excitement and achievements of the year were shared by all the students. We've had our ups and downs, but together we've made it better.

COTTON BOWLING — The band and High Hats perform "Georgia on my Mind" in route to their fourth consecutive Parade of Champions first place finish.

CITY CELEBRATION — Brent Casey and Becky Folsom perform in the Duncanville Centennial talent show.

COTTON BALLS — Band members practice their decorating abilities on Mr. Tom Shine's lawn the night before the Parade of Champions.

HOPING FOR VICTORY — Kelly Freeman and Sharissa Taylor show what they hope the Panthers will do.

PRE-GAME FUN — Duffers and Victory Belles hold up condolences for the South Grand Prairie Warriors before their game.

STOP THE SCOTS — Flag corps members cheer for the Panthers during the football game against Highland Park.

GAG GIFT — Laura Oswald and Sally Utt try to make a pen explode.

GOSSIP — Ron Coots talks with vice-principals Leroy Fisher and Charles Kidwell during lunch.

Together we're better

The vast amount of energy in the school comes from the various groups of people that make up the student body. The popularity of clubs, student organizations, and athletic teams has always been very evident. Students had a choice of over 75 clubs to join. So, whether a student was on the soccer team or a member of the German Club, he was able to show his interest in the school by participating in extra-curricular activities after school.

Admittedly, most students set individual goals for themselves. But individuals could not accomplish their goals without the help of others. Perhaps the most cherished and remembered accomplishments were those which were the result of a group effort. As individuals we were all good, but together we were better.

SHOWING SPIRIT — The faculty Flat Hats run off the court after performing a dance routine to "Eye of the Tiger."

WORKING TOGETHER — Rodney Brooks helps Jill Crawford study in the commons area.

DEDICATEE — Jason Boles, Class of '83 honor graduate, is the first student to be named "Panther Tale" dedicatee.

Jason Boles honored

Besides having a great influence on both students and teachers, senior Jason Boles has epitomized the admired characteristics of courage, leadership and dedication. For these reasons, the Panther Tale staff is privileged to honor Jason as the first student ever to become an annual dedicatee.

Jason is an honors graduate who has been very active in extra-curricular activities throughout his four years here. He served as an athletic trainer for four years and was head trainer during his senior year. Jason was a member of the Latin Club for four years, has been selected class favorite for four years and was chosen who's who among DHS students. He has received D awards in English and American History. Jason is also an active member of the First Christian Church in Duncanville, where he serves as a junior Deacon.

Jason has also worked for four years doing promotions for the Muscular Dystrophy Association. During his senior year Jason appeared on the MDA Labor Day telethon and boasted about the friendliness of the students and faculty.

Jason enjoys camping, fishing, listening to Rock and Roll music, and going to concerts. Next year, Jason will be attending Texas A&M University.

Summer vacations cut short; Band starts early practices

School activities were not always limited to the school year. Many students cut their summer vacations short to begin workouts and practices.

"We started marching three weeks before school started," said freshman band member Steve Smith

"The summer workouts were a lot of work," cited Flag Corps member Debbie Rose, "and it gave us a chance to get our winning show together."

"We had to start lifting weights and running right after the Fourth of July," explained JV football player Brian Dubose. "It took a lot of time and cut the vacation real short."

Thomas Obregon remembered, "Summer workouts were hot, but pretty fun; everyone was really excited for the first scrimmage."

Seniors were asked to come to school during the summer to get their senior pictures taken. "I worked a long time to get to be a senior," said Scott Lord. "Getting my senior picture taken made me feel mature and important ... and ready to party!"

"It (senior pictures) was a long wait in line," said Rachel Bendor-Samuel, "but I got to see all my friends I hadn't seen during the summer."

Marsha Brazil commented, "After I had my senior picture taken, I decided it was about time I started having fun and taking school less seriously."

STAYING COOL — Band members show off their legs during an early morning practice

MISSING SLEEP — Angie Harrington, Teresa Dean, Rene Johnson, and Janet Harless stand at attention while Adam Ant shouts instructions on the megaphone

VARSITY PRACTICE — Coach James Kauffman watches as the football team runs offensive drills

SHOW-OFFS — The Variety Pack High Hat squad practices holding straw hats for show-off night

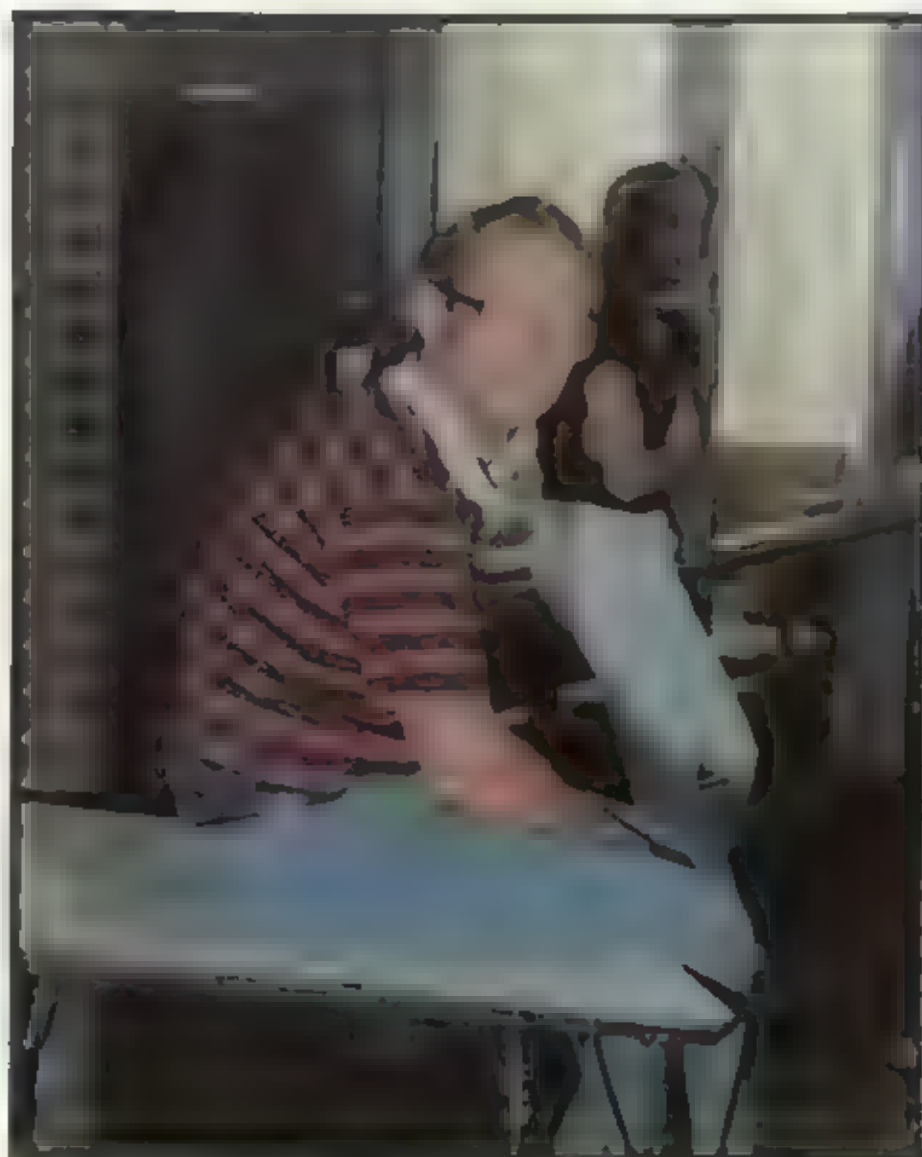

"IT'S MINE" — Fran McMillan smiles as she refuses to return the graduation cap to the photographer

HEAD MAN — Principal Art Douglas practices looking stern for the upcoming year

REGISTRATION — Sophomores Lyn Casada, Lani Bustamant, Michelle Donahue, Julie Bendele, and Suzanne Davis talk about summer vacations and the classes they will be taking, while waiting to register

Registration is troublesome; new system disliked by most

The old saying, "You can't please all of the people all of the time," certainly applied to registration. Aside from the fact that most students were depressed by the thought of coming to school before the summer was over, there always seemed to be someone dissatisfied with his schedule.

"I never have liked registering," said Sherri Balzen, junior. "Even though I get to talk with friends that I haven't seen all summer, when they started with the end of the alphabet, it wasn't fair. All of the good classes and teachers were filled up and there was not a good selection. It was just a big hassle."

"It was a mistake for them to start at the back of the alphabet because I didn't get to register first," said Amy

Blalock, senior. "It was a big mixup. You couldn't get any of the teachers you wanted. All the classes you wanted were filled up. It's generally like we're a bunch of cattle being herded around. It was awful to have to go to school anyway."

Some people didn't even make it to school. "Registration was really strange this year because I slept too late and missed it," said Katrina Thornton, sophomore. "I had to register with all the new people. After all that, I ended up with two first periods. It was a real mess."

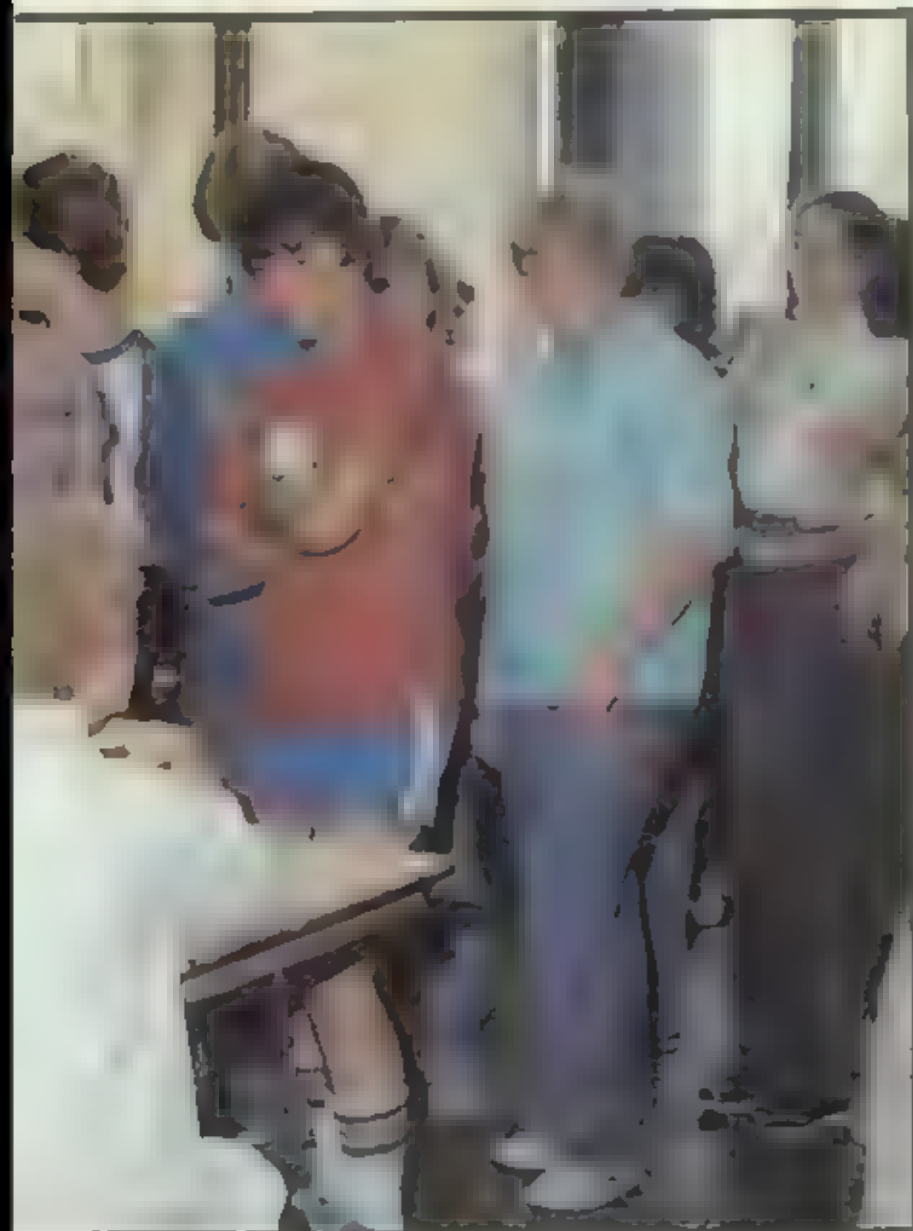

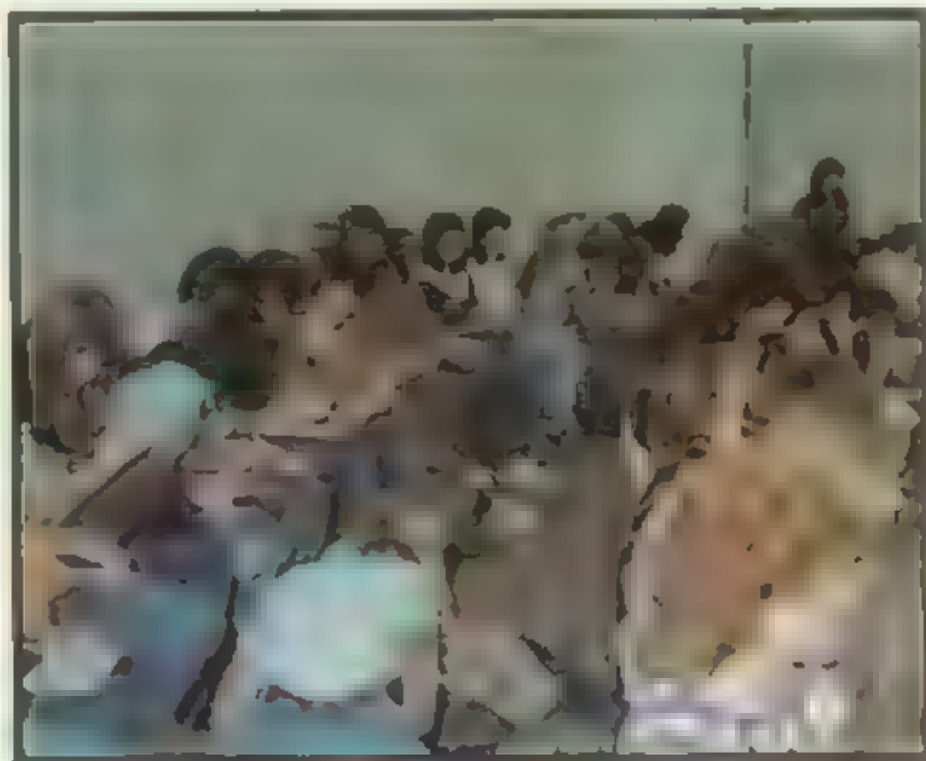

"I didn't like registration because I had to go last," said Senior Larry Commons. "Some of the classes were filled up, and I didn't get all the teachers I wanted."

WAITING IN LINE — Students sign up for classes during summer registration

PICKING TEACHERS — Sophomores listen attentively as Mrs. Patty Briggs explains registration procedures

FINAL LINE — After a time-consuming registration, students wait in line to check out

CHECKING IN — Vice-Principals Mel Morris and Laverne Mankin pass out schedules to excited sophomores

WE FEEL GOOD — Sophomores show the other classes how they feel so good, (Inh)

BUILDING SPIRIT — The varsity cheerleaders build a pyramid while band members stare in amazement

GET DOWN! — Panther Terri Williams dances and waves as she awaits the football team's entrance

DUFFERS — Ricky Tanguma disguises himself in dark glasses while holding a junior's sign; Dru Godwin provides moral support

Football season brings pep; pep rallies bring headaches

There's a feeling you get when you're crowded into a gym with two thousand other students on a hot Friday afternoon. Shoulder to shoulder, you yell, sweat, clap, and laugh with your friends. Some people call that special feeling that accompanies those acts school spirit and enthusiasm. Others call it a headache.

"Pep rallies are stupid," said Amy Blalock, senior. "You get to see all the football players walk around in a circle and sit in their chairs. Then the coaches come out and say, 'Yeah, we're gonna win!' I liked it when everyone cried at the last pep rally though."

"They were really great this year," said Katrina Thornton, sophomore. "The Duffers didn't do as many skits, but the ones they did do were really great. The soccer team really showed a lot of spirit."

Although no one ever saw Terri Williams at the pep rallies, she was at every one of them, dressed up as the Panther.

There's still something missing," said Williams. "I know that a lot of the football players want to get up and cheer, but they don't. It's like, 'Why should I yell for the team when they just sit there?' But during the pep rally when Darrell Edwards got up and burned that shirt, that was great. People really get into it when football players do something."

"I hate pep rallies," said senior Cydney Foote. "I usually have headaches on Friday afternoons, and I usually don't want to be with all those people yelling and screaming."

CENTER STAGE — The varsity football team is the center of attention at the first pep rally. High Hats stand on the sidelines.

SPEAR PEARCE — Duffer Stace Hunt shows the student body how he would like the football team to spear Pearce High School.

POMPING — Christina Paz, Lori Barbar, Julie Brooks, and Heidi Newton glue crepe paper on the freshman float

Classes work to build floats

In addition to attending the usual school activities, classes, and sports, many students decided to show their school spirit by participating in homecoming float meetings.

Students met for two or three hours after school for a few days every week and slowly put together their class float.

"Our float meetings were great," said Jennifer Ahlfinger, junior. "We had a great turnout. Probably more than twenty people came to each meeting at Dawn Esposito's house. It was amazing how everyone worked and pulled together. The float turned out great."

Unfortunately, the senior float was damaged by rain, but that didn't stop the seniors from entering it in the parade.

"It was pretty disappointing," said Greg Survil, senior. "There wasn't enough participation at the float meetings, but they got the job done. It seems like it was the same people at every meeting."

Although the student council may be planning to eliminate class floats next year, many students plan to build their own class floats.

CLEAN UP TIME — Cleaning up after the freshman float meeting is Scott McKee

RUSHING TO FINISH — Jennifer Ling and Karen Lavallee help build the scoreboard for the senior float

POMPS AND GLUE — Amy Brunson watches as Brian Melton works on the freshman float in Scott McKee's garage

FLOAT MEETING — Senior class sponsor Ms. Kathy Ziehe watches as seniors build the Phantom Panther in Angie Harrington's garage

SUPREME EFFORT — In spite of rolling down Daniieldale Rd. in the rain, the senior float makes an appearance in the parade

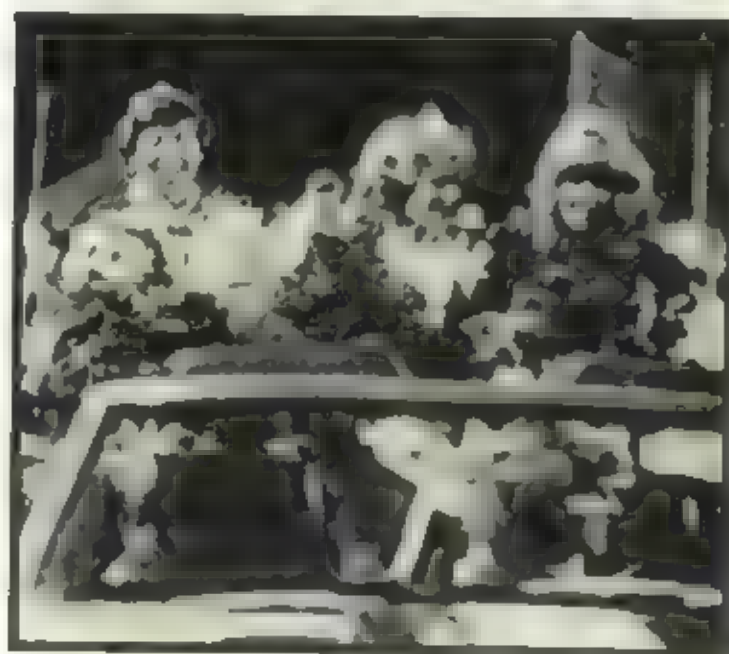

FATHERLY ESCORT — Homecoming Queen nominee Debbie Kleypas is escorted by her father

ALL IN THE FAMILY — Homecoming Queen nominee Camie Cox stands with her father

SHOWERED WITH FLOWERS — Paige Hendrickson, band sweetheart Terri Williams, Homecoming Queen; and Kim Norris, football sweetheart, smile for the crowd

CHAUFFEUR DRIVEN — The Homecoming Queen and band and football sweethearts are honored during pre-game ceremonies

THE PROUD FATHER — Terri Williams Homecoming Queen, is escorted by her father

FOOTBALL SWEETHEART — Nominees for Football Sweetheart were Elizabeth Lincoln, Kim Norris, and Stacy Miller

Senior girls honored

Being nominated for Homecoming Queen was a great honor for five senior girls. Debbie Kleypas, Terri Williams, Trena Roberts, Camie Cox, and Paige Pelt were all nominated to receive this honor, but only Williams, who was also president of the senior class, became the Homecoming Queen. "I think it's really nice that people thought of me," said Williams, "I'm involved in a lot of activities. I guess lots of people know me."

The football team nominated Stacy Miller, Kim Norris, and Elizabeth Lincoln for their sweetheart. Norris, who had been a cheerleader for three years, won the title. "I'd like to thank the football team for recognizing my existence," joked Norris.

Christina Engel, Caroline Thompson, and Paige Hendrickson were selected as nominees for band sweetheart. Hendrickson, has played the trumpet in the band for four years, was chosen as sweetheart. "It came as a shock," she said. "I was totally thrilled. It was so neat."

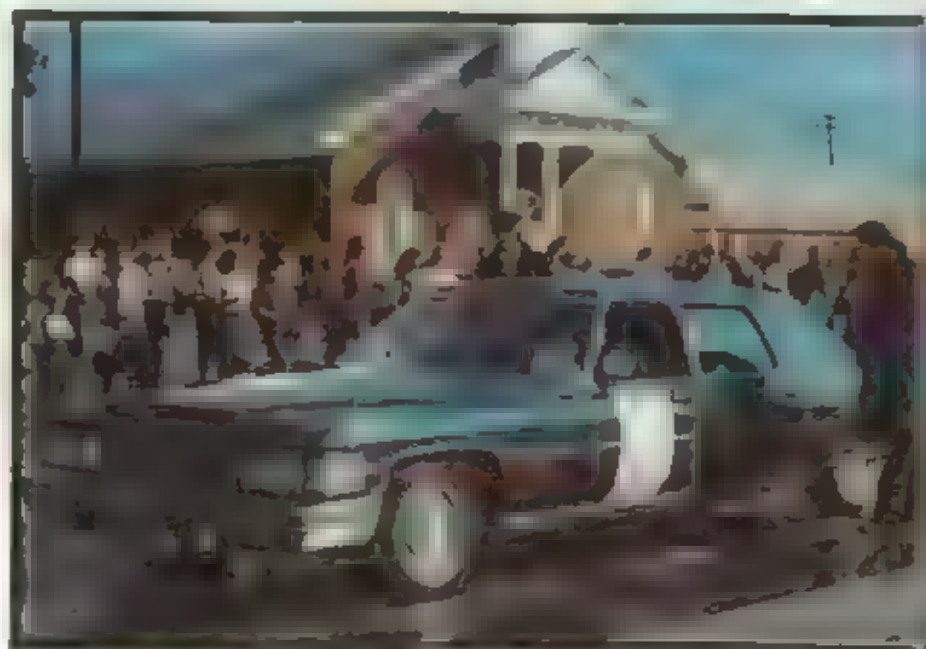

HEAD TO HEAD — (from top) Camie Cox, Debbie Kleypas, Terri Williams, Paige Pelt, and Trena Roberts are nominees for the title of Homecoming Queen

FLAG WEVERS — Nancy Brown and her horse Magnolia Gold carry the Texas flag in the Homecoming parade

CLASS OF '84 ENTRY — The Phantom Panther and the Gopher roll down Main Street on the junior class float

MOST ORIGINAL ENTRY — Secret Service agents escort the limousine carrying valuable annual and newspaper staff members

Rain doesn't dampen spirits; classes share first prize

"We're not going to let a little bad weather ruin our parade," said Principal Art Douglas as the bottom fell out of the storm.

One hour and two inches of rain later, homecoming parade participants and spectators began gathering next to Panther Field.

After a few minutes of confusion, everyone was close to the correct place in line.

With the exception of overheated car engines, wet socks, and muddy puddles, the homecoming parade went as scheduled.

"I think the homecoming parade turned out really well this year," said

Greg Survil, student council president. "It turned out better than last year's, and it ran a lot smoother. Next year, we're probably not going to have class floats. They're too much hassle and too much expense."

Judges awarded first place to the Byrd Junior High drill team, second place to Redbird Skateland, and best entry to the band float. Because of the damage done by rain, each class float was awarded $100. Duffers' float won most enthusiastic, and the annual-newspaper staffs won most original. Most colorful float was awarded to the German Club.

CLASS OF '85 — Sophomores display the panther getting ready to "go-pher-it"

RAIN DRENCHED — The local council of the Blue Birds chirp their way down Main Street in an antique car

What's in style?

The diverse personalities that make up a student body were reflected by fashions ranging from preppy to western to new wave

'I dress up to make good impressions,' said Brandy Kidwell

"People should just stick with jeans," Donnie Branch disagreed. "You're only going to school

'Everybody tells me that it must take a lot of guts to wear some of my clothes," said Laura Oswald, "but it's what I feel comfortable in. If people want to laugh or stare, let them, because I'm laughing at them too. I wish that people who say they don't have enough nerve to wear bizarre clothes would at least try it '

"I really like the new wave styles," said Debby Blake, "but I don't have enough nerve to wear them '

HANGING OUT — Showing the latest styles, seniors John Schmidt and Stace Hunt model their black leather jackets

DENIM DUDS — Tim Delaughter has the whole world in his hands

FASHIONABLE FOOTWEAR — Tanya Pecina does her homework in the commons area before school

GRATEFUL DEAD — Sitting in the commons area Darla Berry admires Shawna Norr's outfit

CHEMICAL WARFARE — Laura Oswald talks on the phone in her protective jacket

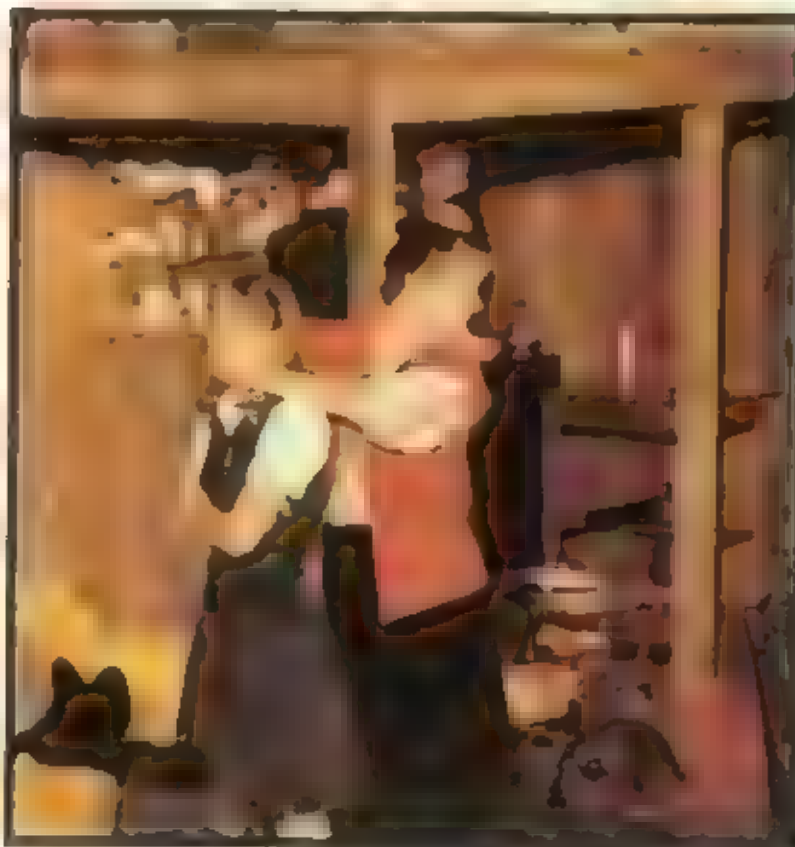

GATHERED AROUND — Cathy Jackson, Darrell Clark, Heather Holterman, and Nathan Henne act out a secret Hanukkah celebration

In the annex

I enjoyed the 'Diary of Anne Frank'," said Stace Hunt, senior, of the drama department's fall production. "I was surprised how well the drama department handled serious drama

I think the two most outstanding performances were given by Emily Birtchet and Alice Henne," said senior drama student Amy Blalock. "Both of them showed a lot of maturity in their acting, which was refreshing."

"I wish I would have gone to more than one performance," said Kenny Merrifield, "It was great, and everyone was fantastic."

HUSHING UP — Cathy Jackson attempts to quiet Emily Birtchet, who portrays her daughter

IN THE ANNEX — Cathy Jackson talks to Jay Haggard and Richard Wernske in an early scene of the play

CONFUSED STARE — Heather Holterman, who portrays Margot, stares into space

Molesters win intramural football

On Sept. 13, nine teams entered competition in the Flag Football League, sponsored by Duncanville Intramurals. By Oct. 19, only four teams remained. They were the Giant Armadillos, Molesters, Blazing Seniors, and Dawn's Dudes.

The Molesters, who won the Intramural competition, were undefeated until they lost to the Giant Armadillos in an exciting game that ended in overtime. The Molesters proved that it is speed rather than size that wins football games.

In the student-faculty football game, the faculty came away victorious, as usual.

"Intramural football is a great way to get in-

involved with athletics without the hassles and practice time that organized school teams demand," said Stace Hunt, a player for Dawn's Dudes.

The intramural swimming meet, sponsored by Don Cox, was held at the Mountain View Community College pool on Sept. 8. Fifteen students entered the hour long meet that consisted of both individual and relay competitions. Sam Foose won the diving competition and Scott Deffebach won the 50 yd. free-style. Kevin Purcell was the victor in the Big Splash, while Kane Sheppard and Scott Deffebach won the 100 yd. relay.

Miss Flame named

The five finalists joined hands, waiting anxiously for the announcement that Deana Ervin had been chosen Miss Flame

Deana, who represented the fire department at various social functions, parades, and monthly luncheons, was a senior

As Miss Flame, Deana received many gifts from various contributors throughout the community. Among the prizes were a diamond ring, a watch, a fire helmet, and over $400 in gift certificates

Other finalists were Cindy Crawford, first runner-up; Terri Williams, second runner-up; Karen Davis, third runner-up; and Teri Gaddy, fourth runner-up

In the pageant, the contestants modeled an outfit of their own choosing in the street wear competition. A question was next posed to the girls, who were then dressed in formal attire. Judges awarded points on poise, dress, and communication abilities.

Deana's tears of happiness followed the announcement that she had been named Miss Flame.

Turkey trotters run for the birds

The annual Turkey Trot was held on Nov. 18. "It (the race) was the best we've ever had," commented Don Cox about the total of forty runners.

Not only did the students and faculty participate, but even some parents got involved. Next year Mr. Cox is hoping there will be a category for parents.

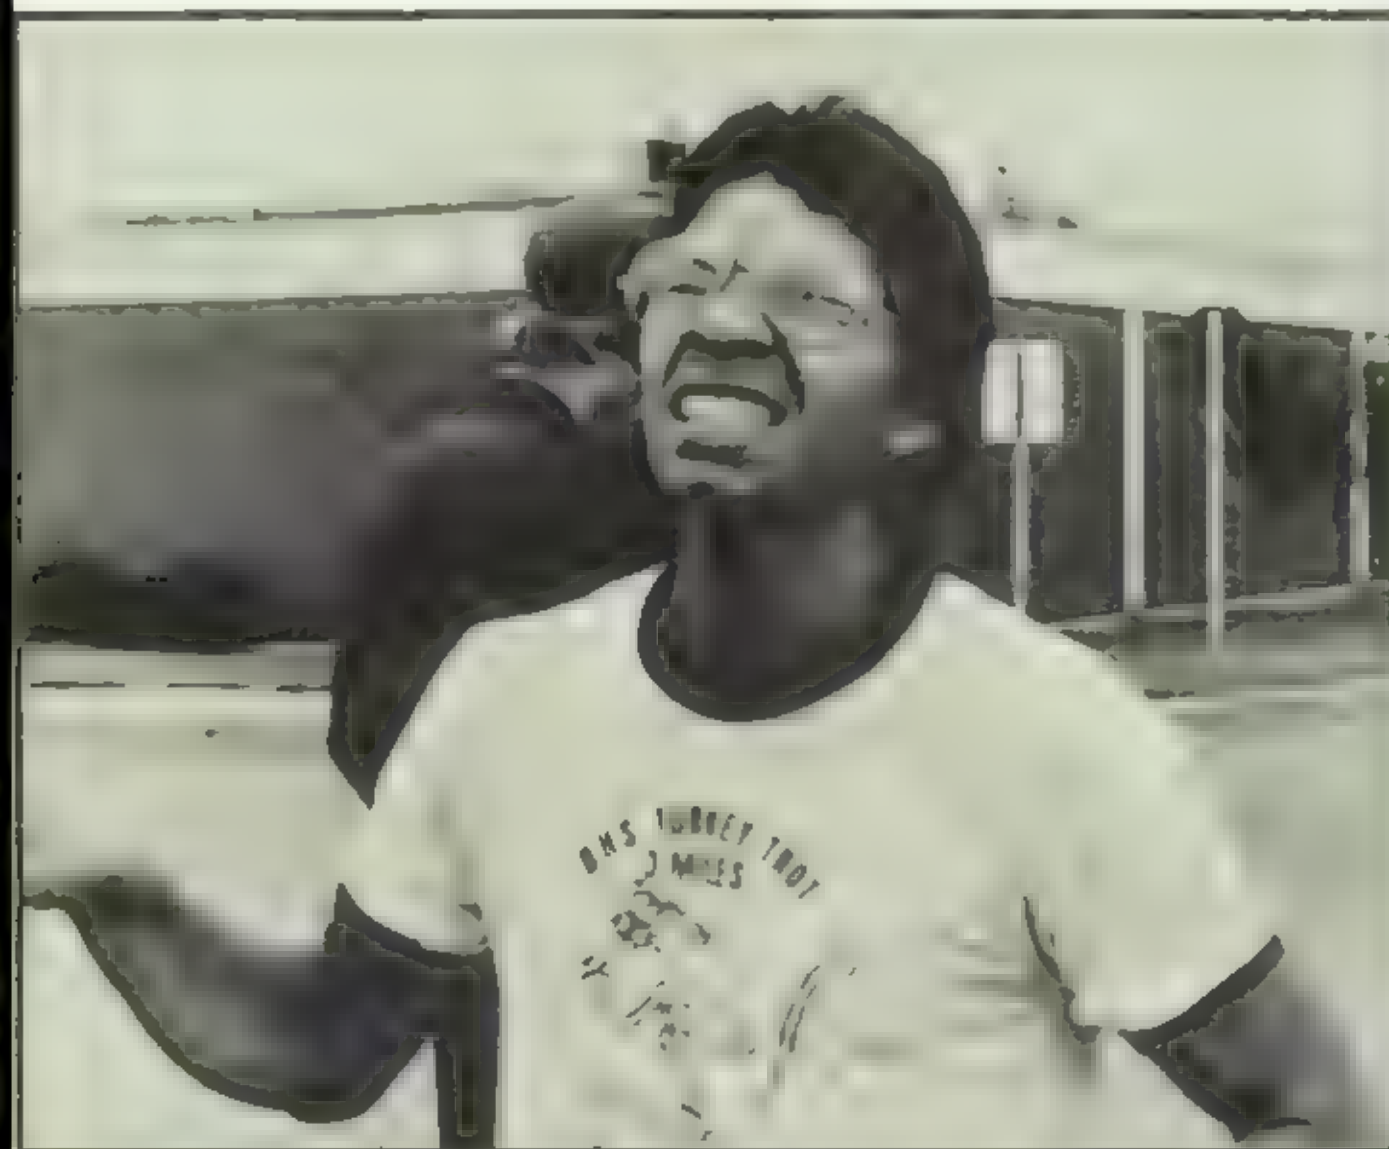

"I thought it was fun for the parents to be out there with the kids," Cox said.

Jeremy Stephens, a member of the track team and, therefore, ineligible to win a turkey, ran anyway. "I love to compete and I did it because I wanted to win," said Stephens.

Turkey winners included: Male student, Andy Ballard; Female student, Camie Cox; Male athlete, Brian Clark; Female athlete, Laura Hammons; and Faculty member, Randy Foeder.

Holiday parties

We started cooking pizzas about eight in the morning," said Kathy Lazero, an employee of the Pizza Inn on Cedar Ridge Road. "We sold a thousand dollars worth of pizza before 11 a.m.

All of this pizza was eaten during the class Christmas parties. "It was a lot of fun, but the pizzas went too fast," said Stace Hunt. "It was fun because Mr. Marma was our substitute teacher. He really knows how to party."

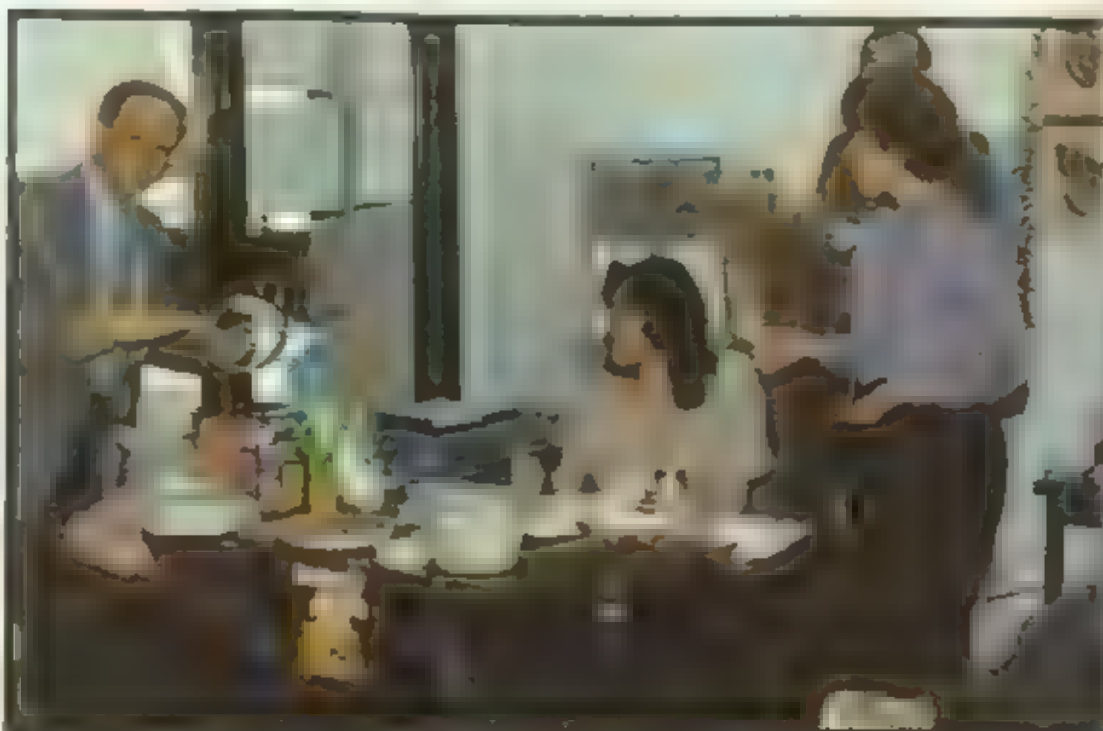

"The newspaper staff party was great," said Jeff Puckett. "It was pretty unusual for a school party. I really had a great time."

"The annual staff progressive dinner was fun," said Debby Blake. "But I had to hide my gag gift before I went home."

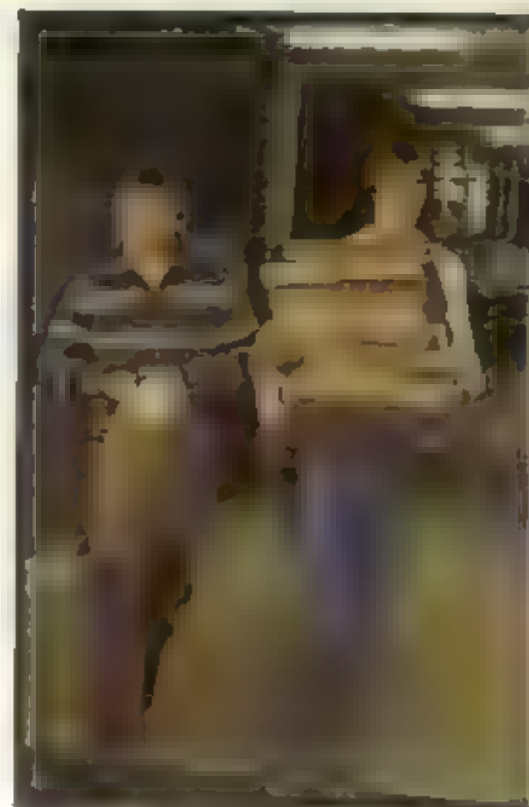

GAG GIFTS — Rex Merchant laughs at his gift at the annual staff Christmas party.

TIME TO EAT — L. D. Casey, Connie Trout, Bob Taylor, and Diane Dilworth have their own party in the guidance office.

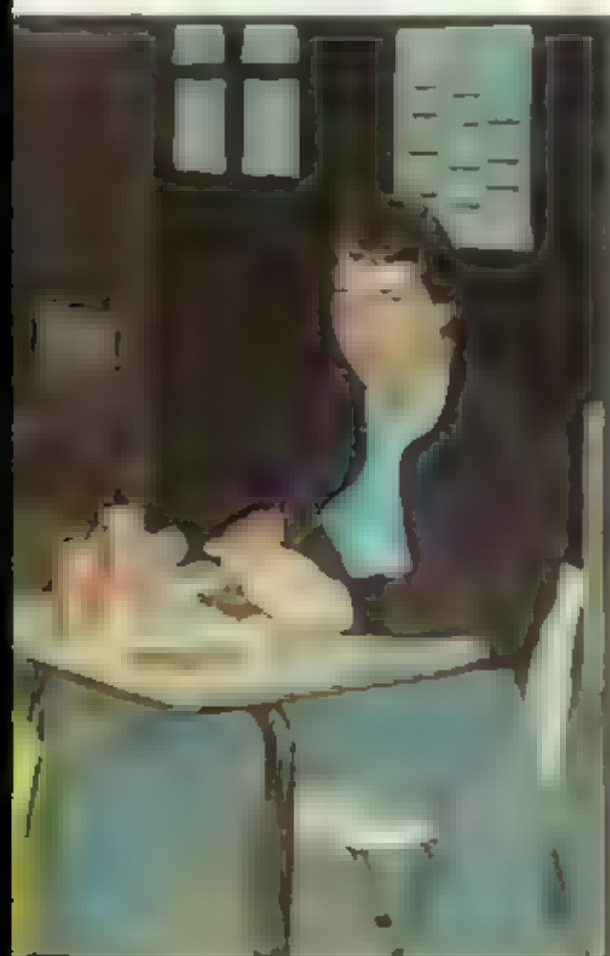

CARD SHARKS — Seniors Jim Garland, Darrell Edwards, Johnny Locklear, Mike Hardgrove, and Brian Ethridge play a card game during their government class.

PIZZA PARTY — Despite the announcement that class parties would not be catered, Paul Blight and Todd Maddox bring pizza to their class.

Dancing for dollars

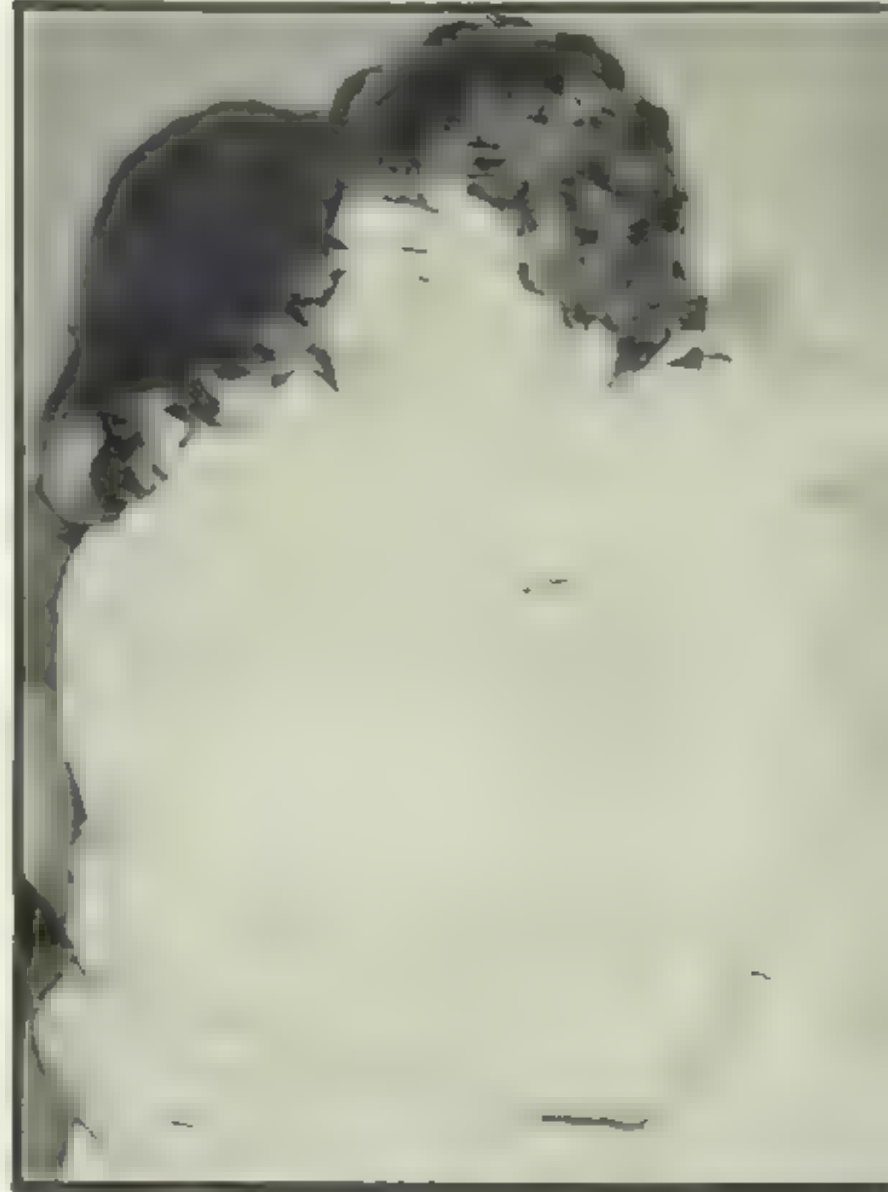

"It was a big success," said Don Cox, Duffer sponsor, about the Duffer Dance Marathon. "We raised well over $500 for the Special Olympics, the Junior Class, and the Senior Class."

Fifteen guys, mostly Duffers, and forty girls danced for ten hours from two in the afternoon until midnight. The participants were sponsored by over forty parents and faculty members.

"I wore myself out," said Charles Wate. "Even when you're in pretty good shape, dancing all day is exhausting. My fiancée's legs were swollen the next day."

"Aside from pep rallies and football games, raising money for charities like the Special Olympics is real satisfaction," said Sam Foose. "Even though it was hard work, this kind of event is what being a Duffer is all about."

"We really had a lot of fun," said Jon Berman. "Everyone worked hard for the charities, but we managed to have a good time, too. If we weren't so tired after it was over, we could have stayed there all night. I wouldn't have missed it for the world."

DISC JOCKEYS — Brian Mabry and Don Cox are forced to play albums all evening

GRAND POOMBAH — "That's right — I'm bad," said Duffer leader Noel Bustamante while he smiles for his public

CHOO-CHOO — Jill Brandenburg and Anna Bilhartz do a train dance.

Senior talent

The 1983 Senior Talent Show, directed by Don Cox, earned over $500 for the Senior Walk Day and the Senior gift. The show contained over 25 different acts, all of which were well prepared and entertaining.

The show featured many musicians and dancers, including performances by Kristi Kinslow, Audrienne Zachara, Karle Swanson, David Carr, Sherry Green, Rebecca McAdams, Joyce Blackburn, and many others.

Although many admitted doubts about the senior class' ability to produce anything requiring talent, the seniors proved that they could.

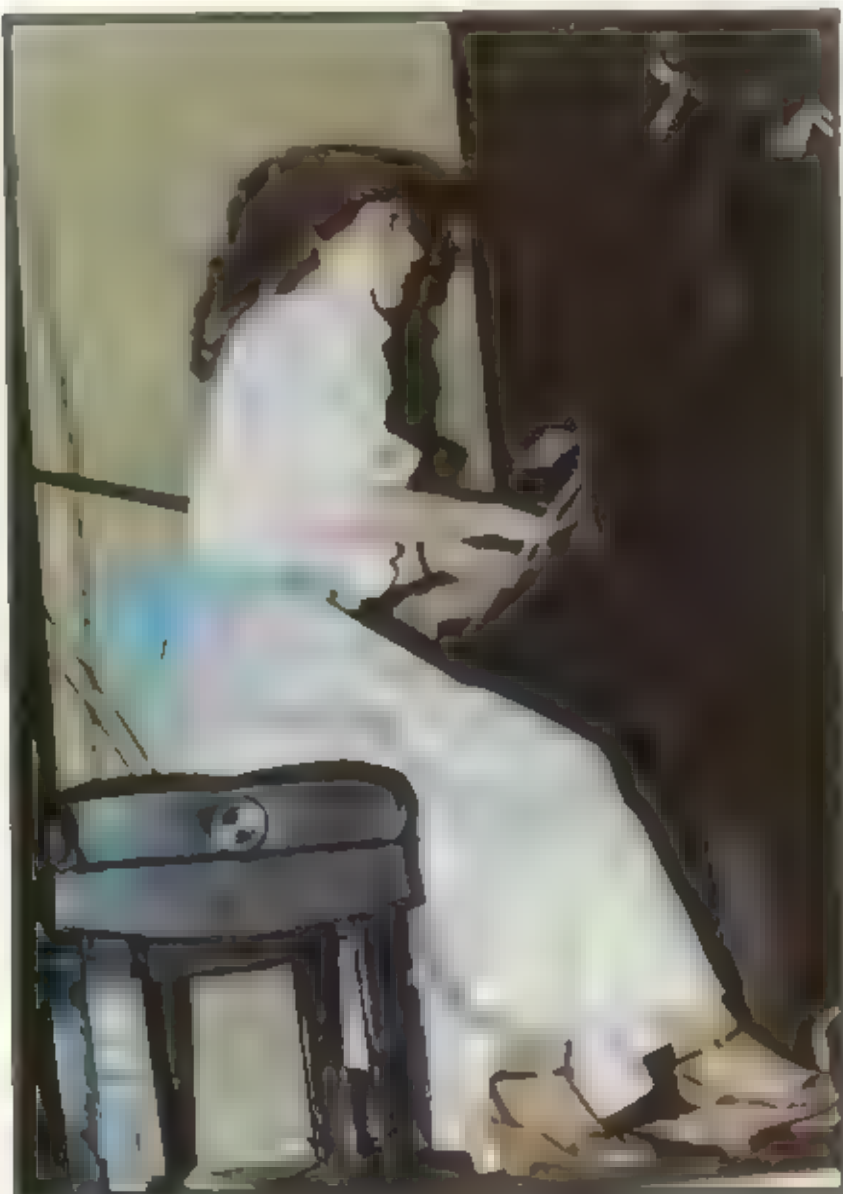

THE NO NOS — Sam Foster pretends like he's Belinda, the lead singer for the No Nos.

TWINKIES — Angie Hamilton and Rebecca McAdams perform the Twinkies.

SINGING THE BLUES — Tim Hammer holds his saxophone and sings the senior version of the song 'Shout'.

PIANIST — Kim Johnson plays a contemporary medley on the piano.

WE GOT THE BEAT — Stara Hunt, Kenny McIntyre, and Andy Bales perform to the popular Gr Gr's song, "We Got The Beat."

GRAND FINALE — Talented seniors have a good time during the last act.

RICH KID — John Schmidt sings his own song, "Thank God I'm a Rich Kid."

REAL ROCKERS — Sick Ringfield's group, consisting of Donald Radeke, Jay Haggard and Stacie Hunt, perform their version of "Jessie's Girl."

FER SURE — Jon Berman uses his imagination in acting like a Valley Guy.

CAT AND MOUSE — Stray Cat Strutters Debra Rocha, Patty, Callahan, Christie Herskell and Angela Bryant get a chance to watch a few of the other acts.

Class shows talent

WILD AND CRAZY — Greg Survil, alias David Lee Roth, sings Van
Halen's "Beautiful Girls"

"It's really funny to see all your friends up on stage making fools of themselves at the Senior Talent Show," said senior comedian Don Radeke. "It's even funnier, though, when you are one of those people. This show was better than most, to me, because I was a part of it."

"Standing on stage in front of all your friends makes the hours I spent preparing for the Talent Show worth it," said singer Kristi Kinslow. "Singing in front of people you'll have to face the next day makes you more nervous. I enjoyed it though."

JESSIE'S GIRL — Band Member Billy Wadle shows his talent in air guitar

VAN HALEN — Noel Bustamante acts out Eddie Van Halen's part

COPE ski trip

As part of the Texas Winter Special Olympics, the COPE (Coordinated Occupational Pre-vocational Education) class journeyed to Cloudcroft, New Mexico, for a four-day ski trip.

Eight students and four sponsors left Duncanville by plane on Feb. 8. The trip was paid for by the Duncanville Association for Retarded Citizens.

"They (ARC) really deserve a lot of thanks," said COPE teacher Brenda Banks. "They work hard so these kids would have a chance to go. They held bake sales, garage sales, and other fund raisers."

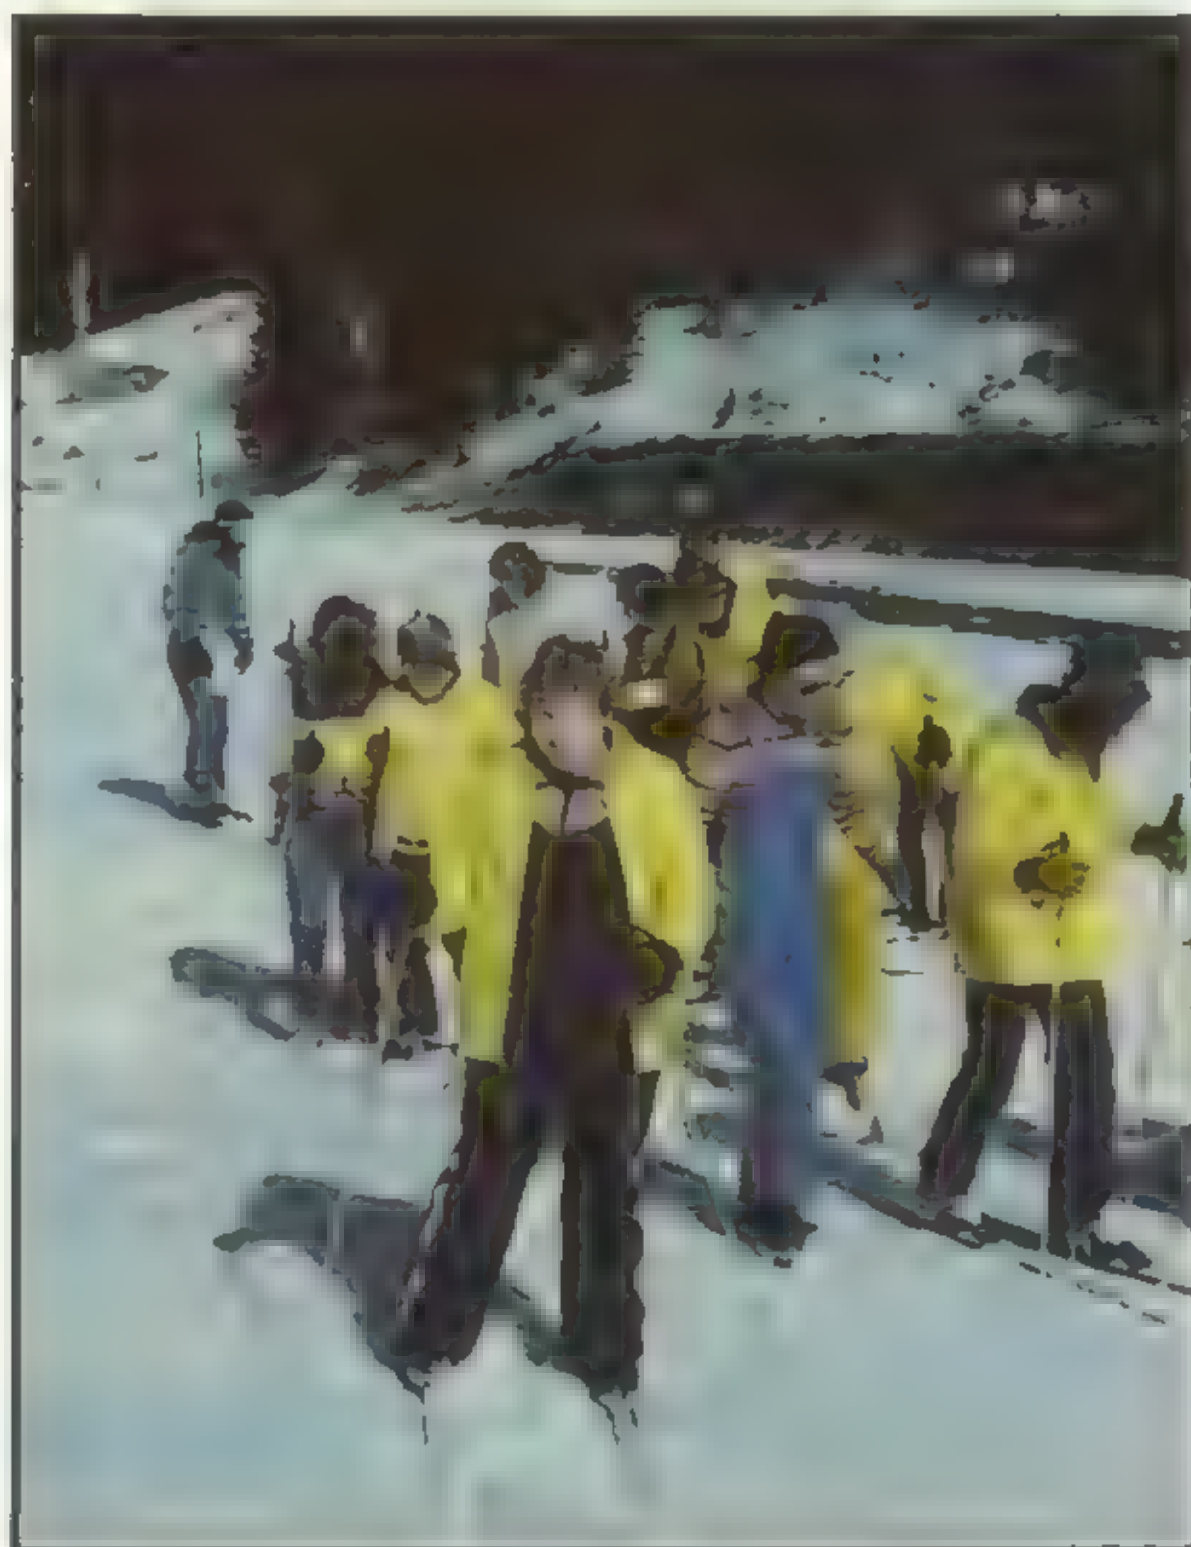

SNOWBALL FIGHT — Eric Knott and Bill Maples play in the snow

UP, UP, AND AWAY — Eric Knott, Jeff Luttrell and Stuart Riley enjoy the airplane ride

VICTORY MARCH — Tai Singh, Bill Maples, Eric Knott, Jeff Luttrell, Doug Rutherford and Bill Maples proudly carry the trophy to Hanna.

Medal winners

At the 1983 Texas Winter Special Olympics COPE students proved themselves to be outstanding achievers. In the 50 meter race, Bill Maples and Kim Newberry won gold medals. Eric Knott and Jeff Luttrell won silver medals, and Doug Rutherford won a bronze medal.

In the 100 meter race, Tai Singh, Bill Maples, and Kim Newberry won gold medals. Eric Moore won a silver medal, and Stuart Riley won a bronze medal. Tai Singh and Stuart Riley also participated in the one kilometer race.

HITTING THE SLOPES — Kim Newberry tries her luck on a hill.

STARTING OUT — Stuart Riley prepares to break away from the crowd.

MR. AND MISS DHS — Terri Williams and Jason Boles take their place in the royal court

NOMINEES — Shelly Piper and Jason Salter show their enthusiasm for the new freshman winners of the Royal Court

WINNERS — Named as most beautiful and most handsome of the junior class are Debbie McCright and Mark Francis

FRESHMAN COUPLE — After hearing their names as winners of the Royal Court, Noel Werner and Robert Eddy smile at the audience

AND THE WINNERS ARE — Karen Goza and Steve Shaver await the announcement of the winners

Favorites honored

Coronation came and went with all the pomp and pageantry of a national beauty contest

Boles, Williams honored

Eager students sat in the crowded auditorium to watch their friends and classmates crowned as '83 royalty

Terri Williams and Jason Boles reigned over the coronation as Mr. and Miss DHS. Terry Greene and Kristi Creamer were pronounced King and Queen, and Jason Boles and Jody Hall were named senior class favorites. Debbie Kleypas and Shannon Jackson were honored as most beautiful and most handsome.

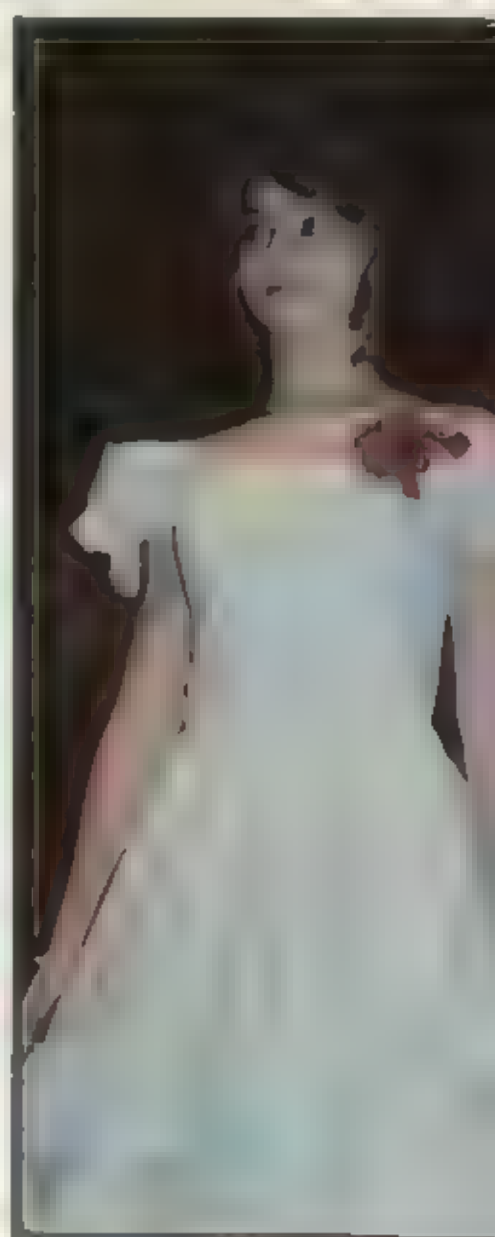

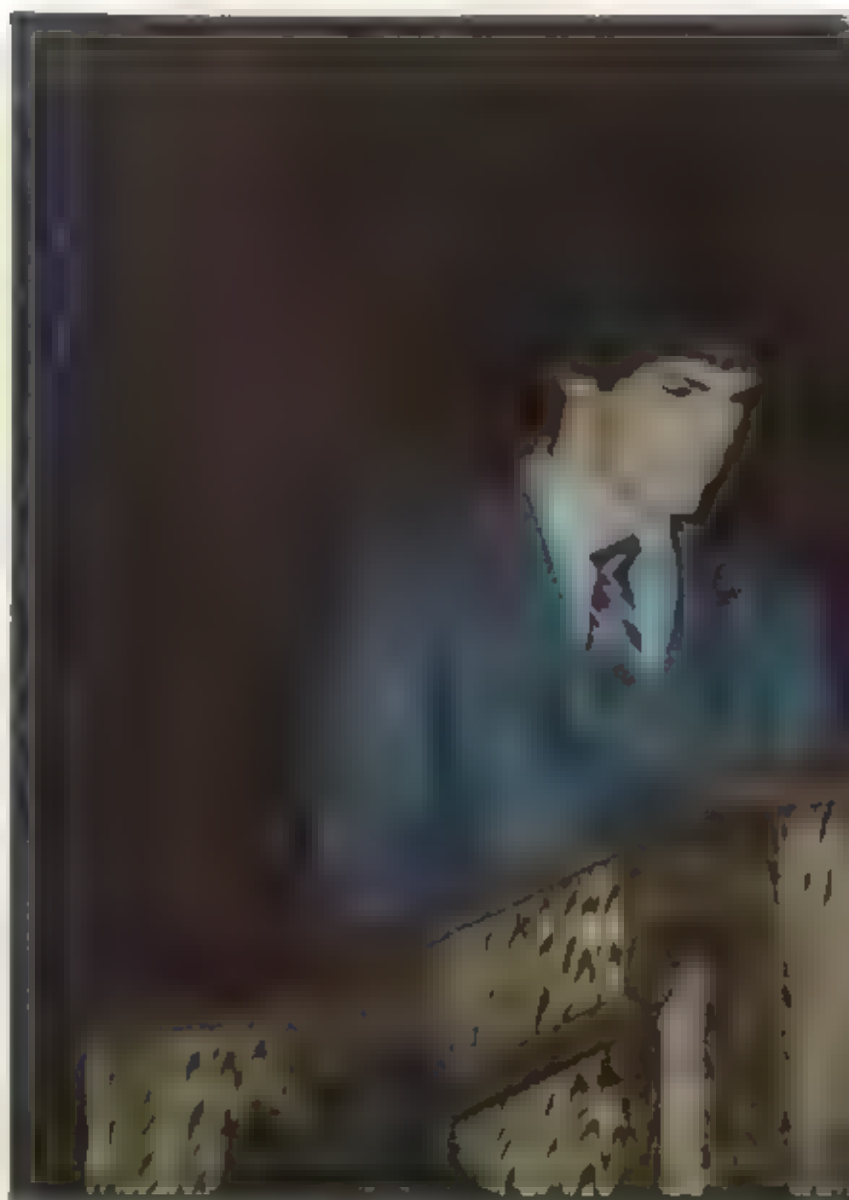

Junior royalty included Prince Robert Underwood and Princess Janet Abernathy. Shelly Wolf and Brad Chapman were named class favorites. Mark Francis was chosen most handsome junior and Debbue McCright was chosen most beautiful.

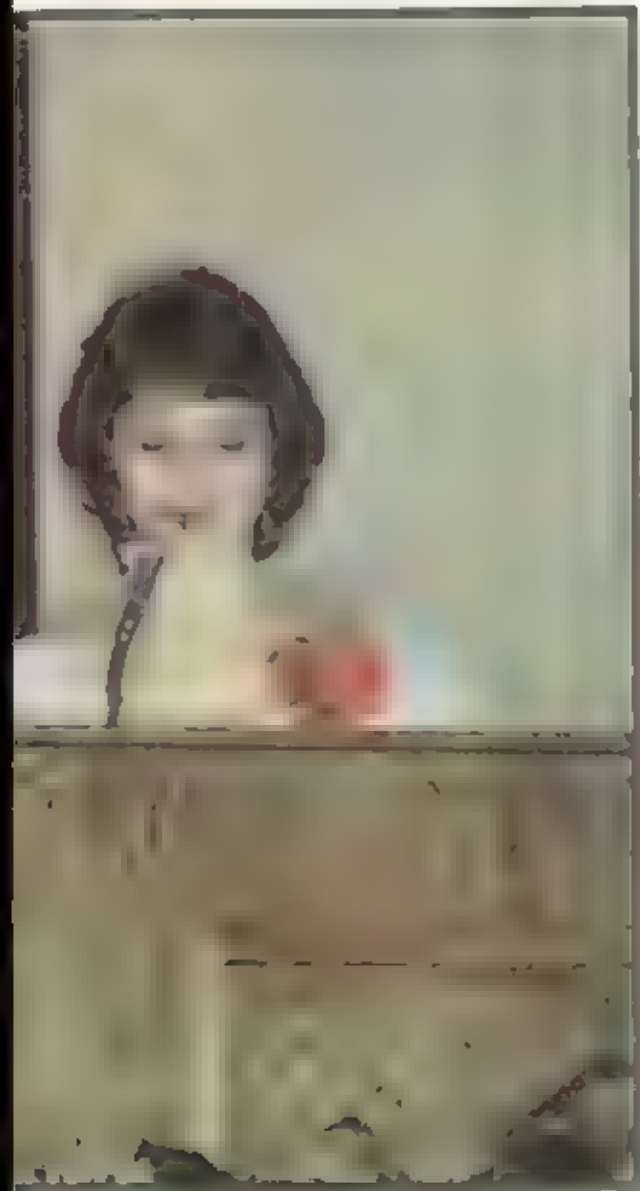

Sophomores Randy Johnson and Stacy Zinn were honored as Duke and Duchess. Class favorites were Andy Brewer and Diana Weaver; Kristy Bell and Steve Shaver were elected most beautiful and most handsome.

Freshman honors were received by Lord Robert Eddy and Lady Noel Werner. Favorite girl was Cheryl Glenn, who was accompanied by favorite Major Greene. Karen Sarratt and Scott Henley were chosen most beautiful and most handsome.

Valentine's dance

The Valentine dance, sponsored by the National Honor Society, was held as a fund raiser on the east campus from 7 p.m. until after midnight

"It was a pretty profitable fund raiser," said NHS secretary Shannon Smithey. "We had a good turn out, and everyone seemed to have a good time."

"It could have been a lot better," said senior Cathy Chapman. "It seemed like everyone there was a freshman. You could tell because there were a lot of people and hardly any cars. It was your average school sponsored dance."

"I had a good time," said Jennifer Ahlfinger. "It started off a little slow, but things picked up later in the evening. I didn't like the fact that you couldn't leave and then come back. That was a big hassle."

ALL OUT COUNTRY — A few students show much interest in doing the Cotton-Eyed Joe

SWAYING TO THE MUSIC — Slow dancing are Brian Mabry and Martha Songayllo

THE CLOSER THE BETTER — Sherri Todd and Todd Vick stay close at the Valentine Dance

Ambassadors tour ruins

Exploring ruins, touring ancient buildings, eating in exotic restaurants, and dining on equally exotic food was a daily experience for Duncanville's foreign ambassadors

Each year, the DHS foreign language students travel to different parts of the world over Easter break

"Greece was exciting," said Latin student Scott Lord "The country is totally different from anything in the United States. It gives you a funny feeling to be walking and sitting in the same places that kings and generals walked centuries ago. I wouldn't have missed the experience for anything."

"I didn't realize until I made this trip how different people in Europe were," said French student Cheryl Self. "It was interesting to see people walking around or going to work and think how weird they would think the United States was. I also didn't realize how much I have to learn about French."

"France was totally different," said Sally Utt. "I wish the United States was a little more like France. It has a very pleasant atmosphere to it. But it was nice to get home again. You don't think about how much you have until you don't have it with you."

"I'm glad I had a chance to see Greece," said Robert McAnally. "There is a lot of history and mythology that comes from Greece. But until you see Greece and the ruins and temples and monuments, you don't have any idea what that mythology meant to the Greeks when they lived. Everything was very impressive."

RUINS — Robert McAnally, Scott Lord, and Rob Emrich explore the ruins at Corinth

NAP TIME — Mike Schindler takes a snooze on the trip to MachuPicchu

FRENCH PEDDLER — Suzette Symanski and Lynn McHargue attempt to buy a rose to give Mrs. Jeanne Cothran in Brussels

TRAIN RIDE — Kelly Wolf wakes up after a long ride back to Cuzco in Peru

GREECE — Latin students explore the Acropolis

Groups see cultures

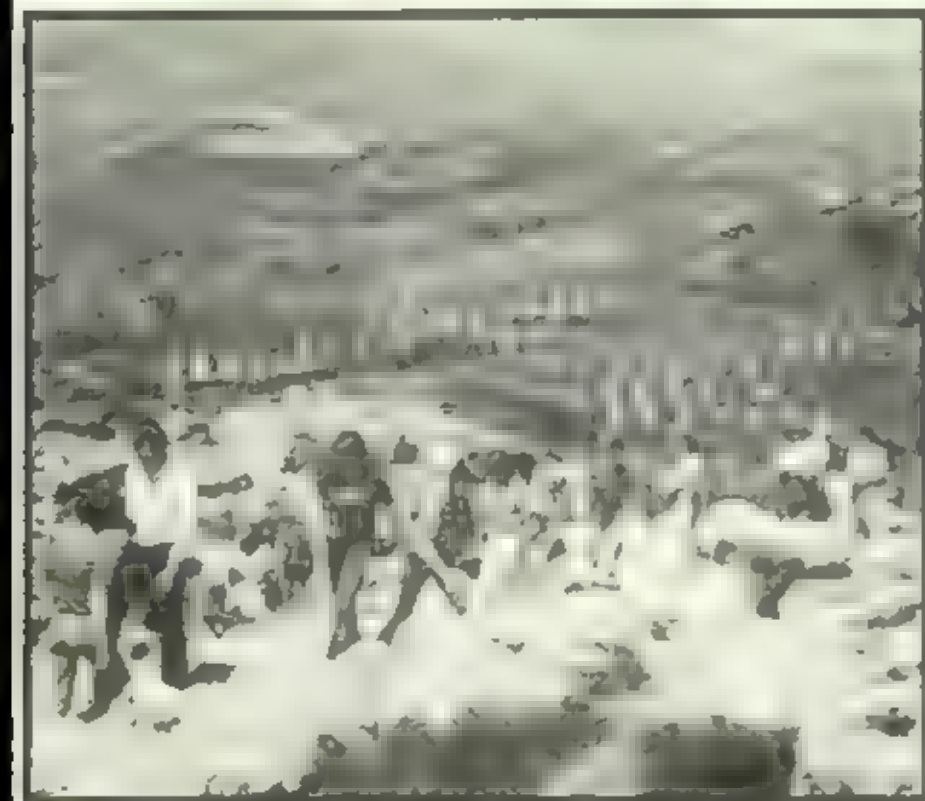

Although sometimes troubled by bad weather, currency problems, and less than desirable food, foreign travel students enjoyed an opportunity to learn more about different cultures and to practice and experiment with the languages they had been studying out of textbooks all year.

"Some places were so different from the United States that they looked like something out of a fairytale," said Tina Descipolo, junior. "The clothing styles, architecture, shops, and even the food and hotels are really different. It is something everyone should experience."

"I liked seeing places up close that you only see in pictures, movies, and postcards," said Steve Ockles.

Several trips were dampened by bad weather. "It rained the whole time we were in Germany," said Dana Fletcher. "It never stopped while we were there. The day we left for the States, the sun shone."

"Traveling in South America makes you appreciate living in the United States," said Debbie Rosser. "I never realized what real poverty was until I made this trip. I wouldn't have missed it though. The scenery is unmatched, and the history is really interesting."

Seniors visit Austin

On Wednesday, March 23, 160 seniors visited Austin. The government students, who left school at 5:30 in the morning, were given the opportunity to tour the capital, the Governor's mansion, and the LBJ Library.

Duncanville's Representative Ray Keller and Senator Chet Edwards spoke to the classes while they were in Austin. During the late afternoon the students were allowed to make their own way around town.

Suzi Dunagen said, "The funniest part was meeting the UT basketball coach." Most of the students stayed on the UT campus.

On the field trip Mrs. Sally Adamson said, "Everybody did what they were supposed to do. Except me. But in all, it went fine."

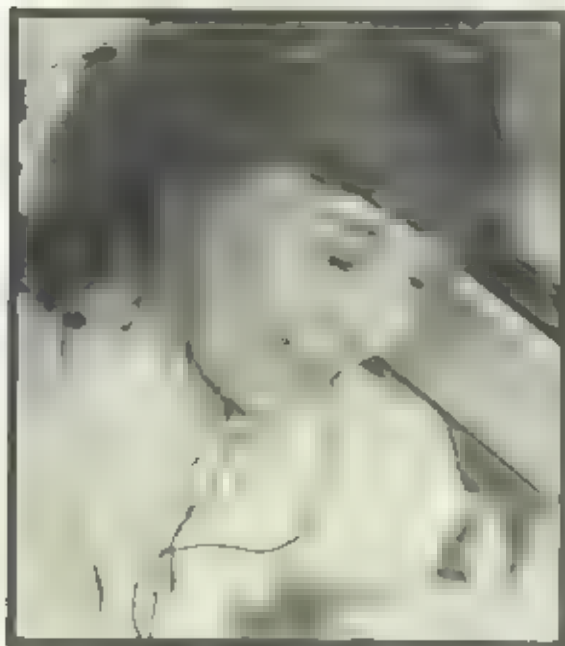

"For me, 4:15 in the morning was a bit early to wake up, but it was worth the trip," said Fran McMillan.

"It was an educational experience," commented Stace Hunt. "I enjoyed seeing the Texas Legislators in action."

Tim Hammer said, "For me, seeing the Texas Supreme Court and the Court of Criminal Appeals was the high point . . . To see the supreme law of our state at work is quite impressive."

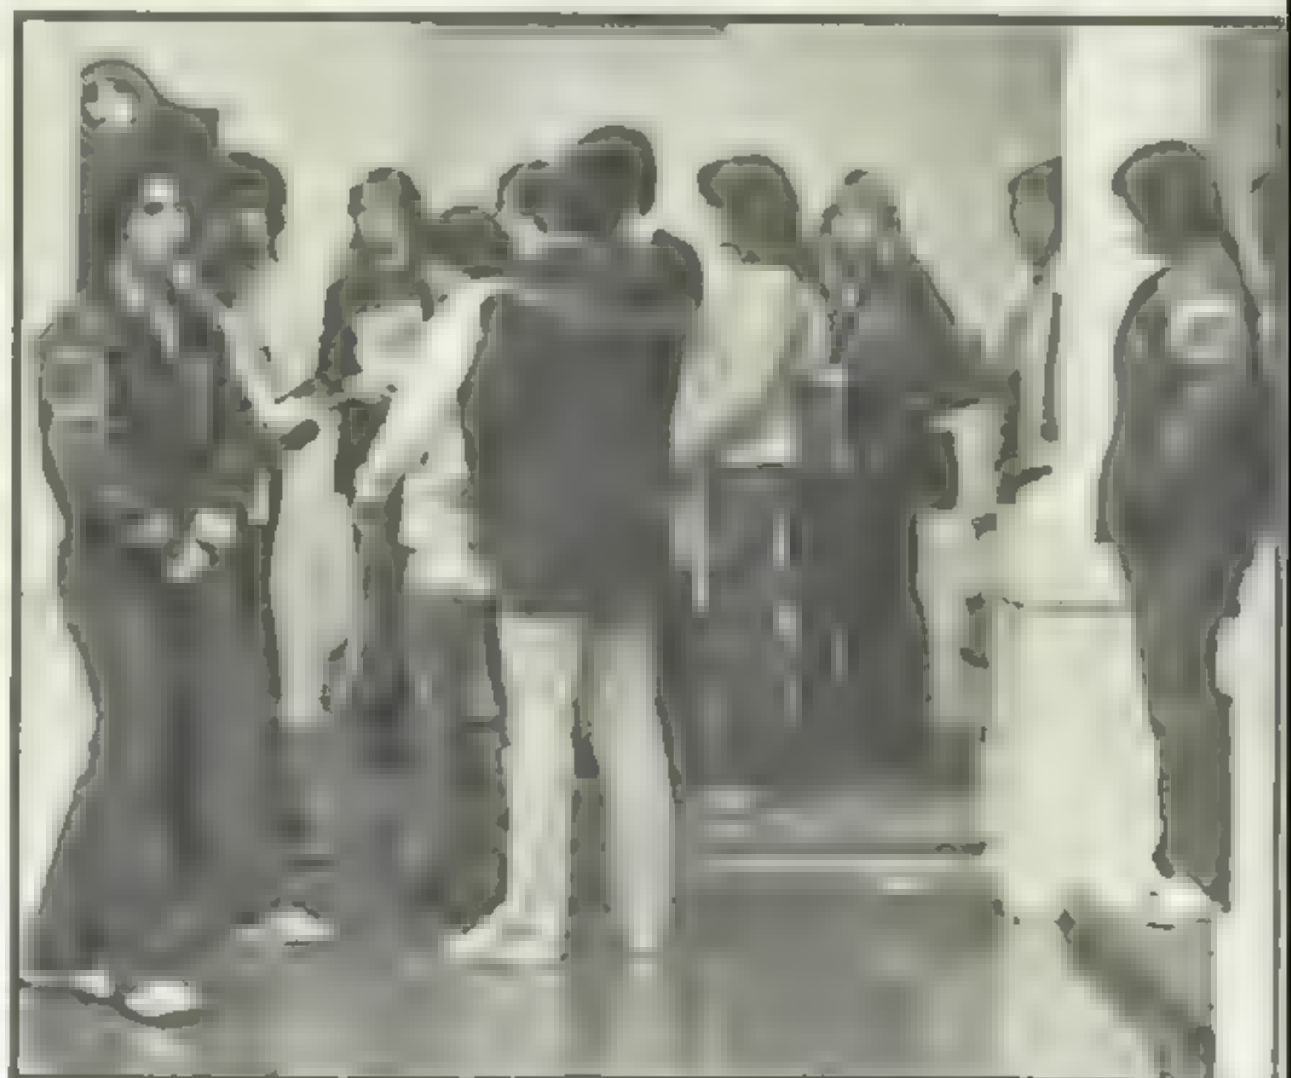

"I enjoyed the debate in the House very much," said Martha Songayilo. "It was disappointing having to leave before the debate was over concerning the wildlife bill."

SENATOR HUNT — Stace Hunt reviews a bill just passed earlier in the day by the State Senate

THRILLED TO DEATH — Chris Bly isn't very energetic after canoeing four teen miles

TAKING IT EASY — Vice Principal Leroy Fisher takes a break while his wife paddles the canoe

Campers canoe on Brazos

The Woods and Waters Club canoe/camping trip was an experience that everyone should have to go through at least once in their lifetime. A trip like this had to be funny. Most of the students on the trip had lived in the city all of their lives. The closest that they had gotten to nature was lighting their fireplaces (with gas jets).

"The trip was pretty good," said junior Jack Hardeman. "Except for the times when there wasn't any water to canoe in or when some people got really stingy with the food, the trip was a lot of fun."

"If some of these people ever got lost in the wild, we might as well give them up for dead," said senior Dru Godwin. "Except for a few people, you could tell that they never got closer to the outdoors than their backyards. It was funnier than heck."

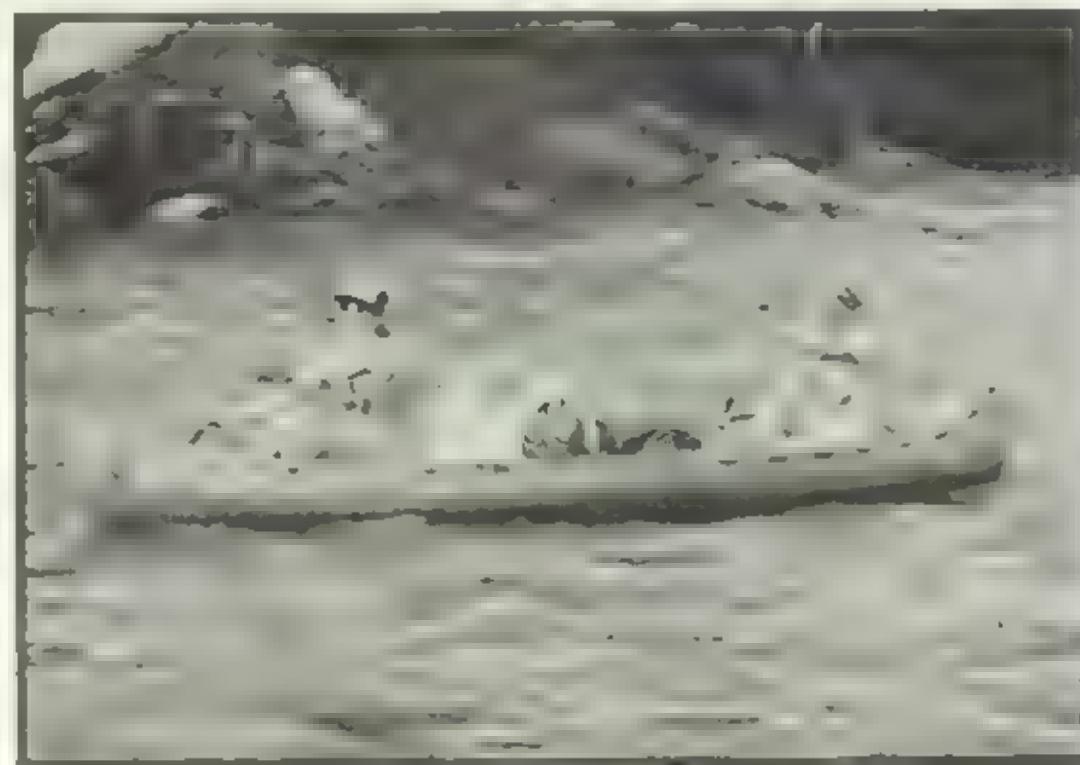

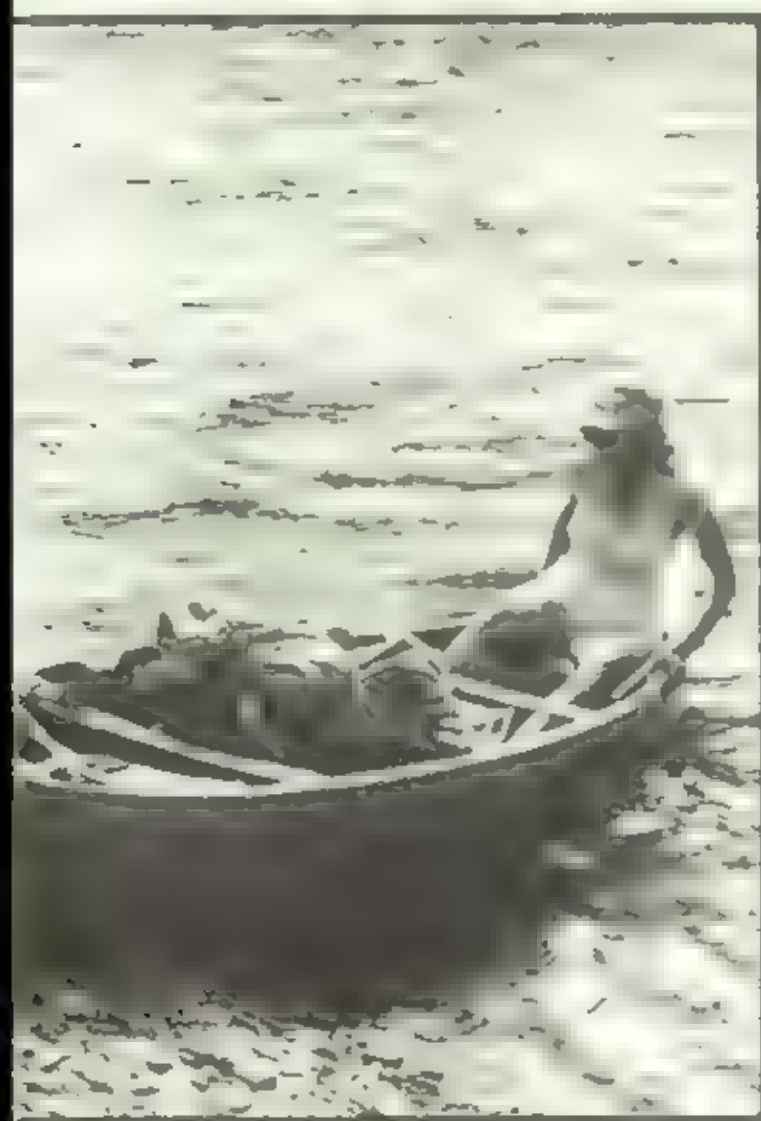

"It feels good to get away from the cars and the concrete every once in a while," said Chris Bly. "I enjoy the chance to get away from the streets and houses and everything. It's amazing how you lose track of time when you're in the woods."

MAN'S BEST FRIEND — Kevin Michael carries the puppy that he took home from the trip

ROUGHING IT — Kevin Mohs, Jack Hardeman, and Kevin Purcell refuse to share their dinner or their campfire with anyone else

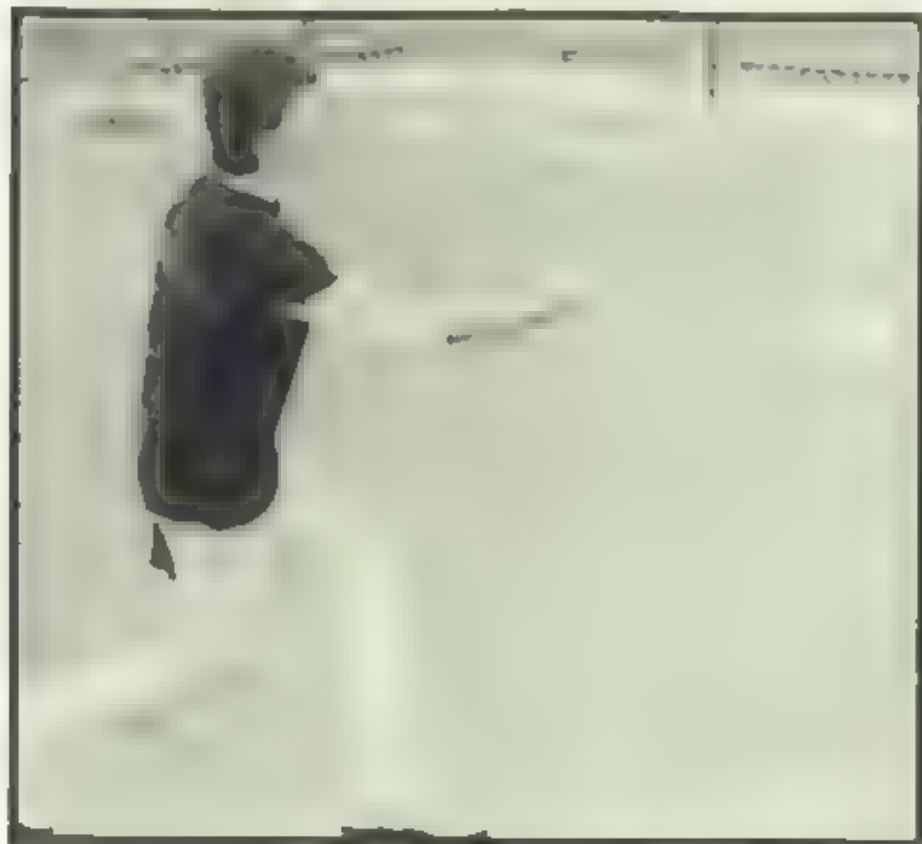

ROW ROW ROW YOUR BOAT — Tracy Discepolo and Kevin Purcell canoe down the Brazos River

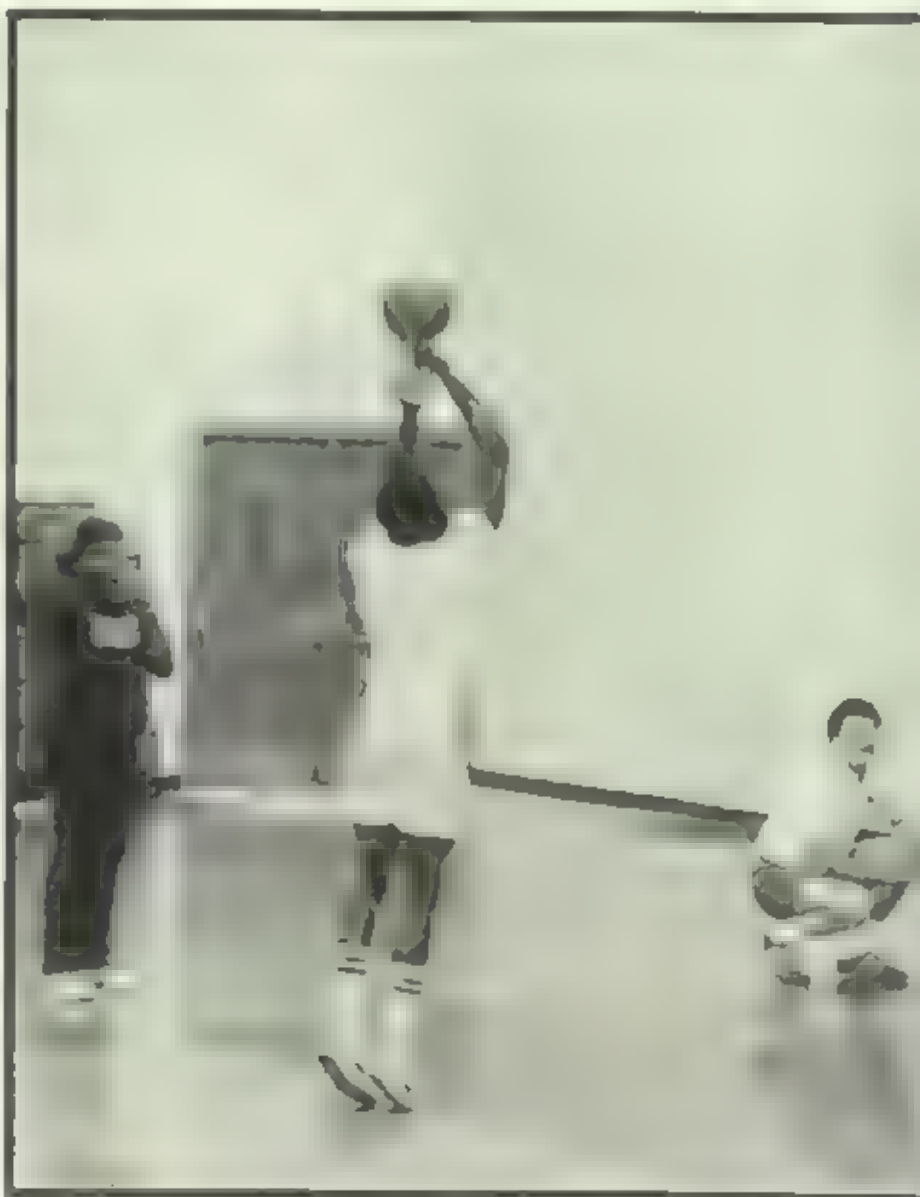

PULL PULL PULL YOUR BOAT — Ms. Kathy Ziehe pulls the canoe with Mrs. Ruth Lavender in it

Playing for laughs

Intramural sports were a rare and welcome break from homework. Usually, intramural games were fun because they were just a few friends out to have a good time

"Intramurals are good because they offer a way to release some energy for people who aren't playing for the school. They are also a good way to get in shape if you haven't done anything all year," said Andy Ballard. "I've played every year. They couldn't win without me."

"They are fun because they're not as organized as school sports and that gives you a little room to fool around," said Randy Johnson. "They're usually a good workout, too. Especially when you're playing with friends. It gets real competitive then."

COED CHAMPS — White lightning softball players Kenny Grimes, Randy Johnson, and Todd Maddox practice before the game begins

FACULTY VS. CHAMPIONS — After being fouled, Mr. James Mitchell shoots his free shots

'We are driven'

Everyone, at one time or another, has fantasized about owning a new, powerful, expensive car. Some Duncanville drivers realized that fantasy. Driving through the parking lot, they were the envy of every student on campus, especially the freshmen, who couldn't even drive yet.

"I am really proud of my car," said Peter Smythe of his Porsche. "I take good care of it and everything, but sometimes you just can't avoid the temptation to show it off."

Kevin Heiland is especially proud of his car, a restored Camaro. "A lot of people take advantage of their cars. When you have a car and put a lot of work into it, you value it a lot more," he said.

"I have always dreamed of owning a 280ZX," said Paula Panaceck. "It's very special to me because it has a lot of personality. Sometimes I catch myself treating it like a person. I'm more careful with it than most people are with their cars."

Dufferball

No one really cared who won, participants just had a good time at the Duffer Marathon softball game.

"It was a lot harder than I ever expected," said Brian Mabry. "We couldn't have kept it up for so long without cheating."

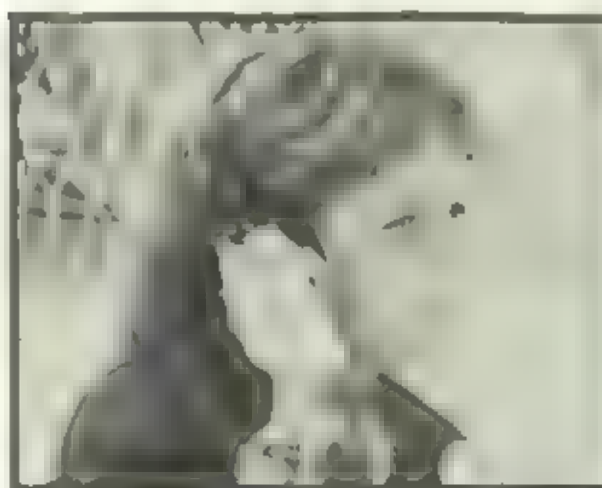

"I proved that I am the best soft ball player in Duffers," said Dru Godwin, short stop. "We all had a good time. It was for a good cause."

"It was too funny to be serious," said Noel Bustamante. "It looked as though we might not have the game for a while. I'm glad we did."

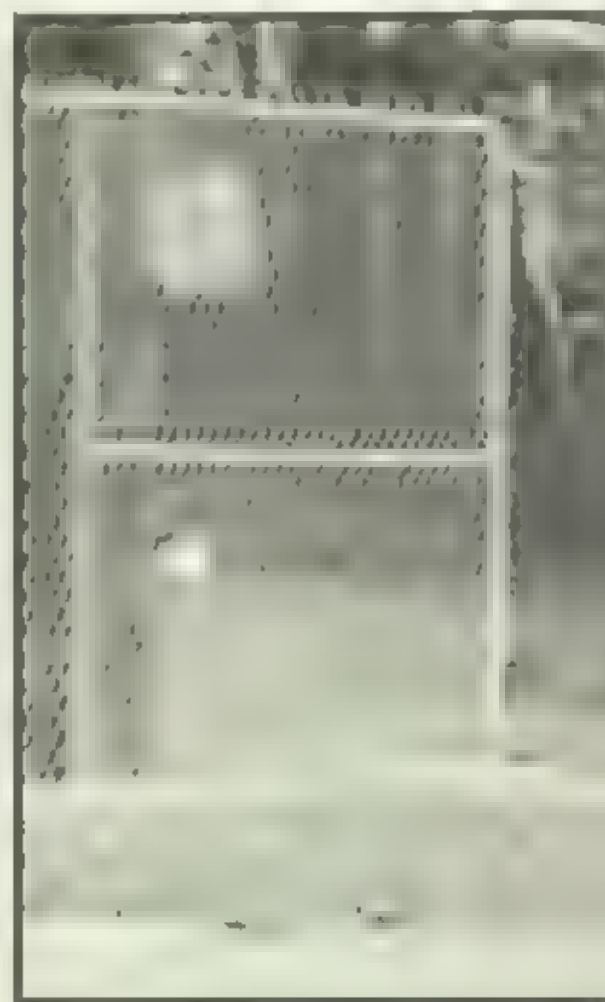

Proceeds from the game went to Duffer Peter Hartgraves who was seriously injured in an auto accident.

SOME DRIVE — Cathy Jackson and Mike McGee take part in the Thespian initiation

"It was pretty humiliating," said Thespian pledge Katrina Thornton. "Having to bow down on your hands and knees in the commons area to kiss a Thespian's foot is embarrassing. But it is all worth it because you get to get them back on Revenge Day."

"They made me do some weird things," said David Roper. "Everyone must have thought that I was a jerk to skip across the parking lot in the rain singing 'Singing in the Rain.' Once you're a Duffer, though, it is all worth it."

"I didn't have to do things as bizarre as the things that the Duffer and Thespian pledges had to do, but I got my share of them," said Victory Belle pledge Barbie Boone. "It's not so bad because everyone knows that you are a pledge, so they don't think that you are really strange."

"By the time pledge week was over with, I was ready to get back at some of the Thespians," said Robin Presley. "The most satisfaction I will get out of it is when I can do the same things to the pledges next year."

On with the show

The Thespian Society had the difficult task of organizing, casting, directing, and producing its own spring play

"'Up the Down Staircase' was a challenge for the Thespians because it was total student input," said society president Cynthia Thornton

We did everything ourselves, with the help of Ms. Durleen Dunham, from acting and directing to building sets and making costumes

It was the perfect play for us," said Chris Coy. "The school atmosphere was comfortable and appealing for our audience

Student director Robin Presley believed that pride was an important factor in the production

Everyone said we couldn't do it," said Presley. "So we pulled together just to show them how much we were capable of. It was a matter of pride. No matter how many difficulties we ran up against, we went on with the show. And we pulled it off."

Banquets highlight year

As the end of the year approached, clubs and organizations from the National Honor Society to VICA and foreign language clubs treated their members to an orgy of food and awards.

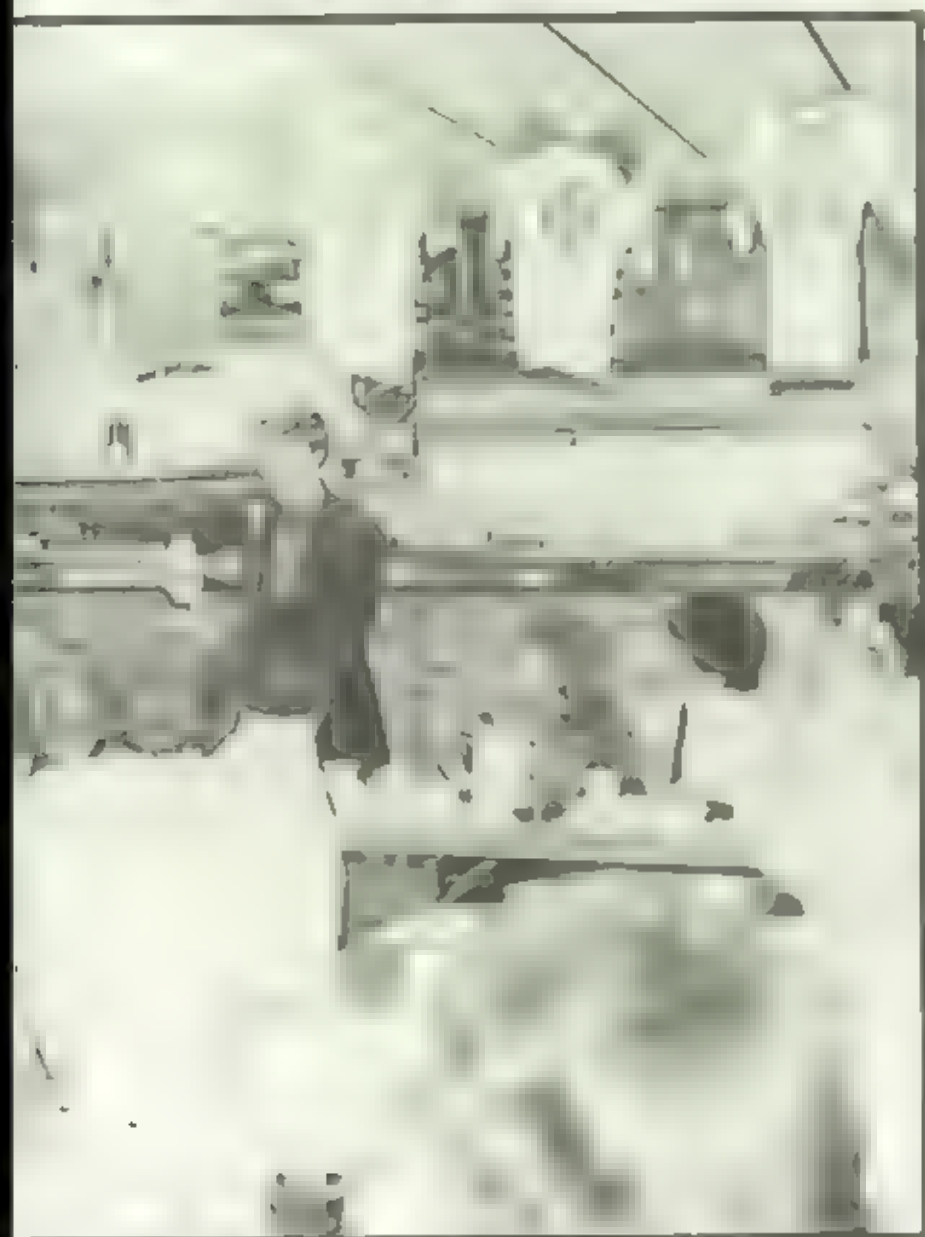

The National Honor Society banquet was held at Southern Kitchen. "We really enjoyed ourselves," said Shannon Smitley. "It was a little expensive, though. Some people probably didn't come because it cost too much. Next year they should hold it somewhere less expensive."

"The choir banquet was great," said Senior Charles Wate. "It's nice to get away from school and have fun with people you see every day in class."

"The publications banquet was unusual," said "Panther Prints" staff member Molly Graddy. "We had our banquet at Mother Tucker's and handed out gag gifts and got to know everyone better. The people on the staffs are really interesting and fun people. I enjoyed it."

"The Student Council banquet was better this year than it usually is," said Jennifer Ahlfinger. "A lot more people came. I think everyone likes to get together once in a while and mess around. Banquets and progressive dinners and things like that make school and clubs a little more fun."

The first annual Duffer banquet was also a success. "The 1983 Duffers will always remember the banquet because it was the first and the best," said Duffer Dru Godwin. "I will always remember it as one of the best parts of my senior year."

Enchanted evening

The anticipation started weeks before the day. "Will I have a date to the prom?" was the big question. Girls searched tirelessly for just the right outfit, while the boys worried endlessly over flowers and dinner. Dallas' most posh and expensive restaurants were booked quickly with reservations. The dinner bill for these exclusive restaurants burnt a terrible hole in the pockets of the crisp, rented tuxedos.

Once at the dance, students settled down for a few hours of dancing and conversation. The formal lasted well into the night, but many students were not ready for the night to end as the last song was played.

In an effort to prolong the evening, formal goers drove to late night dining spots or regrouped at early morning breakfasts.

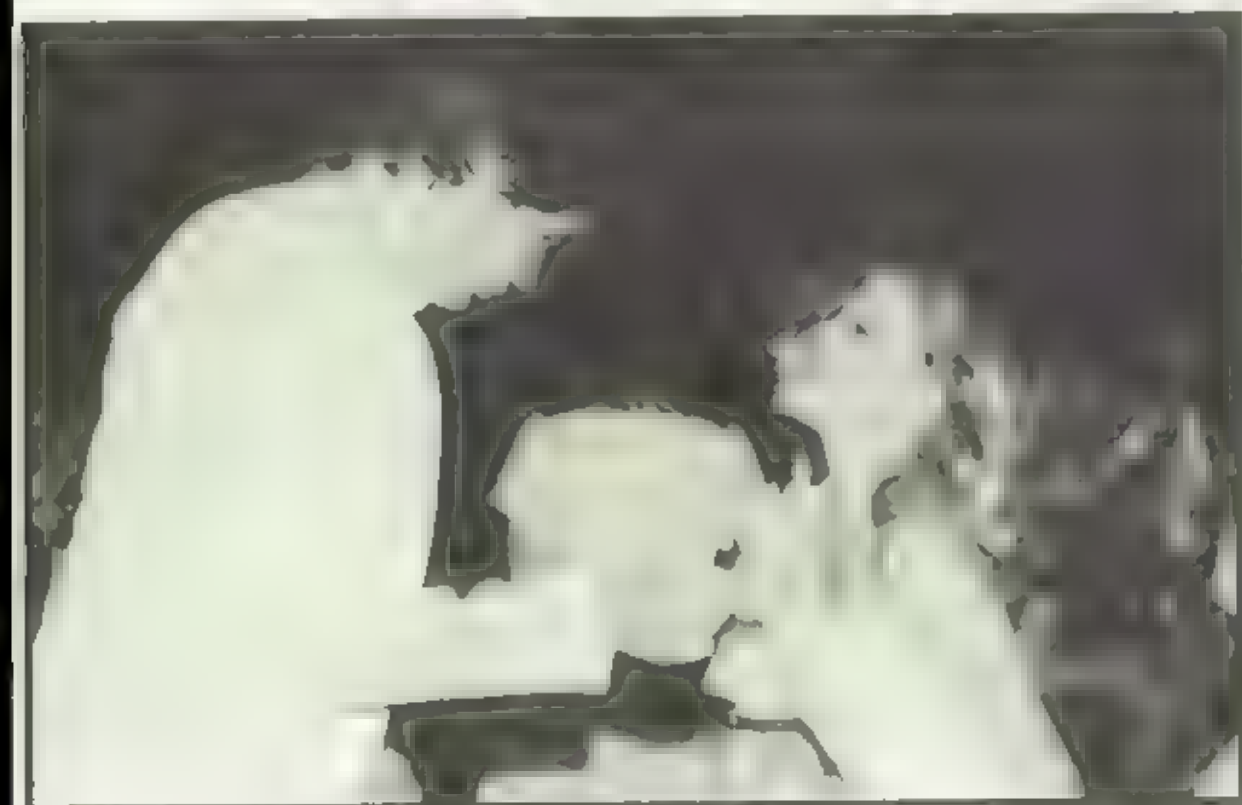

More than just a dance, the prom was a culmination of hopes and dreams — exhausting, enjoyable, and, above all, unforgettable. It gave everyone a chance to fantasize and enjoy the finer things, get dressed up, go out to dinner and act like royalty. Unforgettable.

Honors day assembly lasts all morning

Waiting backstage, diligently gnawing away at their fingernails, Duncanville's outstanding students prepared to be recognized for their accomplishments during the year. As they walked across the stage and listened to their accomplishments being announced to the entire student body, some of these students, undoubtedly, wished that they did not have to parade out in front of 2600 people

Students were not only recognized for awards won during the year, some students were presented with scholarships and awards at the ceremony

The Student Council presented Todd Adkins with the Pete Collins Scholarship for athletic excellence. Both students and faculty members applauded wildly when Jason Boles was named the 1983 Panther Tale dedicatee. Many more students than can possibly be acknowledged here received various awards and scholarships from both school and civic organizations

The fact that Honors Day lasted all morning demonstrated the quality of students at Duncanville High. Each year the ceremony lasts a little longer, and the awards case gets a little more crowded

Honor society members named

Tradition, pomp, and ceremony surrounded the induction of new National Honor Society members. Old members lit the candles for anxious inductees in a ceremony that dates back to the founding of the society.

"Being in NHS isn't just an honor," said inductee David McAlpin. "It serves as initiative to work for higher grades. It's important to be recognized for hard work."

"The thing that is special about NHS is that not just anyone can get in," said Stephen Shipley. "It's an honor."

"It is always important to recognize students for academic achievements," said NHS president Layne Araki. "telling someone that they're doing a good job may help them work hard to keep doing a good job. Helping students set goals for themselves is the purpose of NHS."

"I didn't really understand all of the ceremony," said Jenanne Francis. "I am really honored to be an NHS member, but I think the induction ceremony could be a little shorter."

Top seniors honored

Students and parents filed into the west campus cafeteria for a breakfast honoring the top ten per cent of the graduating class of 1983. The food was up to normal school standards, but most people enjoyed the speeches and conversation anyway.

"I just drank orange juice because the food was yucky," said Cydney Foote. "Our parents were having too much fun, though. This is more for them than for the students."

"My parents had a good time," said Kathy Cedeno. "I had a good time. Most of my friends were there with their parents, too, so it wasn't so bad. Usually parent-teacher type things aren't very exciting."

"I enjoyed the whole thing," said Debbie Witherspoon. "It wasn't a lot of fun or anything like that, but it was a break from class."

Bowling all night

Many people thought that seniors were basically pretty boring people, especially since underclassmen only saw them at school. When they were at school, they dragged themselves from class to class looking very distant, almost as if they were in another dimension.

Now, while the senior class wasn't totally free to express themselves at the Bronco Bowl, they managed to have a good time anyway.

"It was a lot of fun," said Jill Brandenburg. "There was a lot to do and a long time to do it. Even though we had teachers hovering over us the whole time, it was pretty fun."

"It dragged out for a long time," said Debby Blake. "The only reason that it was a lot of fun was because there weren't many people there that stayed the whole night. I slept really good the next day, though. There was one thing that was really great about it: there were no underclassmen!"

HE'S GOT STYLE — After being awake for almost twenty-four hours, Ray Gomez still shows good bowling form.

LIBERATED WOMAN — By the look on Beth Saffle's face she is sure that girls can play pool too

Partying all night

As the night wore on and the strikes became few and far between, the Class of '83 proved they could have a good time under any circumstances. It seemed as though everyone got sillier and sillier with each hour. Even the ones that couldn't bowl, and there were a lot of them, managed to have a good time.

"I had a good time," said Kenny McIntyre. "It looked like everyone who went enjoyed it. I couldn't stay awake to the end, but I'm glad I went."

"I couldn't bowl at all," said Mike Miller. "If we had been playing for money, I would have lost a lot. It would have been a lot better if more people would have gone to it, though."

"It was great. I was pretty embarrassed, though because I kept dropping the ball," said Paige Hendickson. "Our scorekeeper was cheating, too. I should have known better than to think I could bowl."

GUTTER BALL — LizAnn Hast seems to be having a little trouble making her bowling ball go down the center of the lane

Sermon inspires Seniors of 1983

The traditional Baccalaureate service was held on Sunday, May 22, in the auditorium. The day after the service, Dr. Art Douglas praised the Class of 1983 for their outstanding behavior and superior attendance.

The A Cappella Choir, directed by Mr. Darrell Dick, performed at the Ceremony. "I thought the service was excellent," commented Cathy Chapman. "The choir was outstanding. It's funny because in all my four years of high school this is the first time I heard the A Cappella Choir perform."

The Invocation and Benediction were said by the Reverend W. R. Shiflett of the Foursquare Gospel Church. Dr. Larry Nixon from the First Baptist Church delivered the scripture reading; and the Reverend Mel Hammer, father of graduating senior Tim Hammer, gave the sermon.

"I thought the sermon was very inspirational," said Kristi Creamer. "It was definitely worth going to."

FOLLOW THE LEADER — Junior Usher David Roper shows the seniors where to sit in the auditorium before Baccalaureate

SCHOLARSHIP WINNER — Principal Art Douglas and Louise Alexander present Richard Kopesec with a four year scholarship to UTA

SENIOR PERSONALITIES — Stace Hunt and Amy Blalock present the Senior Personal ties at the Walk Day assembly

A HAPPY COUPLE — Keith Martinez and Lynn Smith walk together on Senior Day

Look out world!

Senior Walk Day is a tradition. It gives the seniors one last chance to get up in front of the student body and say, "Hey! Look at me. I'm a senior!" Family, friends, and classmates crowded into the auditorium to witness the long awaited event.

"It was really special," said Paige Pelt. "Not so much walking yourself, but seeing your friends walk. One thing about Walk Day is that you see people walk across the stage that you've never met before. It makes you realize how big this class really is."

"The stage was beautiful," said Stacy Miller. "Everyone did a good job putting the show together. The background music and the flowers and everything were wonderful."

"This was a really special day because some of these people might never wear a tux again," said Charles Wate. "I've never seen some seniors dressed up before. Everyone looked great, though."

"I was hesitant about walking at first, but I'm glad that I did," said David Alexander. "It was a lot of fun."

SMILE BIG — Angela Bryant is escorted by Mike Harrison.

PRETTY AS A PICTURE — Carol Rochelle walks with Chad Beach.

"IT MIGHT BE YOU" — Jenny Patterson performs at Senior Day.

Playing dress up

It was nice to get dressed up and parade around," said Kristi Creamer. "I took a lot of pictures and we had a lot of fun talking about what people were wearing. This Walk Day was the best I've seen since I've been here."

TIME TO GO — Robert Owens, Larry Osteen, and Robin Owens get ready to walk down to the lower level of Texas Stadium.

SCHOOL SONG — Graduates sing the Alma Mater for the last time together as a class

EASY ENOUGH — After receiving the cover, Timmy Thrash walks down from the stage to accept his diploma

Seniors achieve goal on graduation night

Four years was a long time to work towards one goal. But once the seniors had made it, graduation was a thrill

"We sat there in our assigned seats at the ceremony and looked at the program they gave us with all the graduates' names in it. Sometimes we couldn't even recognize a name or a face when that person walked across the stage," said graduate Wendy Seaman. "It made me think of all the time I could have made a new friend, but didn't."

"We were so anxious to get out, and now that we are, it seems like it all happened so fast," said Shannon Monthooth. "When we were freshmen, the seniors seemed so old and grown up, like they really had their acts together. I wonder if the freshmen think the same thing about us."

"It made me sad to think of all the friends I won't see anymore," said Sandi McRorey, "the ones who were moving or who would be gone all summer and then go off to college in the fall. But even though we'll miss each other, we can hardly wait to get off on our own."

"I'm just glad it's finally over," said Jeff Seutter.

AT LAST — Happy graduates move their tassels from the right side of their cap to the left as a sign that they are no longer seniors

WARM WELCOME — After surviving a near fatal car accident, Peter Hartgraves receives congratulations from Dr. Art Douglas.

Grads get diplomas

With cap and gown in hand, the seniors marched proudly into Texas Stadium for one of the most memorable days of their lives. Anticipation filled the halls as they lined up to go downstairs for the ceremony. Laughs, jokes, and cameras were seen and heard everywhere.

The class was patiently waiting for the big moment. It seemed as though everyone had something to say: Salutatorian, Valedictorian, Dr. Art Douglas, Dr. Sam Thompson . . . Then, finally, the graduates began walking across the stage. Proudly depositing a quarter in Dr. Douglas' hand as they received their empty diploma folder, they stopped to have their picture taken, and then went to sit down, wondering what to do next. Now that the moment they had worked towards for four years had come and gone, no one knew quite how to feel. Happy? Sad? Proud? Relieved?

The seniors, rather, graduates, marched up the aisle and out of Texas Stadium. Teary-eyed farewells filled the parking lot after it was all over. They walked out of Texas Stadium and into a new life, with a short detour to a few parties, that is.

SENIOR ANTICIPATION — Chorus members wait for seniors to be seated in order to begin the ceremony.

EXCITEMENT — Vice-President of the school board Joe Davis congratulates his daughter Karen Davis

THANK YOU! — Odell Ferguson gives Mrs. Barbara Clark a smile as a sign of relief

LINE UP — Seniors receive their programs prior to filing into the stadium

CONGRATULATIONS — Addressing the seniors on behalf of the Board of Trustees is Doyce Smith

New courses added

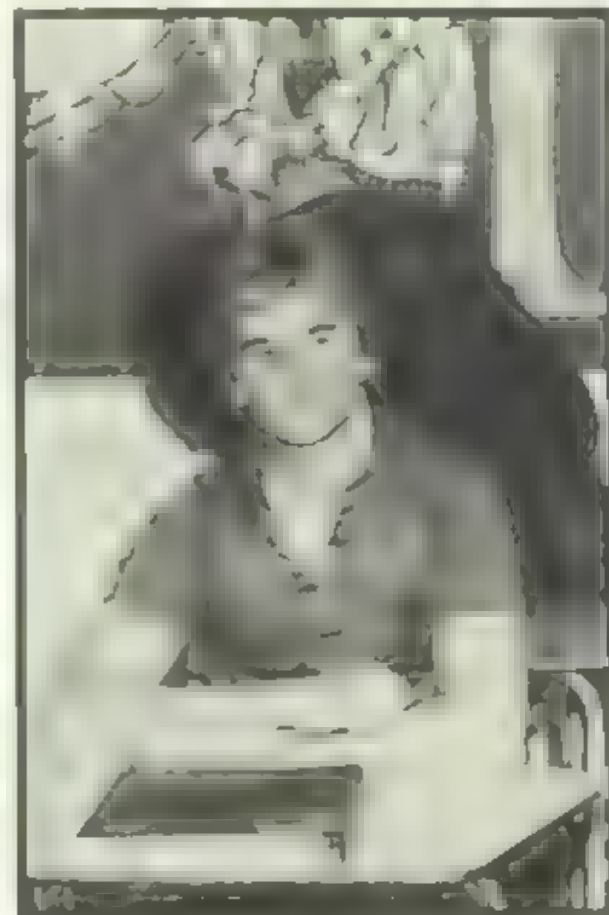

To meet a growing prominence of computers in modern society, Duncanville added a semester-long computer programming course

In the class, taught by Mrs. Carol Smith and Mr. Lloyd Henke, students learned programming by using the BASIC (Beginners All-Purpose Instruction Code) language and fourteen Apple II computers

"The limits of the computer are only bound by the ability of the operator," said Mrs. Smith. "A computer will be capable of anything the programmer is capable of programming, just all sorts of things."

Another semester course added was Texas History. The class discussed, in more detail, facts learned in the seventh grade Texas history class.

Both the computer literacy and the Texas History classes were well received. The computer literacy class was "turning people away," according to Mrs. Smith. Seven sections of the course were taught both semesters. Students who took the course this year are eligible to take the full year course next year

LEARNING EXPERIENCE — Speaker of the House Zane Shepherd gives his introductory speech to students in Mrs. Ruth Lavender's fifth period government class

Napoli government imitates Congress

"I believe it is much easier for students to learn by doing rather than reading about the legislature," said Miss Kathy Ziehe, government teacher. "The legislative and judicial branch of our government lend themselves very well to some of that hands-on experience."

Napoli required a great deal of study and research. "In the U.S. Congress, much research is involved," said Ms. Ziehe. "We tried to duplicate that as much as possible."

"It's (Napoli) really a lot more interesting than sitting in a classroom," said Susie Dunagan. "It usually takes a great deal of time to prepare for them, but I enjoyed it."

"It's exciting to watch people get in arguments and get emotional about Napoli," said Bryan Haddock.

"Napoli and the trials make government bearable," said Camie Cox. "I didn't think I was going to like government, but the mock government made it worthwhile."

Narcs, drug dealers heard in ABS courts

Eight students were put on trial for the buying and selling of uppers in November

Approximately eighty students participated in the five day mock trials which were held in Mrs. Bettie Reichart's Advanced Business classes. Because there was no script, students had to research their roles at law libraries and do their own preparations

"The most difficult part of the trial was the preparation of what you were going to say," said Lee Last "Then when you say something you don't know what the lawyer is going to say. You have to come up, within minutes, of something that will tear his arguments up."

"What I gained most from the trial was that I decided I wanted to be a lawyer for sure," said Robert McAnally

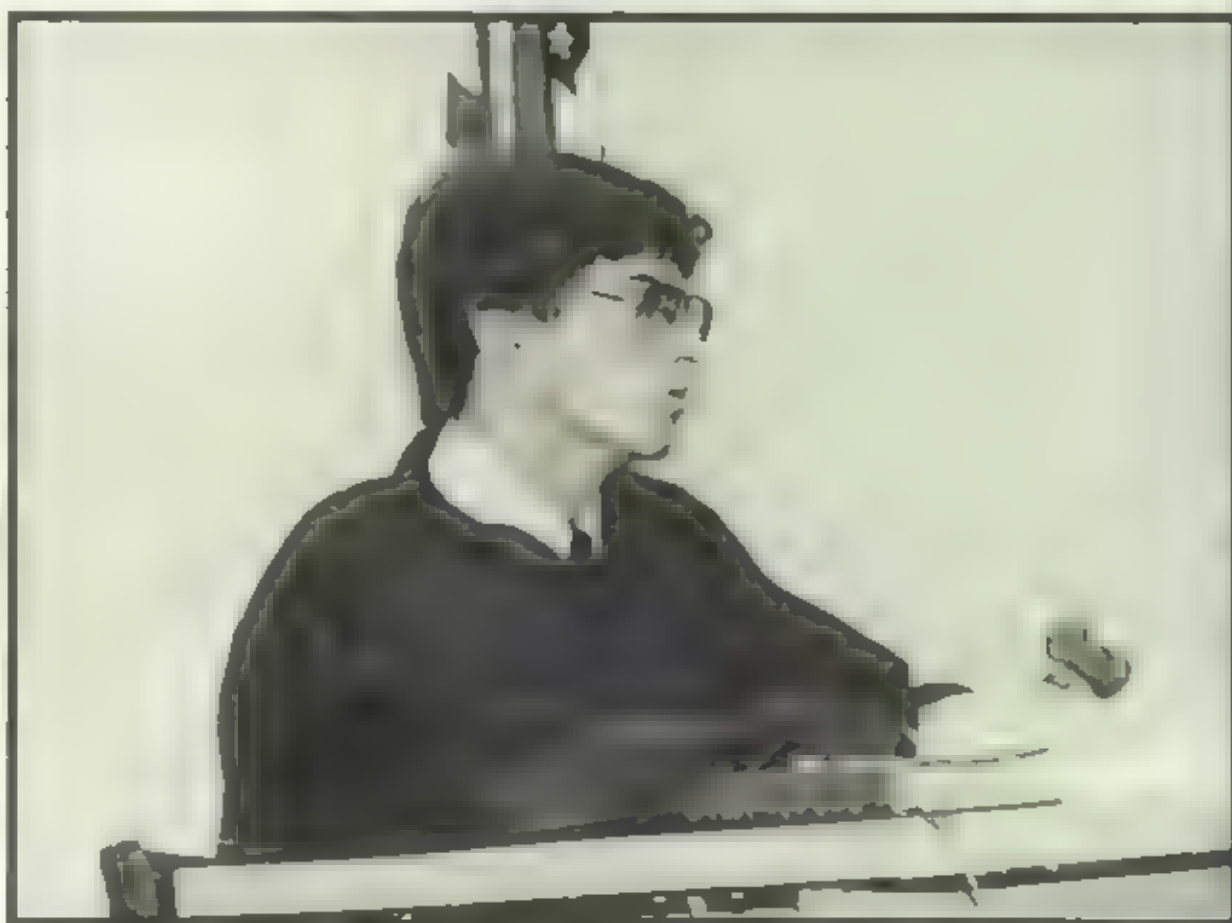

"The thing I enjoyed most about our Advanced Business trial was the reality of those five intense days," said Don Radeke. "I felt a true responsibility not only to the grade I was to receive, but also to my clients

The purpose of the unit was to teach the procedure of a trial. "The best preparation leads to the best performance," said Mrs. Reichart

Government trials

"To me, the role-playing is fun, yet an interesting way to learn more about what we've been studying. It also gives us a chance to argue about controversial topics without getting in trouble," said Tim Hammer, senior, about the government mock trials.

In addition to four lawyers, each class had a judge, a jury, witnesses, a bailiff, and a stenographer.

"What's so nice about the trials is that everyone has a role," said senior Kevin Mohs. "They give us an opportunity to learn what a courtroom is really like."

This year, the classes tried a negligent manslaughter case involving a DWI. Preparation included selection of the jury and questioning witnesses. Each case took three to five days.

"Unfortunately, we can't devote as much time to the trials as students would like," said Mrs. Barbara Lisk.

Speakers entertain

Not only are guest speakers informative and educational, they offer a welcome alternative to the textbook exercises and morning lectures heard by half-awake students.

Journalism I students were visited by such public figures as radio personalities John Rhody and Mike Rhyner; Partner's owner Cincy Powell; Cowboy's specialty-teams' coach Alan Lowry; "Dallas Times Herald" sports columnist Skip Bayless; channel 8 movie reviewer Jane Horowitz, and many others.

Government classes listened intently to lawyers and policemen throughout the year. American history classes participated in a heated, emotional, and highly controversial class discussion with two alleged Russian military officers touring the country.

"The sessions with the Russians left students confused, angry, and possibly more appreciative of the American system of government," said junior June Odom. "It was probably the most exciting thing that happened in American history all year."

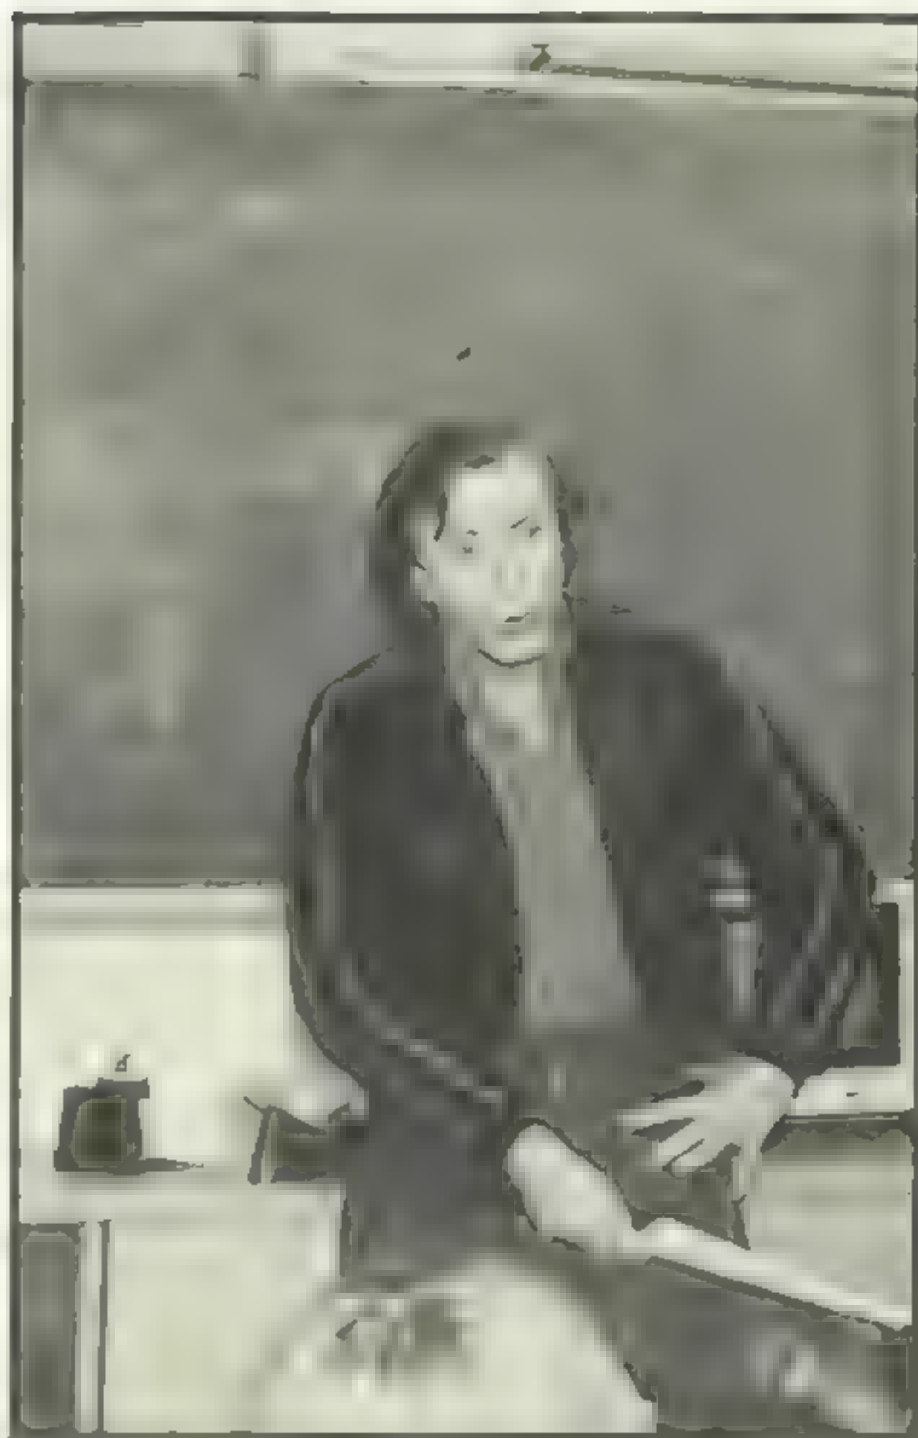

"Guest speakers really help break up the monotony of the class," said junior Jill Berryman. "We had a lot of interesting people in JI. We learned a lot about interviewing, as well as about careers in the media."

ACTOR — Adam Roark, star of the "Stuntman," tells drama classes about the new studio he has opened in Arlington.

PARTNERS — Cincy Powell, half owner of Partners Restaurant, tells how expensive it is to own a business.

KZEW — John Rhody and Mike Rhyner, two DJ's from KZEW, talk about the music business.

ARMY ACTORS — Russian impersonators, Sgt. Vladimir I. Ulanov and Major Dimitri A. Kliminski presents the awareness program to the American History classes

$1 million library opens in October

Although the new library ran over budget and was finished several weeks after school started, the wait was well worth it.

"The new library is a great improvement over the old one," said junior Denette Whitter. "The improved facilities were a great asset to me while I was working on my research paper. It is also helpful to have a well equipped library open at night."

"It is a really pretty library," said Tammy Kent, senior. "It's such a pleasant environment to work in, and the librarians are really helpful."

"It's a lot better than the public library," said Jack Hardeman, junior. "It has more than everything you might need for research and plenty of good entertaining books too."

"Everything is too spread out," said sophomore Mark Forward. "You have to go from one end of the library to the other for a book. It also takes too much time to find books, but I guess it's better than the old library."

Students produce annual, newspaper

Annual and newspaper staff were never what anyone expected. Between the jokes and the arguments, they even managed to get a little work done.

"I'll never forget the time that Mrs. Pulliam came to class and told us that she and her husband had hit a cow the night before," said Deitri Bastas. "I called them Elsie killers for the rest of the year."

"Cathy Chapman had more fun than anybody, but the people on the staff made the year special," said Wendy Seaman.

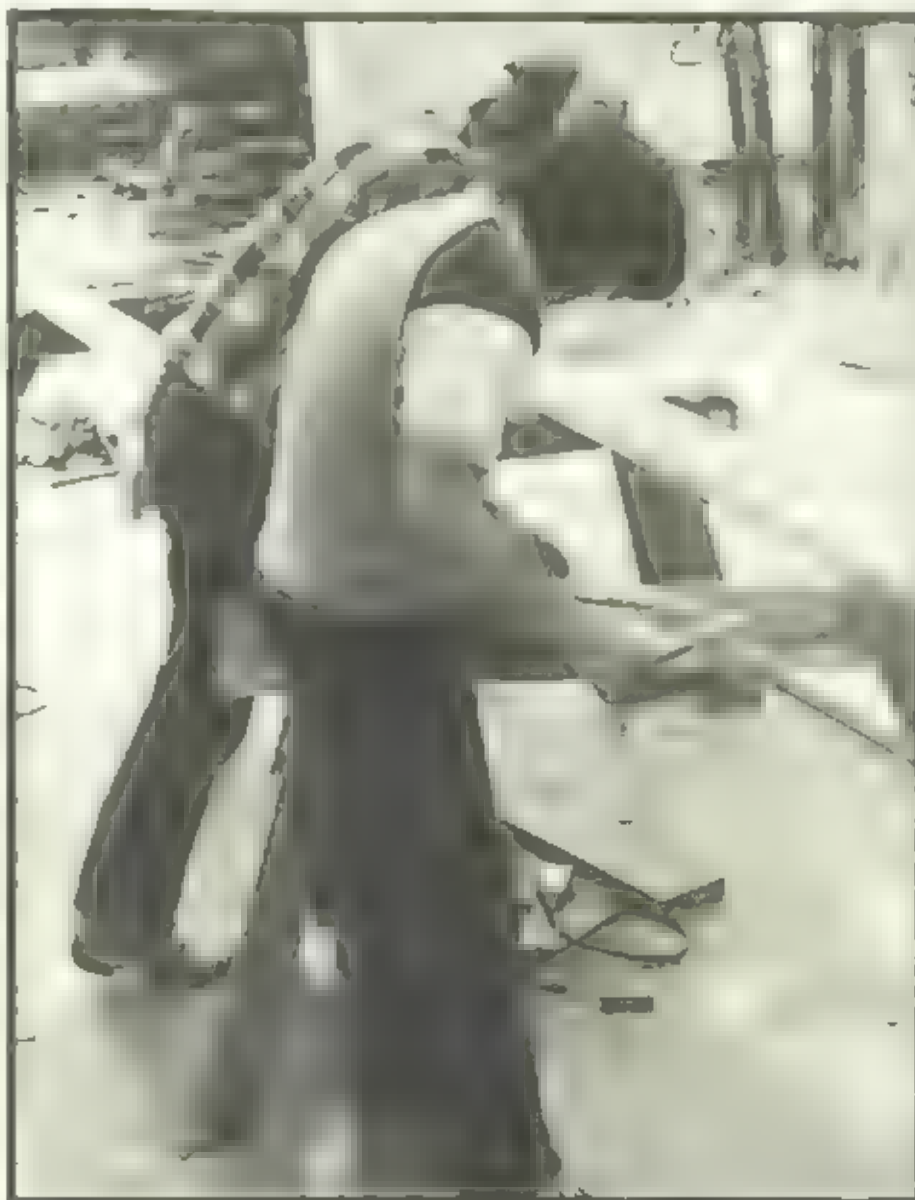

"I remember Wendy Seaman and Cathy Chapman jumping around and singing 'I Think I'm in Love'," said Cydney Foote. "It was late at night, and we were all tired."

"I feel that annual staff has prepared me for better job opportunities such as scientist," joked Stace Hunt. "Without annual staff, I think that I would be in serious trouble in the future."

FUND RAISER — The Ag members enthusiastically unload the yearly shipment of fruit

Vocational classes

Almost 1600 students, including over seventy per-cent of the Senior Class, were enrolled in vocational classes, making the vocational department the largest in the school

Students enrolled in such classes as agriculture, printing trades, auto body, auto mechanics, cosmetology, and building trades were given valuable experience through classroom activities, labs, projects, guest speakers, and contests.

They also received valuable hands-on experience through jobs provided by the vocational job-placement counselor. Many students arrived late or left early to go to a school sponsored job.

"The vocational department offers a chance for students who will not attend college after high school to get some job experience," said Ladayne Johnson, vocational coordinator. "It helps them to get a head start on students from other high schools who will not have this advantage."

COSMETOLOGY — Sandy Luther and Sandra Ortiz prepare a customer for a haircut in cosmetology.

ENGINES — James Duncan and Greg Loving check out bat-tery cables in auto mechanics class

The proverbial vows

A week of preparation led to the big event, the wedding. Six different brides and grooms went through the motions of taking the proverbial vows and then continued with an elaborate reception.

"It was a good experience," said Jill Brandenburg. "There was a lot of guys in the class that felt they wouldn't learn anything from this. They thought it was a silly adventure. After the wedding, everyone felt they had really gained something important."

"I was so nervous. I couldn't remember what I was supposed to do with the ring," said Brad Cadwallader.

"It was a lot of fun," said Kim Berg. "You learn what it is like to stand up in front of everyone and get married, as well as traditions and costs. It was really an experience picking out a dress and everything."

Labs: an alternative

Dissecting fetal pigs and working with poisonous gases may sound unpleasant to some, but to students enrolled in science classes, labs and experiments provided a pleasant alternative to the usual classwork, reading, lectures and tests

Classes like physical science, biology, chemistry, and physics were often the subject of conversation when the classes were working on experiments

"Experiments are a break in the regular classwork," said junior Robin Presley. "My lab partner and I have fun doing them, even though we sometimes end up staying after school until 4:00 trying to finish it. Our favorite trick is getting halfway through the lab, messing up, and then having to start from the beginning."

"Labs are more interesting because they give me a chance to apply what I have learned," said Jeremy Stephens. "When you go into the professional world, you're not going to make your living by doing exercises out of a book

"Some of the labs that we do are pretty disgusting," said Kim Meador. "Dissecting frogs and worms and things like that is a great way to start off the day. I felt like I had frog juice on my hands for the rest of the day."

"Labs are usually a lot harder than bookwork because they require more interpretation," said sophomore Mark Forward

EXPERIMENT — Mark Livingston is displacing water with gas as part of a chemistry experiment

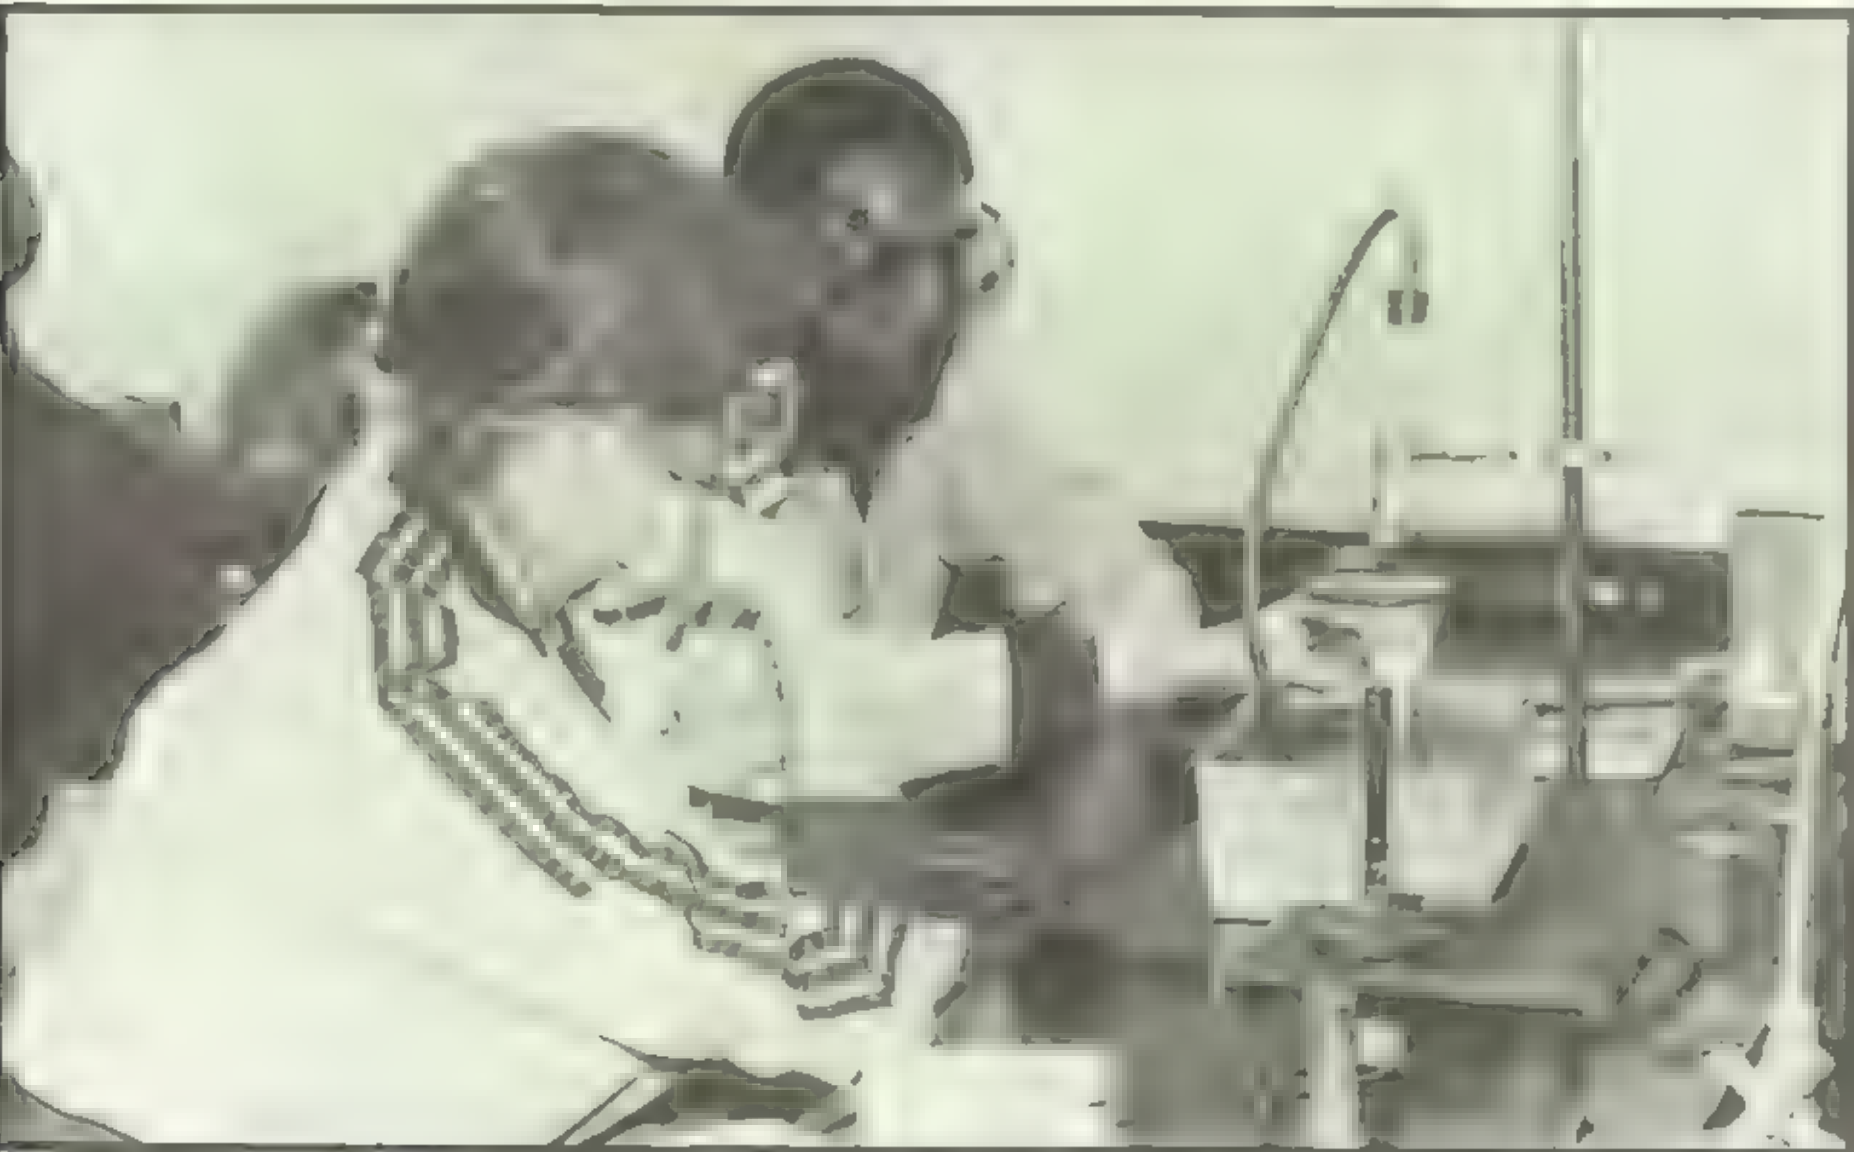

GAG ME WITH A SCALPEL — Lab partners Rhonda Cooper and Kim Meador identify the internal parts of a frog during a biology lab

LAST CHANCE — Stacy Simmons and Michelle Ragland resort to studying their notes in class.

TEAMWORK — Freshman Major Greene sits back and observes the procedures while Paige Gibson finishes their lab in IPS

On-the-job training

When the 3:00 bell rang, most students went home to watch soap operas, talk on the telephone, sleep, and pig out. Some industrious students continued their education after school.

On the job training not only paid more than going to high school, it also provided valuable experience and taught responsibility. These same industrious students often found themselves dragging in late at night to begin studying for tomorrow's test.

"I really enjoy working," said Misty Stewart. "Not just for the money, even though that's important too, but because I have made a lot of new friends. It's nice to have money of your own that you can spend on whatever you want."

"I like having a job because I don't like just sitting at home," said Kasey Williams. "It gives me something constructive to do with my spare time, and it also gives me some extra money that I can spend however I want to. Working with people isn't always fun because some people are real jerks, but otherwise, I have a lot of fun."

HEMINGWAY — Doing research, Eddie Clements finds many different ways to locate information on his research paper

LOCATE INFO — Dani Jackson shows a sign of relief as she discovers information concerning her topic

Term paper research

As the end of the year approached, students reluctantly set out to research and write their term papers. Thesis statements, deadlines, notecards and infinite stacks of library books became as much a part of the student's life as food and weekends

The term paper itself is not really that difficult to write. It's the time, work, and research that you have to put into it that makes it hard," said senior Derrin Bastas

The term papers we do give us the experience that we need to do research papers in college," said junior Denette Whitter. "It is a lot of work and everything, but it's usually an easy 'A' for me

They take a lot of patience," said Jack Hardeman, junior. "They improve our literary skills as well and give us the experience we need to do the term papers we do in college. The note cards are a hassle, though. I can take notes just as well on notebook paper

Sugar and spice

Every Tuesday and Thursday, a line could be found forming outside the COPE classroom on the east campus.

Money earned from the sale of cookies, cakes, brownies, and candy helped pay for COPE field trips and activities such as the Special Olympics and the New Mexico skiing trip.

"Our students enjoy baking the cookies," said Mrs. Brenda Banks, COPE teacher. "Making cookies lets the students help pay for part of their activities and trips. This really gives them a sense of accomplishment."

The sales met with great success, according to Mrs. Banks. There was usually still a line of students waiting outside the COPE classroom after lunch was over.

"It's a real treat to have something hot and fresh to eat that doesn't taste like soybeans and water," said Laura Oswald. "I usually buy two or three cookies and munch down on them before class."

"They would be a lot better if you didn't have to wait in line," said Susan Blanchard. "It's nice to have something sweet after lunch, though."

DRYING DUTIES — Along with baking cookies, the job of drying the dishes was left up to Rhonda Coston.

CLEAN UP — Jeff Little washes the dishes after the big sale.

YUMMY COOKIES — Barbara Erickson is excited to see that her batch of cookies came out of the oven just right.

GOODY DAY — Laura Gwinn and Gary Gentry help prepare cookies to be put in the oven.

PREPARING — Barbara Erickson and Brent Morgan mix the batter for peanut butter cookies.

Languages taught to fifth graders

Some people are not recognized enough for their accomplishments. Sitting in a classroom with kids who sometimes can't concentrate for over 30 seconds at a time can be a trying experience. No, this isn't a story about the bravery of the faculty members. It is about the three weeks spent by advanced foreign language students at Duncanville elementary schools.

Two days a week for three weeks, French, German, Latin, and Spanish students visited Smith and Acton Elementary schools to teach fifth grade students simple words and songs in each of the different languages.

"Chris Larson and I went to France so we worked together in the classes," said Sally Utt. "We taught them different French phrases, numbers, colors, and a few short songs. They were really cute and cooperative and a lot of fun to work with. I think they learned a lot, too."

"I really enjoyed it," said Senior Spanish student Jennifer Long. "We really had a good time working with little kids. They learned a lot quicker than we had expected them to. I don't know whether or not the kids enjoyed it, but I did."

"Everyone who participated enjoyed the experience," said Junior Cathy Boyd. "We learned more about trying to communicate than the students we were teaching did. It was interesting to see the elementary kids struggle over simple words. It's funny to think that we were like that once."

Sports

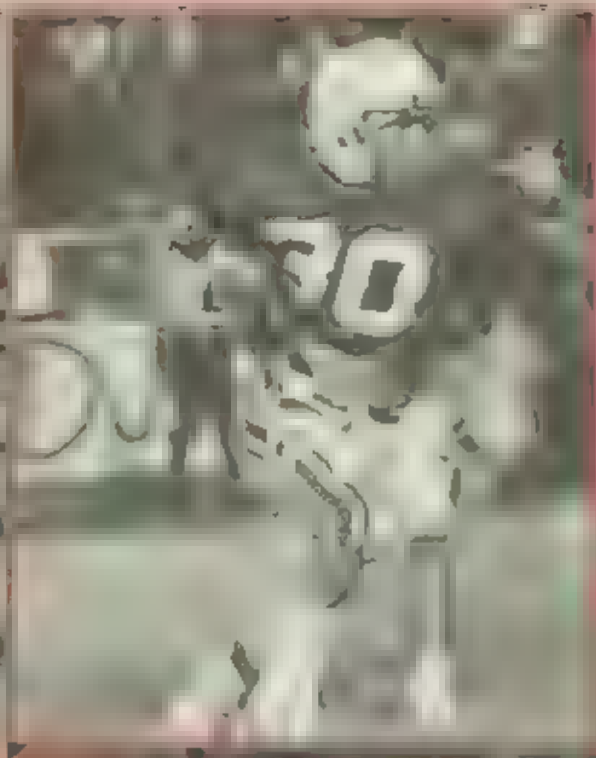

From the freshmen's practices at seven in the morning until the basketball team's practices after dark, athletes worked out and trained for games, tournaments and meets. Girls' and boys basketball, football, baseball, soccer, track, swimming, volleyball, and numerous other individual and team sports were an integral part of the school life.

On the sidelines

Hard work, late nights, and involvement in the athletic program were only a few things that motivated trainers

"Being involved in school activities and being associated with the many other trainers and athletes is the best thing about being a trainer," said Jason Boles, senior. "During football season, I spend all my afternoons and many nights, including weekends, watching practices and games.

"I became a trainer because I'm thinking about a medical career," said Jennie Vaughn, sophomore. "I figured training would be a good background and besides, I get to be around all the winning traditions of Duncanville athletics."

1-8-1 makes season long

As the siren sounded that cold Thursday night in Irving Public Schools' Stadium, another long season for the Panther football team came to an end. The students who drove from Duncanville that night went out to their cars with talk of where they would go afterward and how strange it was to be going to a game on a Thursday night. For DHS, the season was all over.

But it was not all sadness. The Panthers had, despite a 1-8-1 record, done their utmost to please the local fans. Who could forget the Panthers slugging it out with R. L. Turner in the mud for their lone victory?

Panther heroics were also present in almost every game, as the football squad made heart-rendering rallies and comebacks only to fall short in game after game. The scene of 5'6", 155 pound Kenny McIntyre battling the whole Irving team for 211 yards in the final game gave Duncanville another reason to be proud.

JV team goes 6-3-1

"The start of the season was the key to the whole year," Coach Mike McDaniel said. The JV beat Richardson (17-13), lost a close game to Pearce (7-3), and tied a tough Highland Park team (6-6)

"We played one of our best games against the Scots," said McDaniel

The JV had several outstanding players Tailbacks Bobby Simpson and Chris Swilling played exceptionally well on offense, while Chris James and Richard Coats were outstanding defensivemen. "One of our best assets has been our kicking game," said McDaniel. "Punter Tim McCallum and placekicker Stephen Shipley did a super job for us."

The Panthers beat their opponents by an average of 14 points.

Freshmen win five

QUARTERBACK SACK — Mark McFarrell of the Flying Tigers tackles Mike Martin for a loss.

The freshman football teams had "successful seasons, and developed good mental attitudes toward winning," said Coach Jim Ross.

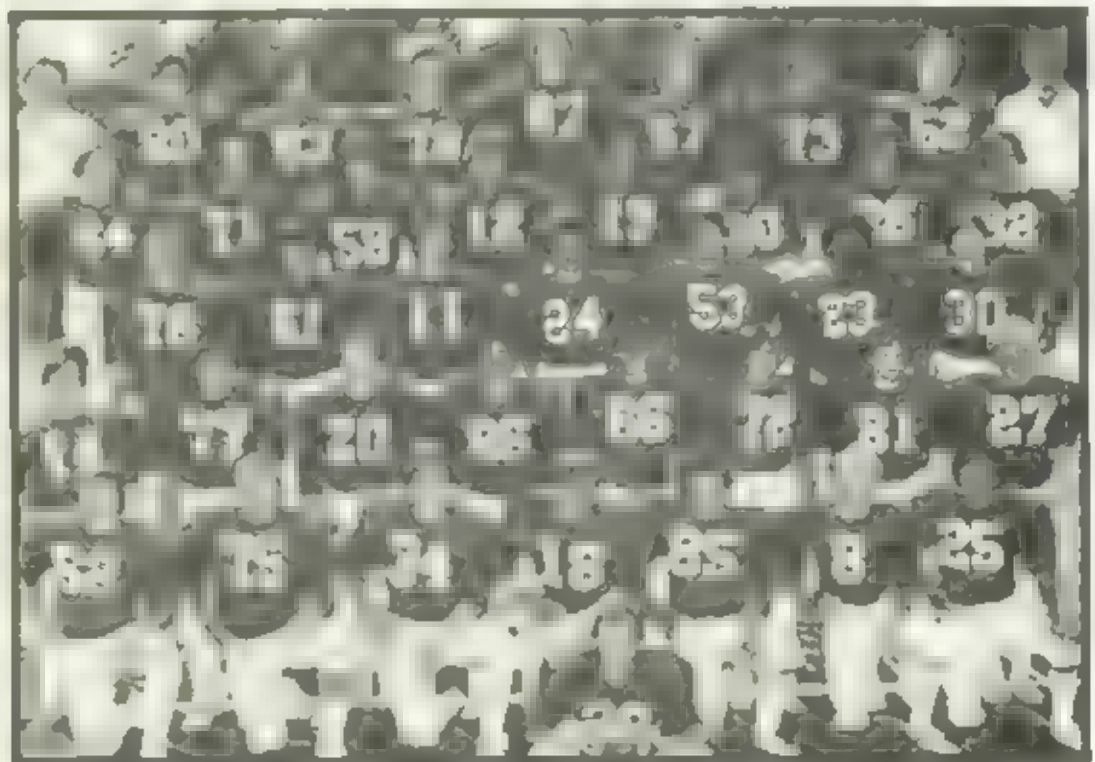

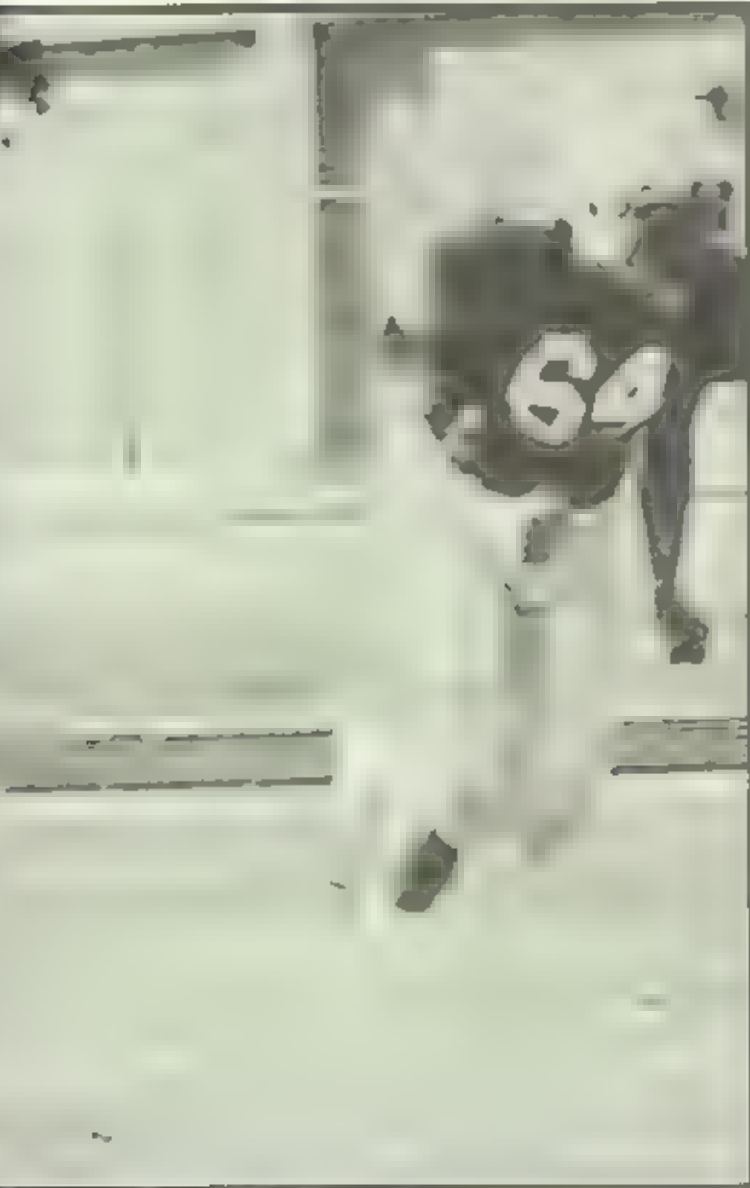

The Blue Team attained the best district record (4-2-1) a freshman blue team has ever had at Duncanville. The Blue Team was formed two years ago to give more freshman players a chance to play and gain valuable playing experience.

"Our offense was really sporadic," said Coach Bill Moore. "At times they looked good, and at times they looked terrible." This coincides with the statistic that the Panther offense was only able to score an average of 6.5 points per game. The defense "played well, but not exceptional." They allowed an average of 12.8 points per game.

The Red Team, led by quarterback Michael Martin, had a 5-2 district record. Martin, an excellent running and passing quarterback, had what Ross labeled, "good football knowledge. He really knows what's going on out there."

However, a constant problem was the Panthers' inconsistent running game. This is what Ross labelled "one of our biggest problems."

"I feel our season was a success because we developed a good mental attitude toward winning and what it takes to be a winner on and off the field," he said.

Briggs leads varsity to best season ever

After spending part of the season tied for first place, the varsity volleyball team wrapped up a third place spot in the final district standings

At the end of the first round of the season, in which each team had played each other once, Duncanville, South Grand Prairie, and Newman-Smith were all tied for first place. However, a loss to South Grand Prairie and Newman-Smith moved the Pantherettes back to a third place seat. Coach Jan Briggs said the season was "our best overall that we've ever had."

Only four varsity players

graduate this year, further strengthening Duncanville's chances. Of the four graduating, two — Shern Baker and Sandy Roberson — have done what Coach Briggs calls a "tremendous job." Both of these girls made the all district first team. Sandy Montalvo was named to the all district second team, while Yvonne Berry was named "rookie of the year."

The last week in November, Baker was also named to the Dallas Morning News first team all-area squad

Underclassmen spike to win

The junior varsity and freshman volleyball teams have shown great improvements over the past two years. The JV, after having a 2-12 record two years ago, has turned it into a 12-2 record this year.

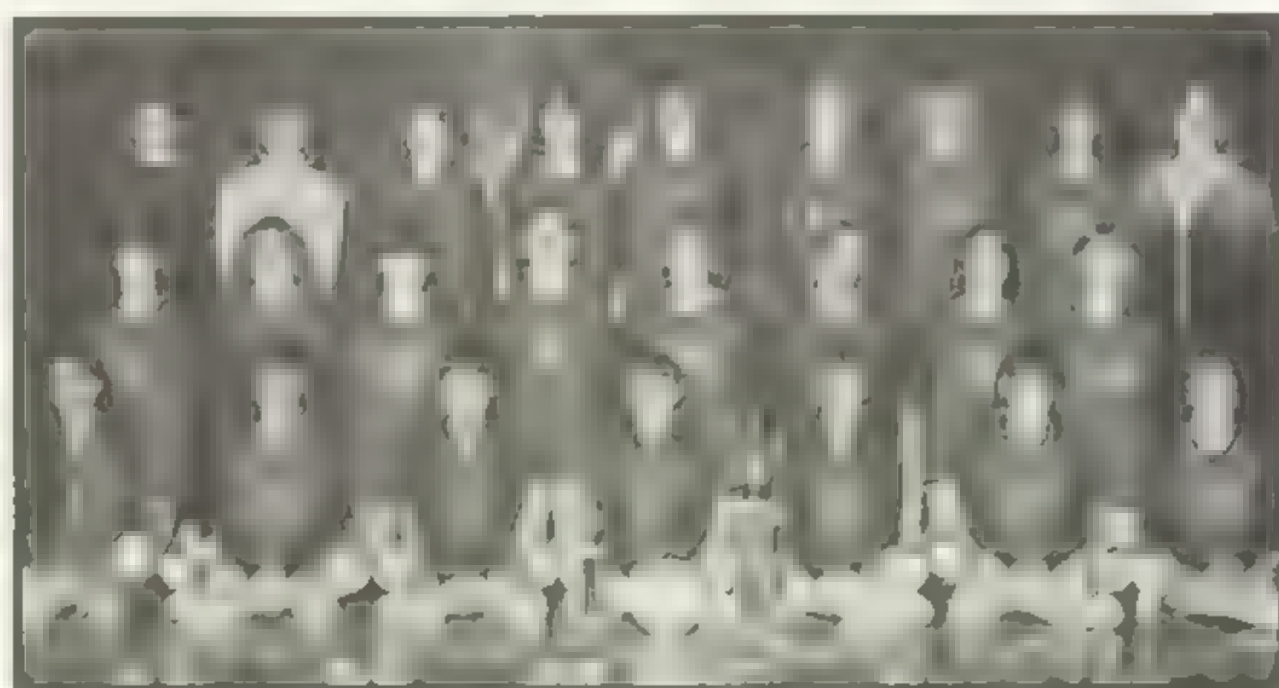

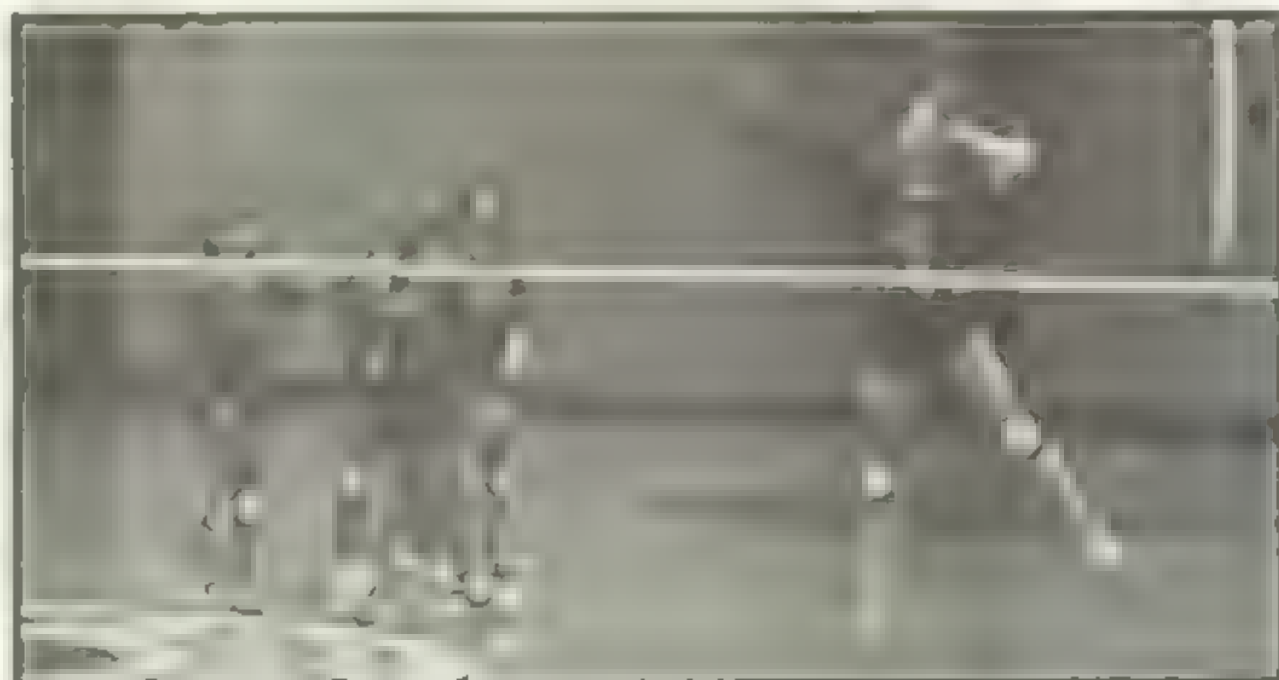

This improvement can be attributed to determined, hard working players,' said Coach Jan Briggs.

The freshman volleyball team, which was undefeated this year, is also a contributor to the success of the junior varsity team. Through the freshman volleyball team, quality, skilled players are turned out each year for the varsity and JV teams.

Coach Dana McCarroll attributes the quality and success of the freshman team to an excellent junior high program.

X-country teams finish 4th, 5th

With the boys' team finishing fifth and the girls' team finishing fourth in district, the cross-country teams had a disappointing season. Part of the reason for the low finishes was due to the strength of the two new district teams, R. L. Turner and Newman-Smith.

Consisting of four juniors and two sophomores, the boys' team was very young. Danny Olivias and Eddie Fellman were leaders of the group. Olivias missed the school record by eight seconds with a time of 16:59.

With their fourth place district finish, the girls had a better season than the boys had. With only two seniors, the team was also young. Team leader Marybeth Connelly finished third in district and seventeenth at regionals.

ON YOUR MARK — Matt Cerralvo, John Anderson and Mike Noak line up to start the three mile run.

STEADY PACE — Leading the pack, Danny Olivias finishes 20th out of 150 runners at Mountain View.

OFF TO THE RACES — At the starting line, Marybeth Connelly gets a good start as the race begins.

STRETCHING FOR GOLD — Darrin Childress strains for the longest jump at the district meet

Record set

Brian Clark and Roger Caples, Duncanville's two outstanding pole vaulters, were athletes in every sense of the word. Clark, who had been pole vaulting since the age of five, was following the rest of his family in setting pole vaulting records. His father won a bronze medal in the 1960 Olympics.

"I said at the beginning that I wanted to set the school record and go to state as a junior. Now, it's like a dream come true," said Clark of his 14'7½" jump.

Caples could be described as "the man behind the man always." In every meet except one, Caples finished second to Clark.

Regional qualifiers

The track team placed well in the mile relay and in several field events in '83. The mile relay team (Tim Thrash, Jerry Blutt, Eddie Fellman and Darrin Childress) qualified for regionals. Childress also qualified in both the long jump and the high jump with first place finishes at district in both events. Robert Underwood also qualified, placing second in the high jump behind Childress

Throughout the entire year, Brian Clark and Roger Caples placed first and second in the pole vault competition. They qualified for regionals with vaults of 14'1" and 13'6". Clark had cleared 14'7" (the school record), but nudged the bar slightly, causing it to fall. Overall, the track team placed third in district behind Newman-Smith and South Grand Prairie

The girls' team finished fourth in district, the best finish for them in "a long time," according to long distance runner Marybeth Connelly. Connelly and Kim White qualified for the regional competition in the two-mile-run and the long jump and high jump, respectively. Connelly came in eighth in the two-mile run at regionals while White came in third in both of her events

TRACK MEET — Getting a good start, Vickie Balzen looks forward to running

100 MILES? — Ray Crockett keeps a steady pace while running the mile

STRENGTH — Looking tired, Eddie Fellman approaches the finish line

RELAY RUN — Kenny Keenlyre hands the relay stick to John Anderson who is taking it off on his leg of the race

Inexperience hurts varsity

The varsity boys ended their basketball season with an 11-19 season record and a 6-8 district record.

"Our biggest problem has just been inexperience and it is just killing us," said Coach James Cagle.

"We played pretty well on defense though," said Coach Cagle. "We've had good defense out of everybody, keeping our opponents' score coverage under 50 points a game."

"We've had a pretty fair season," said Darrin Childress, one of three sophomores varsity players. "If our team had had a little more experience we would stand a much better chance. We had a lot of bad breaks, too."

FAST PLAY — After scoring, the Panthers hustle in position for another play

HOOP IT — Doing a layup, Mike White goes for two points against Nimitz

WISE MOVE — Keeping his train of thought, Kevin Wise makes a good play getting the ball around a Nimitz player

DUNKIN DARRIN — Sophomore Darrin Childress slams the ball through the hoop before a game.

Victoria trips Pantherettes

Girls go to state

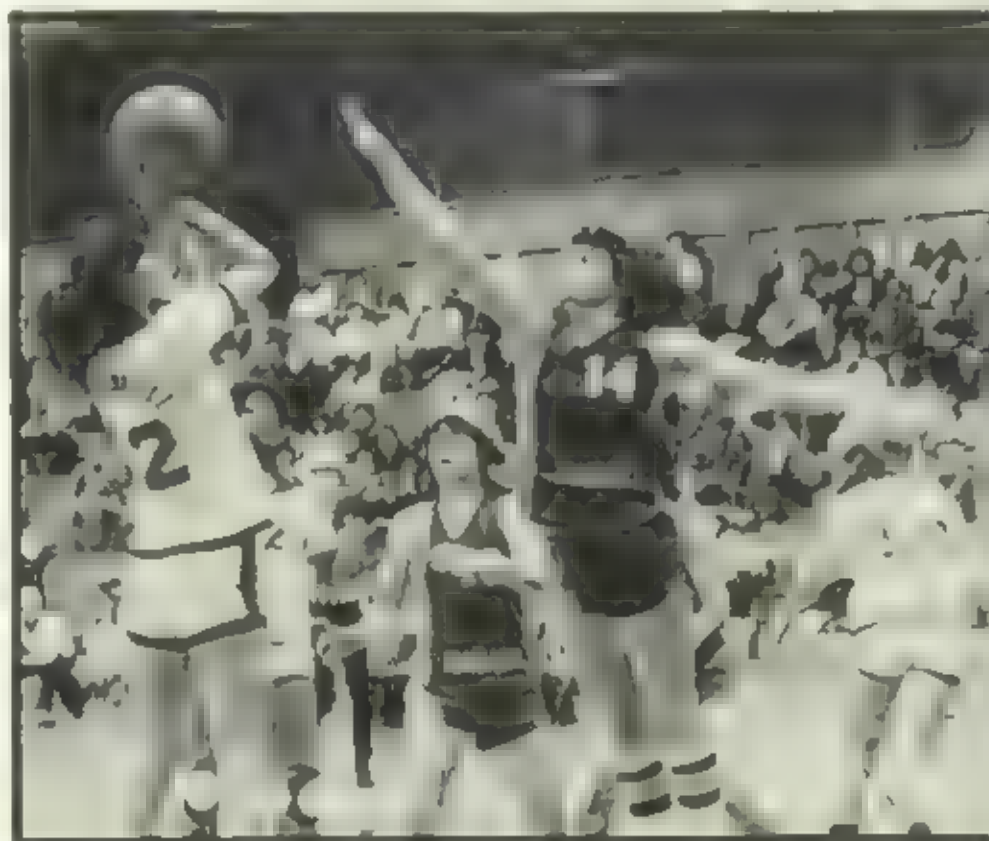

"The high point of the season had to be the trip to Austin," said Pantherette Wendy Seaman. "The send-off we got was great, too. Even though we didn't win state, we had a great season."

"The pep rally we got before state was spectacular," said Cathy Nixon. "It really makes you feel good to know you have the support of the whole school."

The Varsity Pantherettes ended their season with a 30-6 season record and a 13-2 district record. The two losses were to Irving and Nimitz. Last season showed the first district loss in 17 years. This year showed the first time in 18 years the team has lost two district games in a season.

According to Coach Sandra Meadows, the Pantherettes are facing growing competition. "The girls' teams in District 8-A-A-A-A-A seem to be getting stronger, making the competition tough on everyone. We had a great season though. We came within inches of winning state," she said

Ending their season with a district record of 12-3 and an overall season record of 23-3, the Junior Varsity had an excellent season.

The success of this year's Junior Varsity means next year's Varsity Pantherettes will have excellent material to work with," said Coach Susan Addy.

The Sophomore Pantherettes closed out their season with a record of 5-11. Coach Vicky Coburn attributed losses to inexperience.

Freshmen take first

Not only did the freshman girls' basketball team place first in district with an impressive, undefeated 23-0 record, they won in all of the tournaments they entered.

All five of the starters were strong shooters and the fine second stringers could take anyone's place and enable the team to keep going strong.

First and second string players include Cheryl Glenn, Lori Thomas, Michelle Ragland, Amy Brunson, Wendy Downs, Jana Hill, Tina Haskins, Tonya Woodruff, Kelly Boedecker, and Stacy Simmons.

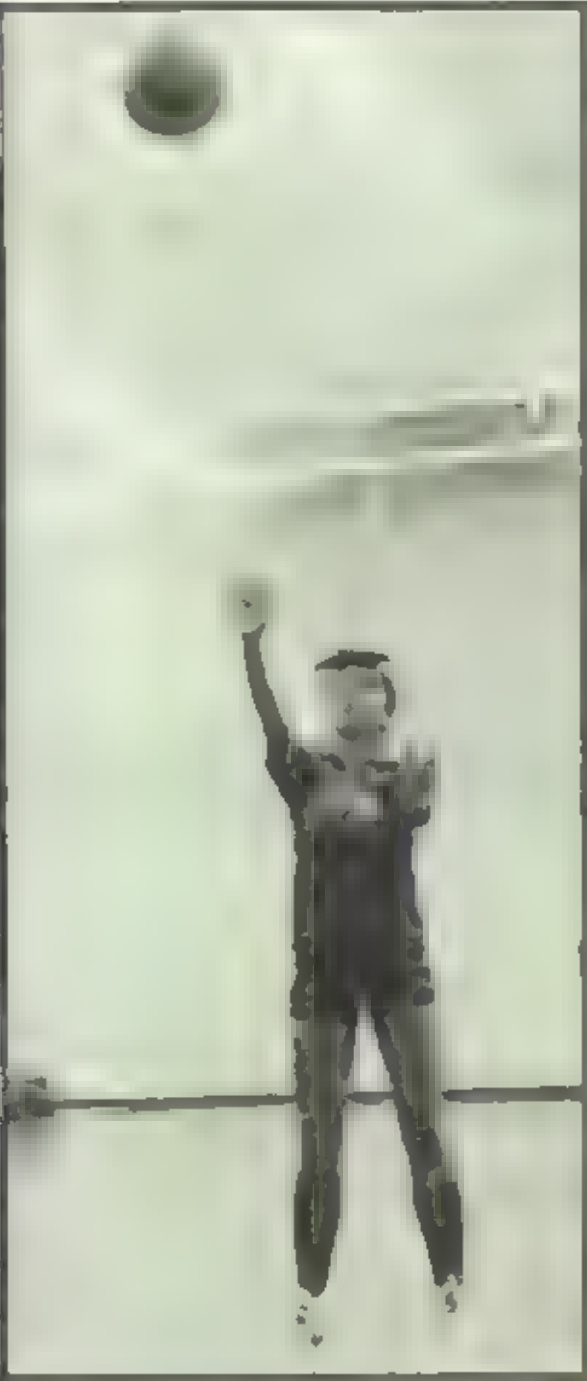

According to Coach Dana McCarroll, the team holds the key to the future varsity successes, "This group has great potential and should, in the next three years, achieve great results in the basketball future of Duncanville High School."

Boys team wins district trophy

This was the first year of the Duncanville Invitational tournament, and the Duncanville Panthers golf team won it. This was also the first year in the history of Duncanville golf that the boys have won district.

The girls golf team placed second in district, and the boys finished eleventh in the regional tournament.

Captain of the boys team was Sean Green. Of the five players who made all district, the two that made first team were Bill Bruster and Rusty Maxwell. The other three were second team members Brett Green, Kevin Griffith, and Scott Bailey.

Girls take title

The tennis team finished their season in a blaze of glory. The girls team captured the district championship title then beat Hockaday 7-1.

The boys played for district and walked away with a second place finish overall. Mike Fahey, junior, came away with the all-around district championship title.

Coach Randy Walker said this year's act would be a tough one to follow as he lost two valuable players, seniors Paul Howell and Mike Miller.

Girl players selected for district were Jennifer Ahlfinger, Toni Scott, and Lori Burns. The boys' all-district player was Mike Fahey (seeded number one). Paul Howell and Darren George were selected for the all-district doubles partners.

"We had a good team and a good coach," said varsity player Darren George. "We couldn't have done half as well without Coach Walker. We have a lot of talented players."

Swimmers win district

For the first time ever, DHS had a district champion swimming and diving team. Both the girls' and the boys teams finished first in the District 8-AAAAA swim meet.

Jeanne Doolan, along with Susan McNear, led the girls their its district championship. Doolan finished with a first place in the 50 yd. and the 100 yd. freestyle, and McNear won the 100 yd. backstroke. Chuck Gage and John Schmidt led the boys to victory. Gage finished first in the 100 yd. freestyle and second in the 50 yd freestyle. Schmidt finished second in the 100 yd backstroke and third in the 100 yd. butterfly

REACH OUT — Todd Daniel swims the 200 yd. freestyle in a dual meet held at UTA

GASPING FOR AIR — Melanie Cohoon takes a deep breath during the 100 yd. butterfly

THE COACH — Coach Frank Gammon leads the swim team to its first district championship

Relay goes to state

Seventeen swimmers qualified to swim at the Regional meet. Chuck Gage, John Schmidt, Shawne Walker, Andy Lee, Chip Bassailon, Bill Fischer, Eddie Whissen and Todd Daniel swam for the boys' team. Jeanne Doolan, Susan McNear, Barbie Boone, Janet Lee and Cathy Chapman swam for the girls' team. Zane Shepherd, Scott Deffebach, and Lauri Haas represented the diving team at the Regional meet.

The girls 200 yd. medley relay team, consisting of Doolan, McNear, Boone, and Lee, qualified for the state meet.

Team plays at state

The Varsity Panthers travelled all the way to the state semi-finals before finally being defeated by the Pearce Mustangs 3-1. This was the first year UIL has ever controlled high school soccer, and, therefore, the first year a state champion was declared.

The Panthers marched through their district season with an impressive 6-0-1 record, tying only MacArthur (1-1). Duncanville defeated R. L. Turner in the district championship game (3-1) and went on to play Highland Park in the bi-district match-up.

With just 14 seconds left in double-overtime, center forward P. J. Mankin scored for the Panthers, giving them a 1-0 win and the bi-district crown. They advanced to the regional tournament and defeated Arlington Lamar 3-2 and Ft. Worth Western Hills 2-0. For the first time in Duncanville history, the Panthers had won the regional title and were one of the four teams to be playing for the state championship in Austin.

QUICK STOP — P. J. Mankin makes a fast stop to turn and kick the ball.

Greening's guys

Aside from wiping out all competition in their district, the boys' soccer team defeated Highland Park in double overtime 1-0 to take the bi-district championship.

From there, they defeated Ft. Worth Western Hills 2-0 in the regional championship game. This advanced them to the University Interscholastic League's first state soccer championship in Austin. They were defeated by Richardson Pearce, 3-1, in the semi-final match. The following day, Pearce defeated Austin Westlake to take the state championship.

Duncanville's '83 team featured a strong defense and fine play from goalkeeper Lee Last. Last set three Duncanville records: most shut-outs in a season (8), fewest goals per average (8), and most saves in one season (111).

In addition, Last, P. J. Mankin, Paul Hunley, and Donnie Branch made the second all-district team. Billy McCrorey, Ricky Flowers, Terry Greene, and Michael May were selected first team all-district.

FIRE UP — There is excitement in their eyes as the Duncanville Panther Soccer team gathers on the field before the district game.

THROW IN — Ricky Flowers tosses the ball back to teammates for play.

JOGGER — Mark Mankin trots down the field during the game at Highlander Stadium where the Panthers won 1-0.

JV squad wins district crown

For the first time, the junior varsity soccer team took the district championship crown. They defeated such teams as Grand Prairie (8-0) and Irving (10-1). Their record was an outstanding 6-1-0, losing only to South Grand Prairie early in the season.

Coach Guy Greening was especially pleased with center halfback Jason Vittrup, sweeper Brian Jackson, and goalkeeper Steve Grosso. "They all played well and showed leadership," he said. "Steve has only played goalkeeper for three seasons and he's improving fast. He's gotten better every week."

Several JV players should move up to the varsity squad next year, as 10 varsity players graduated. The majority of those graduating were from the forward and fullback lines.

Graduating goalkeeper Lee Last said, "All through the year, the JV really showed how district champions should play. They worked together as a team, and outlasted every school they played. They were really good."

Pantherettes take third

The girls' varsity soccer team finished third in district, losing to MacArthur in the playoffs. "Beating Duncanville was better than going to state," said the MacArthur coach after the game.

Coach Sylvia Lee said that her team did not reach the peak that they were at last year. She also said that next year will be a rebuilding year because only 20 out of 36 players will be returning.

Top scorer on the team was Robin Bramlett with 14 goals, and top assister was Tracy James with five.

Selected for first team all-district were seniors Patricia Johansen, junior Laura Hammon, and sophomore Sherryl Borchert. Junior Soccorro Reyes was selected for the second team.

"We tried, but we couldn't seem to pull together in time for the playoffs," said center half-back Molly Graddy.

JV beats Martin, Carter

The Junior Varsity Girls soccer team did exceptionally well. Consisting of mostly sophomores and freshmen, the young Pantherettes pulled together to beat the varsity teams of both Martin High School and Carter High.

"I think we did pretty good this year even though we weren't really in district," said fullback Terri Sisti. "We really had fun, too!"

Hardballers retain crown

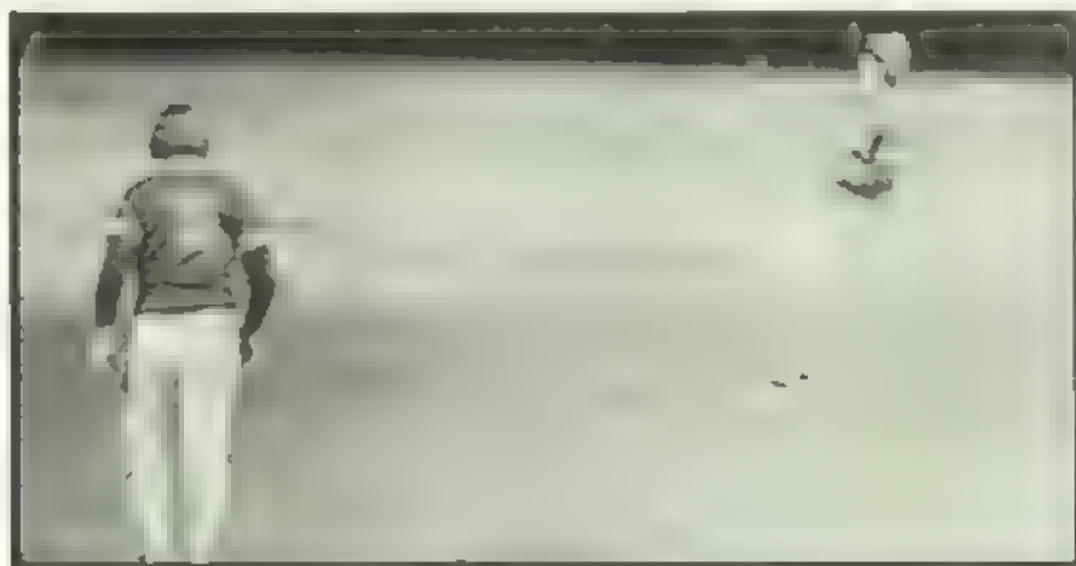

The Panthers were in trouble. After losing the first four games of the season and two pitchers to injury, it appeared that the Duncanville baseball team would not be able to live up to last year's district championship squad

"We had a couple of players back from last year, but basically we had to rebuild completely," said Coach Pat Malcheski of his team at the season's beginning

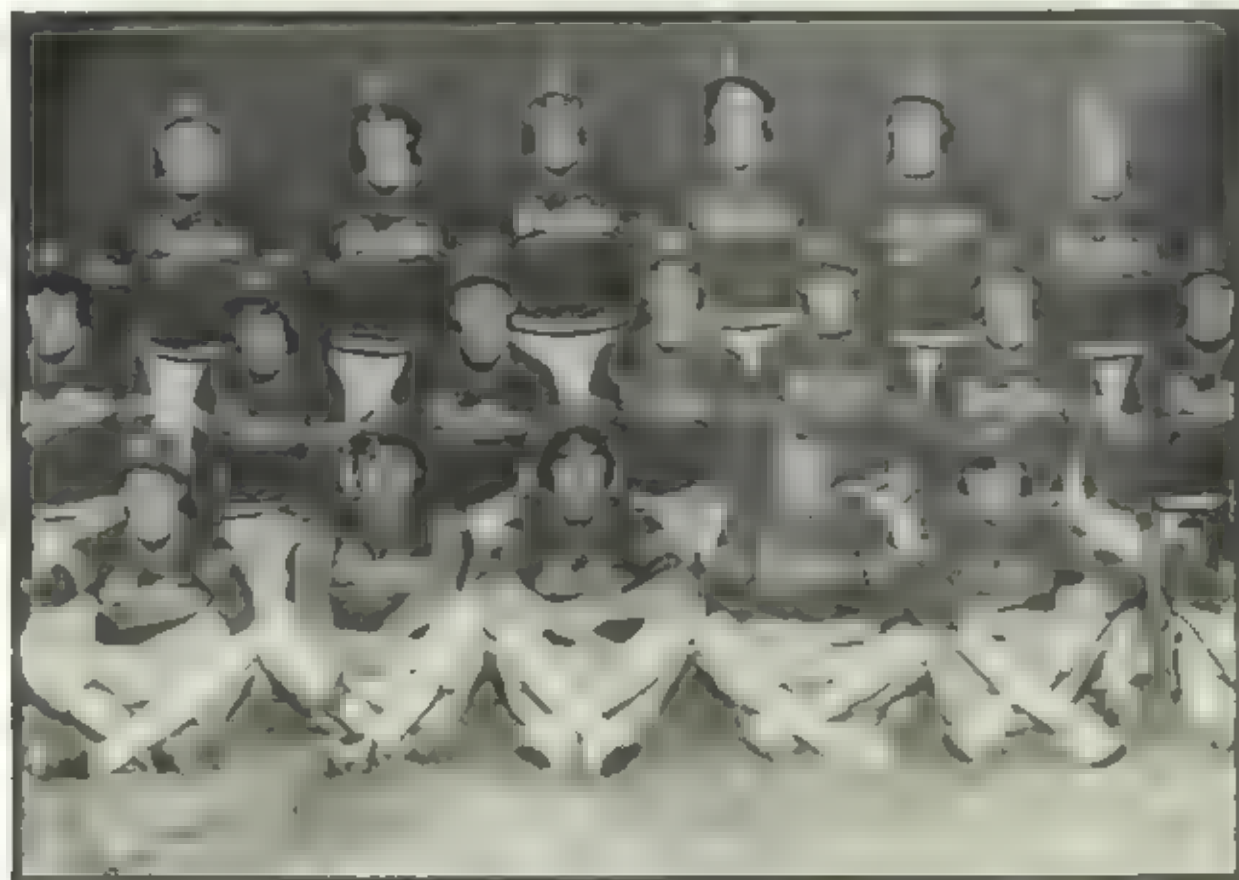

Yet unbeknownst to all Panther fans at the time, those unexperienced ball players became the scourge of District 9-5A, winning their next 22 out of 24 games and wiping out all district competition. "For as young a team as that to win district is quite an accomplishment," said Coach Malcheski

The Panthers 14 game winning streak was the longest in the area with Duncanville rising as high as number two in metroplex baseball rankings

Players make all-district

The Duncanville Panthers dominated the all-district 8-5A baseball selections just as they dominated the district race 14-0.

There were five places in the first team all-district captured by the Panthers. Picked to the team were pitcher Todd Adkins, catcher Maury Martin, second baseman Timmy Turner, shortstop Lenny Bell, and outfielder Lynn Sh.pman. Senior pitcher Colin Charland was selected to the second team. Two special honors were also won by Duncanville players. One was to Most Valuable Player Todd Adkins and the other was to Coach of the Year Pat Malcheski.

The "Dallas Morning News" selected an All-metro team which consisted of twelve players. These players were chosen from all the high schools in the metropex. Catcher Maury Martin and second baseman Timmy Turner were chosen for this honor.

"I think our most valuable asset this year was a determination to win," said varsity player Craig Brown. "We had a really strong desire to win that kept us from ever giving up."

JV sweeps district

Finishing with an 11-1 district record, the junior varsity baseball team, once again, had a very successful season.

"They had a great team this year," said varsity catcher Maury Martin. "This year's team will produce a lot of good material for the varsity team. They've got the skill and the motivation to go a long way."

POWER HITTER — First baseman Devon Wallace attempts to hit the ball against South Grand Prairie

With a 15-4 district record, the freshman baseball squad took the 8-5A district championship.

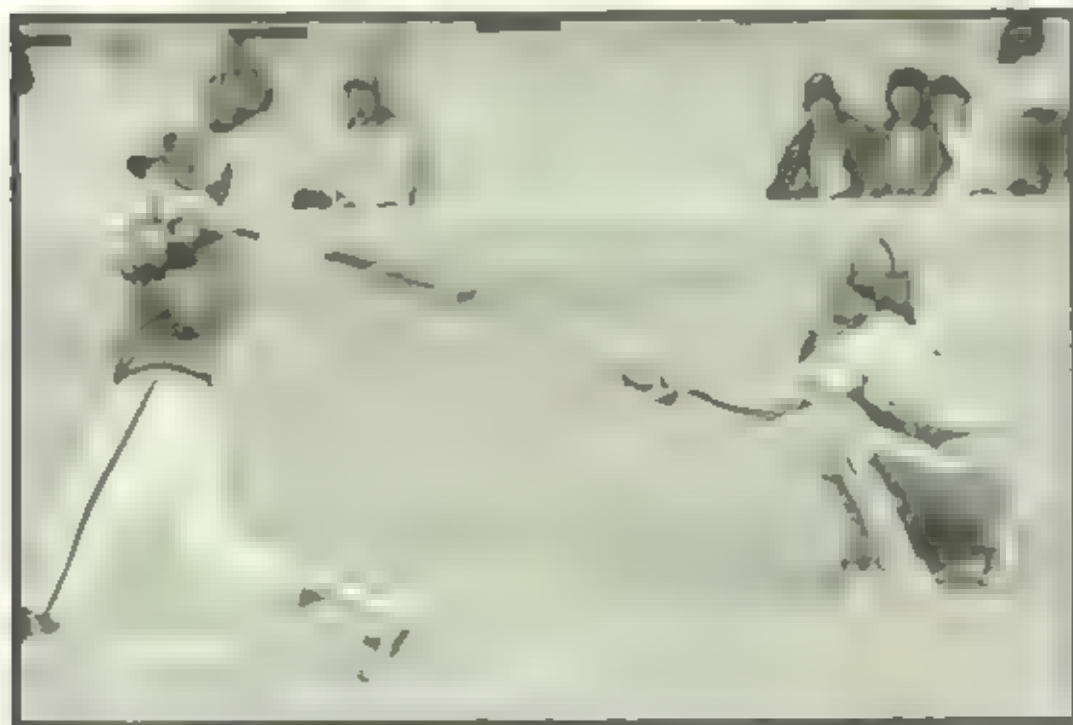

"Our team had tremendous depth at pitching and in the infield," said Coach Jim Ross.

This was demonstrated against R. L. Turner with the Panthers trailing 6-0 in the fourth inning. The Panthers rallied to a 9-8 victory. "We had three clutch pitchers — Bart Alfred, Todd Johnson, and Mike Martin — who helped win many games for us," said Ross.

The freshman Panthers were runners-up in the South Grand Prairie Tournament. In addition, they played three outstanding games with DeSoto.

"We had superb hitting this year," said Ross.

Panthers dominate 8-5A

Out of fourteen sports offered at Duncanville, half of the teams won their district title. Three of those represented Duncanville in state play-offs. In addition, two Panther teams placed second in their district and two placed third. A total of 11 out of 14 of Duncanville's teams placed first, second, or third in district. The facts told the story. Duncanville, undoubtedly, had the best athletics program in the 8-5A district.

Once again the boys' soccer team and the girls' basketball team wiped out all the competition in their districts. Both won bi-district and regional crowns and both advanced to the state play-offs.

The girl's tennis team, the boy's swimming team, and the golf team should be commended for taking first place titles. The varsity baseball maintained a 14-0 record, while the junior varsity finished 13-0.

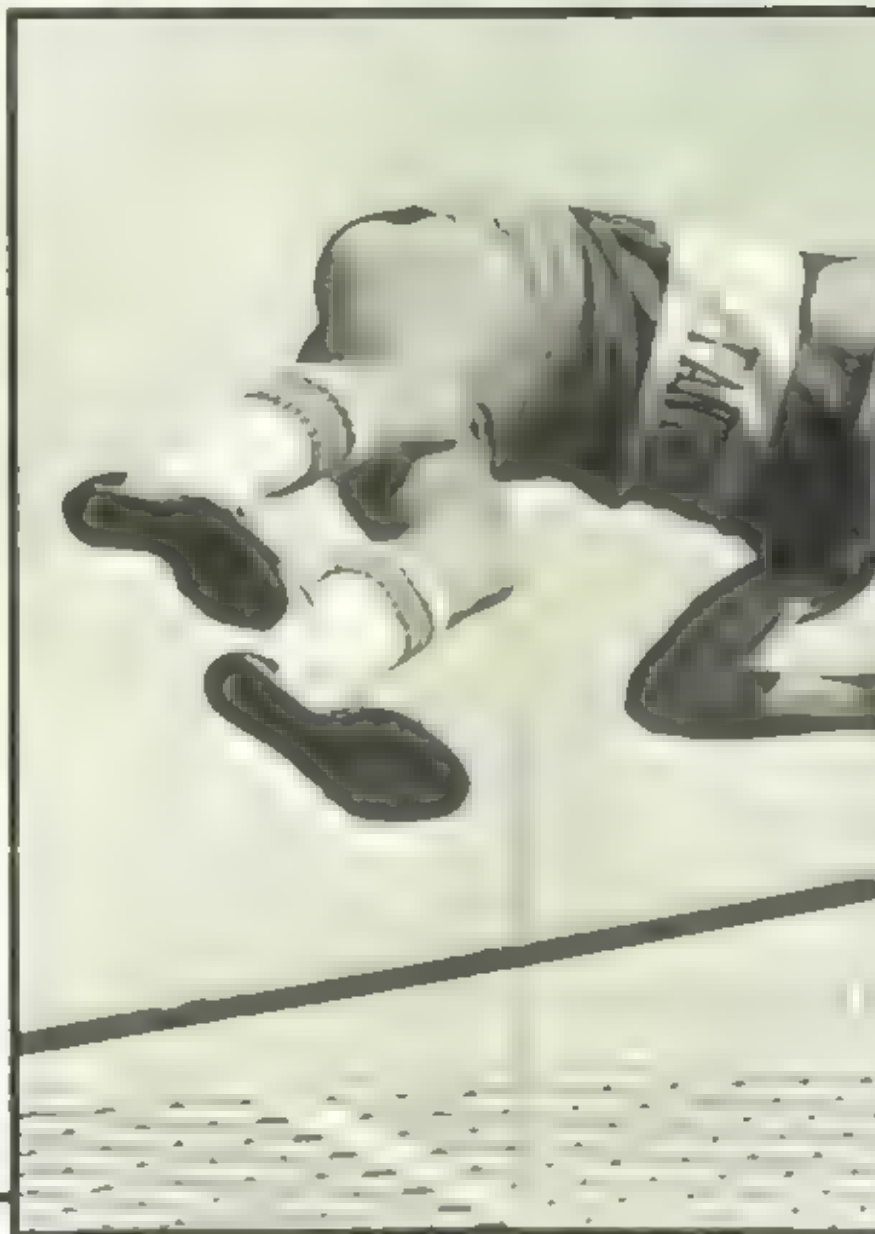

The accomplishments of the girl's swim team made it the best record in the history of the school. Every school record was broken; six coming from Jeanne Doolan, six from Susan McNear and many more from others. They maintained an undefeated 7-0 dual meet record.

Squad learns plays

For some, the end of football season marked the beginning of a lot of hard work. With the seniors gone, spring training gave both players and coaches time to adjust to a new offense, a new defense, and a new head coach.

Coach Dan Gandy said the Panthers accomplished a lot during spring training. "We ended our spring work with a good taste in our mouth," said Gandy. "It was an excellent spring. First of all, we had to learn about each other. It boils down to the effort of the kids and their acceptance of us as coaches."

"It looks like the Panthers will have a good run at having a good season next fall. There are so many things that must come together to be a winner. We've made a lot of strides. Our key objective was to get a positive feeling. They're enthused."

Favorite seniors

This had to be one of the most unusual Senior Personalities elections ever. First of all, the vote was almost never taken as the senior class wouldn't calm down long enough to take a vote. Secondly, it was obvious that a few seniors were campaigning for votes. And if all this wasn't bad enough, the newspaper containing the winners was almost not sold.

"I can think of a dozen other people who deserved 'Friendliest,' too," said Jody Hall. "All I can say is that I will always think of the Class of '83 the same way: Friendliest."

"I'm really honored," said "Most Athletic" Wendy Seaman. "Being recognized by your friends is worth more than a dozen trophies."

"It was a total shock," said Cathy Chapman of being named "Wittiest." "I just wanted to let everyone know that I worked long and hard for that distinction."

Band show wins parade of champs

If pride does "make the difference" between good and "great," the band can only be labeled "great." They certainly have quite a few accomplishments of which to be proud.

Not only has the band sent numerous members to All-Region and All-State band, they have "made the difference" between boring and entertaining pep rallies and halftimes. In their traditional role at football games, parades, and other functions, the band has truly represented the spirit of DHS.

Although the band chose not to participate in the State Marching Competition in Austin, few members were disappointed. Many factors contributed to Director Tom Shine's decision to boycott the competition. Aside from the fact that the contest would be held on a small, all-grass track field in Austin, many felt that the performance of the band could not be fully appreciated by the judges.

"Our show goes for overall effect," said Drum Major John Flores. "The best perspective to see our show is from a high point of elevation. At Burger Center, there is absolutely no way the judges can see our whole show."

Band members have a lot to look forward to. After all, they believe they are the best in the state.

Spirit, pride

Three spirit organizations were the Duffers, Victory Belles, and cheerleaders, organized to promote school spirit and service to the school and community. Duffers were made up of over thirty senior boys who were willing to subject themselves to the "agony" of initiation in order to become a full fledged Duffer.

"The most unusual thing I have ever done is the time I ran over to the Newman-Smith side of the field and stole a panther they had hung on a rope," said Sam Foose. "I had to dodge a trombone and the whole Newman-Smith drill team."

Victory Belles, the Duffer's sister organization, also promotes spirit and leadership. "It's a chance to show your spirit as a senior," said Wendy Seaman.

Cheerleading, contrary to popular belief, isn't as easy as it looks. Long afternoons of practice and at every game are a tremendous train on cheerleaders. "I liked SMU camp and pep rallies the most," said Shannon Gann, freshman.

VARSITY — Stacy Sweeney, Gyne Hairston, Dawn Esposito, Janet Abernathy, Melinda Green, Debbie Kleypas, Kim Norris, Lauri Haas

Groups add pizazz

The pep rallies and football games wouldn't be the same without them. Underneath those pretty smiles and costumes lies a lot of imagination and talent. These people add a spark of glitter to the otherwise boring half times and pep rallies. They are the High Hats and the Flag Corps

"The routines we do are really complicated," said Beth Elias. "Being a High Hat is a lot of hard work. But when those performances come, the long hours really pay off."

"Flag Corps is really hard work," said Lori Tuley. "Sometimes I think we don't get enough credit, but there is a lot of satisfaction in Flag Corps."

"High Hats is a worthwhile organization," said Camie Cox. "I am proud to be part of it. Miss English makes all the difference between a mediocre drill team and a first class drill team. She's a great teacher."

"Staying after school and putting in those long practices is the worst part of Flag Corps," said Debbie Rosser. "Even though I put in a lot of time, I get a lot out of enjoyment being in Flag Corps. I have made a lot of good friends and had a lot of good times."

Making music

The Vocalaires, A Cappella choir and the Swingers, directed by Darrell Dick, were made up of truly talented members. At the U.I.L. Solo and Ensemble contest, Duncanville choirs claimed more first division medals than any other school in the region.

The choirs performed at churches, luncheons, Christmas and Thanksgiving concerts, and other various social functions.

"The best thing about being in a DHS choir is the director," said senior Charles Wate. He is really a first class teacher."

"Choir is fun because it gives you a way to express yourself," said sophomore Susan Blanchard.

"Choir is great," said Sharla Polley. "This year at Solo and Ensemble contest we qualified people for Texas State and Tri-state solo and ensemble contest."

Clubs teach career skills

Vocational clubs were a big part of the school. They claimed the biggest membership of all school organizations

"We really learned a lot in Cosmetology," said Kim Bunnell "Mrs. Jacola is an excellent teacher."

Auto Body and Auto Mechanics were too well developed clubs. Auto Body trained members to work on restoration of car bodies. Auto Mechanics trained members for a career in the automobile industries

Health Occupation students of America provided members with an opportunity to learn more about medical and social career opportunities. "Health Occupations is a learning experience. It's more than a club," said Elaine Burkham

Repair practice

Not all students want to go on to college after four years of high school. For this reason, the vocational department was created. With this department comes many clubs that boast the highest combined membership in the school.

General Mechanical Repair gives students basic background in general repair of things like lawnmowers, household appliances, small motors, and other household machines.

Got a radio that doesn't work? Take it to the Consumer Electronics class. They can fix anything that can break, boasts Mr. Roy Lane, club sponsor.

Sponsored by Gilbert Castillo, the Vocational Drafting Club is one of DHS's fastest growing clubs. Vocational Drafting prepares students for careers in architecture, drafting, art, and other related fields.

Air conditioning and refrigeration is a course designed to provide graduates with plenty of employment opportunities.

Spanish and Latin clubs

Of all the organizations meant to expand students' cultural horizons, the language clubs were probably the most popular. The membership in the French, German, Spanish, and Latin clubs have risen annually.

"The thing I like about the Spanish club are all the parties we have," said Patty Lopez. "Everyone gets together and just has a great time."

"My three years in German Club have been really enjoyable. Our teacher, Ingrid Thompson, had added a whole new meaning to being in German Club," said Philip Cowan, junior.

"Early in the year, our sponsors announced that boys were needed for Spanish folk dancing," said senior Larry Commons. "My friend and I were apprehensive. I can't dance at all, but it turned out to be both interesting and fun."

Student Council

Although many complaints over student government have been heard, students have proven that student council can make a difference.

At the beginning of the year, the senate was reduced to a body made up of four students from each class, a substantial reduction from recent years.

"I have always said, if you're not part of the solution, you're part of the problem," said Terri Williams. "For the past couple of years, student council has been a place for arguments. Now that the council is smaller, people have a lot better attitude."

"The Inter-Club Council needs more development," said council president Greg Survil. "We meet at the beginning of the year to discuss ideas for fund-raisers and projects. The ICC needs to become more involved."

Printing trades, speech, drama

The Speech and Drama Department experienced a year of growth. Three plays were produced: "The Diary of Anne Frank," directed by Mrs. Marilyn Henne; "The Long Christmas Dinner," a one-act directed by Sharon Carter; and "Up the Down Staircase," a student directed production.

"The Long Christmas Dinner" proved to be quite successful, as it was chosen as the alternate play in UIL district competition. Cathy Jackson remarked, "We were lucky to be honored at UIL. We had had some tough competition, but we held up well!"

The National Forensic League began its first full year, and the chapter competed in the NFL Tournament. Also, the largest number of students ever representing DHS traveled to the state tournament in March.

Printing Trades also experienced a year of expansion. Maintaining a successful vocational department and VICA chapter, the students printed everything from school district forms and letterhead to "Scribunt" and the school newsletter "Panther Probe." They also did numerous projects for VICA contests.

Groups make future plans

Future Farmers of America and Future Homemakers of America are two clubs that build both the character and skills of their members

"FFA is a really worthwhile group," said Stephanie Glover, sophomore. "Everyone is friendly and cooperative."

"It's like being in a giant family," said Billy White.

Future Homemakers of America is a club made up of home economics students. Besides fund raising and social events, members also learn important skills

"I joined FHA because I really like the people," said senior Kristi Creamer. "We joke around with each other as well as work

Clubs promote achievements

Created to inspire enthusiasm, scholarship, service, leadership, and character, National Honor Society and Whiz Quiz are two leading school organizations

"National Honor Society is not only an organization that honors those students who do well, it is also to serve the community," said Ellen Johnston. "NHS is a good public relations organization for DHS."

Sponsored by Ron Coots and Ms. Candy Gianuzzi, the Whiz Quiz team did well until January, when they were defeated by Country Day.

"I learned to be competitive through Whiz Quiz," said senior Larry Commons. "At first, I was too scared to try to answer. I just assumed my answers were wrong. But later I began answering some."

Staffs write publications

Fast food, deadlines, lost layouts, and overbearing editors plagued the three DHS publications, "Panther Tale," "Panther Prints," and "Scribunt."

"The rest of the staff was very supportive," joked newspaper editor Andy Ballard. "I could have done it all myself, but it was nice to have some company."

"The magazine was definitely a lot of work," said "Scribunt" editor Larry Commons. "We experimented with different layouts and types. This will be the best and possibly the last magazine."

"This annual would never have been published without the hard work, dedication, and creativity of the copy writer and photographers," praised co-editor Cathy Chapman. "They were the backbone of the annual staff!"

Trades clubs.

According to state regulations, each vocational class should also have a club. Members participate in regional and state contests

Building Trades, which has built several houses west of the high school, enables its members to learn how to construct a house from the ground up. The three hour a day course is limited to juniors and seniors

"It's a lot of hard work, but it's worth it," said one Building Trades student

"Vocational Office Education is a club every member is proud of," said Karie Swanson. "We are all like a big family, I really enjoy the meetings."

"OEA is an important part of school for me," said Donna Pitman. "Not only have I made a lot of friends, I am learning some important job skills."

Groups learn job training

Diversity and dedication were two qualities that all of DHS's vocational organizations had in common. Their members came from many different backgrounds and had many different career goals.

Being in a club like this one (HERO) gave me an opportunity to begin preparing myself for my career," said Tina Garcia.

Everyone in the club is friendly and supportive.

Industrial Cooperative Training was distinguished as the only worldwide school organization. Only a very small percentage of the applicants for the club were accepted. Half of the students' grades were based on the employer's evaluation. Thus, members had to be motivated and willing to work.

DECA was the most active vocational club on campus. In addition to learning about their various jobs, students spent time preparing speeches, announcements, and bulletin boards to teach a free enterprise unit to the rest of the student body. The group also raised money for the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

Taking trips

Pushing a paddle for hours down the Brazos River; spending the night in wet clothes; lighting fires without matches; opening cans without can openers . . . sounds like a lot of fun, doesn't it? Members of the Woods and Waters club apparently thought so. Fishing, hiking, and canoeing trips were all part of the activities of one of the school's more popular organizations

"It is really stimulating to get out of the city and back to nature," said Cathy Chapman, club president. "I like the city, but I get tired of inhaling exhaust and smog every day. When you're in the country, you can be a whole new person."

The Fellowship of Christian Athletes had a membership of many concerned, Christian young men and women who participated in group discussions and community service projects.

"The best thing about being in FCA is that everyone in the group is pleasant to be around," said Jennifer Ahlfinger. "We always had a lot of fun at the meetings. FCA is something I'm proud to be a part of."

WE WANT FOOD — Refreshments are always necessary to make the meeting complete

'THIS IS SO BORING' — A magazine is evidently more interesting to Bruce McMinn than an FCA group meeting.

ANALYZING — Mr. G. W. Kennemer analyzes the handwriting of one of his students

Hobby reveals tendencies

Besides fishing and other outdoor sports, G. W. Kennemer, head of the science department, enjoys an unusual hobby, graphology

Handwriting analysis, or graphology, can reveal such personality traits as temperament, frankness, emotional stability, creativity, reserved qualities, extrovert tendencies, and logical thinking

"I learned handwriting analysis mostly on my own," said Ken nemer. "I also talked with other graphologists. The basics are not hard to learn. It does, however, require a great deal of training to become an expert."

Kennemer, who has taught here for 31 years, does analysis mostly for friends and other teachers

"It's mostly a hobby," said Kennemer. "However, I learned that it helps me to know my students. It's very useful in assessing one's personality traits, especially the emotional side."

Three writers recognized

COMMENDATIONS — Seniors Amy Blalock, Kara Alexander and Kevin Mar were recognized as winners of the writing competition by the National Council of Teachers of English

The National Council of Teachers of English recognized three seniors at DHS for achievement in writing. Amy Blalock, Kevin Mar, and Kara Alexander were three of only 876 students who were recognized nationwide.

Although the council does not award scholarships or money, it does send recommendations to 3,000 universities as well as a letter of commendation to the student.

Blalock chose a short story as her selected entry. She wrote a story about a girl that discovered the significance of her life.

Mar wrote a poem about a wild horse for his selected entry.

Alexander selected an essay she wrote on The Scarlet Letter as her entry.

Smithey interns in Washington, D.C.

Shannon Smithey held a rather unusual summer job. She spent four weeks of the summer in Washington, D.C., where she was a research intern for Republican Sen Pete Dominichi.

"Most of the other interns were older, usually at least in college," she said. "It's kind of unusual for a high school student to intern, but I've always wanted to. I thought it would be interesting to see how government really works and to observe the entire policy process."

Though Shannon enjoyed her job, she affirmed that it was hard work.

"I worked with the legislative assistant in different social areas, including equal rights, tuition tax credits, and aid for sexually abused children," she commented. "I also helped the Senator with his mail, sorting and dating it. And of course, I ran a few errands."

"You really can see the pressures of being in public office from where I was," she said. "People expect so much from their senators. Some crazies would write and demand that the senator do everything they wanted, even things like straightening out their mortgage payments.

"Senators really work very long hours," she said. "If you consider the hours and the fact that they have to maintain two houses and support their family, they really don't make very much money."

Through her work, Shannon learned a great deal. It was an experience that she'll always remember.

Class establishes scholarship fund

PLEDGE — Greg Survil types the pledge form for the scholarship fund

In November, the seniors received a proposal from Dr. Art Douglas for an original senior class project

Douglas proposed that the senior class raise money that would go towards a scholarship fund that would benefit each successive senior class

Once the money was raised, it was put into a certificate of deposit. Each year, a committee made up of administrators, representatives from the current senior class, and representatives from the Class of 1983, would decide on the amount, number, and recipients of the scholarships

Because the scholarships will vary in kind of recipients, almost every senior would have a chance of winning one

The class voted late in November to go ahead with the project

It was decided that the scholarships would vary from academic to vocational to fine arts

"We agreed to aim for $25,000," said Terri Williams, class president. "In a class of 560, that's only about two dollars per week

The seniors were the only class to consider such a project. Each new senior class will be able to decide whether or not to attempt to raise their own fund

Seniors make plans for the future

The question, "What do you want to do after high school?" is all too familiar to most high school seniors. Unquestionably, it is the single most dreaded decision that American youth must make.

The answer to that question is also familiar to seniors. At the beginning of the year, most upperclassmen are absolutely sure that they do not want to think about what college they want to attend, let alone what career they want to pursue.

A few seniors, however, have thought about their post high school plans.

"I plan to attend East Texas State University in the fall of 1983," said Tom Boutwell. "From there I plan to work on a doctorate in psychology. Then I plan to go into a career as a psychologist."

After graduating from the University of Texas at Arlington, Robin Milam wants to become an elementary school teacher.

"My plans after school here are to attend Stephen F. Austin State University, get a degree in marketing with a minor in advertising," said Terri Williams. "I would like to be a layout director or be in charge of sales for a major corporation."

"After I finish high school, I want to go to college and study fashion technology and have a career in theater fashions and costumes for plays and movies," said Ruth Evatt.

Senior Kevin Joplin is going to North Texas State University where he plans to major in computer science.

After attending Texas A & M University in College Station, Kevin Wise plans to enter some field related to his business analysis major.

"I plan to attend either Texas Christian University or Texas State in Denton," said Sharon Powers.

They both have excellent drama programs. During my years in college I want to work in a theater like Casa Manana. My career plans are to major in technical theater arts and work either as a high school drama teacher or to work on Broadway productions as a technical staff stage director.

Hopefully, by the end of their senior year, everyone was as sure about their plans as these students were.

Elias named to all-American squad

Tears of triumph filled Beth Elias's eyes as Mrs. Cindy English announced at a pep rally that Beth had been chosen for the All-American Drill Team.

"I was so excited," explained Beth. "It was a real surprise."

Senior Beth Elias, High Hat captain, was chosen as one of the 64 members of the All-American Drill Team. Beth got to spend Thanksgiving weekend at the Hyatt Regency Hotel in Dallas. The drill team performed at the Dallas Maverick basketball game held that weekend. Beth was chosen from applicants who attended drill team camps all over the United States. High Hat officers attended camp at SMU.

Beth devotes approximately twelve hours a week to the High Hats. She also spends much of her free time dancing.

Her goals include majoring in dance at Southern Methodist University and becoming a professional choreographer. She hopes to receive a dance and partial academic scholarship to SMU.

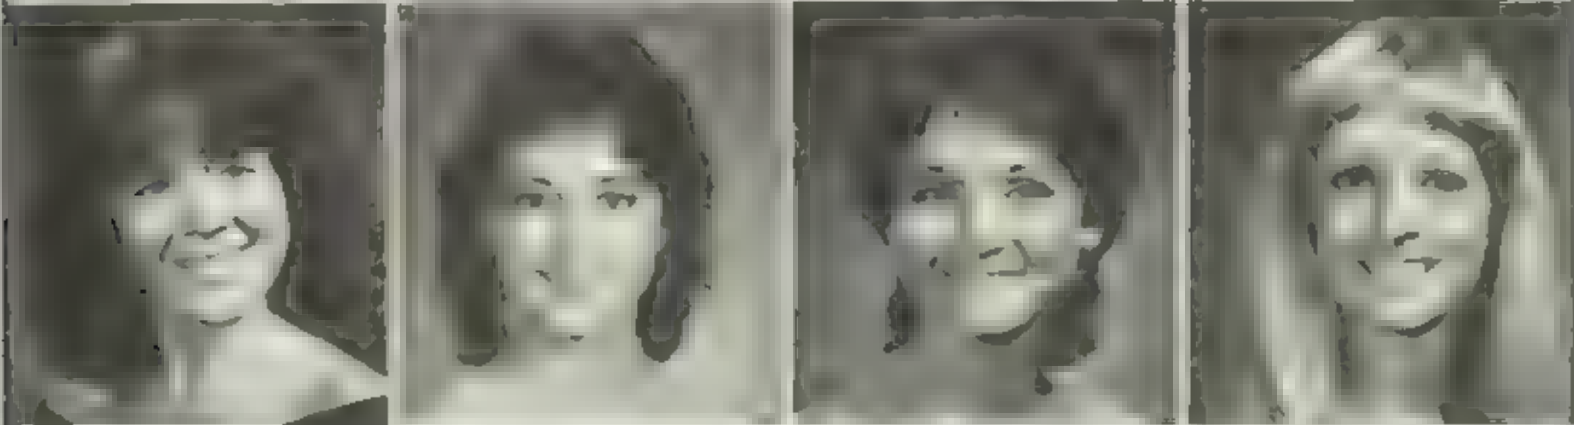

Surprisingly, Beth does have time for other activities. She served as vice-president of the Westminster Youth Choir at the Oak Cliff Presbyterian Church.

ALL AMERICAN — Beth Elias performs at the High Hat show off night.

FLOAT MEETING — Jimmy Haire and Maury Martin put forth their effort on the Junior Float

Enthusiasm

"We had fifteen to twenty-five people at every float meeting, and there was a lot of enthusiasm," said Dawn Esposito, who hosted the Junior class float meetings in her garage.

"Participation at Junior float meetings this year was excellent," said Mr. Jerry Glover, class sponsor. "There was a large number of students at the meetings. They conducted themselves in an excellent manner."

"The float meetings gave all of us something to do on school nights," said Kelly Wolf. "We had a lot of fun, and it was organized great this year."

For their efforts, each class received $100 from parade sponsors

SEEING DOUBLE — Twins are Barbara and Karen Richards, Kathy and Kim Throne, Lynn and Gwyn Hairston and Toni and Terri Scott

Seeing double

"Everyone always asks us what's it like to be a twin," said Toni Scott, junior. "I always say 'I don't know, I've never not been a twin . . . What's it like not to be a twin?'"

"Our parents didn't know that they were going to have twins until we arrived," said Terri Scott. "They didn't have two 'girls' names ready so we were referred to as 'Baby A' and 'Baby B' for a couple of weeks after we were born. I was 'Baby A'."

Terri and Toni are one of five set of twins in the junior class.

Other sets of twins are Barbara and Karen Richards, Kathy and Kim Throne, Lynn and Gwyn Hairston, and Sandra and Cissy Ortiz.

Making plans

COLLEGE NEARS — Laura Bauer glances through college pamphlets in the hall outside the counselors' office

STUDYING — Brent Casey works diligently in honors English

All-State

For the first time in 17 years students from DHS earned chairs in the All State Orchestra

Juniors Cameron Engle, bassoonist; Brian Gallatin, tenor saxophonist, and Michelle Schwartzott, clarinet player, traveled to San Antonio in February to perform with the orchestra at the Texas Music Educators' Association conference

Engle, Gallatin, and Schwartzott were members of the wind ensemble, the top performing group in the band program. The three were the only ones from this region in the All-State wind section

All State — For the first time in 17 years, DHS students make all state winners are Brian Gallatin, Michelle Schwartzott, and Cameron Engle

CHIT CHAT — Dawn Esposito and Robbie Sawyer sit in the commons area

I HAVE SPIRIT — Clare Rubrecht wears a balloon tied to her wrist while everyone else wears hats to support the Panthers

AG STUDENT — Billy White shows off his show heifer

Heifer shown by ag student

Some people keep fish, others raise dogs, but Billy White, a sophomore, is raising a show heifer.

As part of the agricultural program each ag student is required to raise an animal during the year.

"I have been in ag two years," said Billy. "I have a lot of friends that I've made in ag. Everyone is like a big family."

"We enter competition and shows in places like Houston, San Antonio, Amarillo, and even in Fort Worth," said Billy.

"I got in agriculture because I enjoy animals. It has really been worthwhile. I've really had a fun year," he said.

KARATE — Earnestine Gilbert shows the style that won her a brown belt

Gilbert earns brown belt

When Earnestine Gilbert was eight years old, her sisters took her to a self defense demonstration class at school. Since then, Earnestine has increased her interest in Karate and obtained a second-degree brown belt. Although Earnestine temporarily stopped working out because she got braces, she plans to start up again due to a scholarship-beauty pageant where she will show off her talent. Earnestine has been in many tournaments, but her first one topped them all when she broke a boy's back.

GYMNASTS — Paula Panaceck, Kenda Wilson, and Amy Kristofitz practice

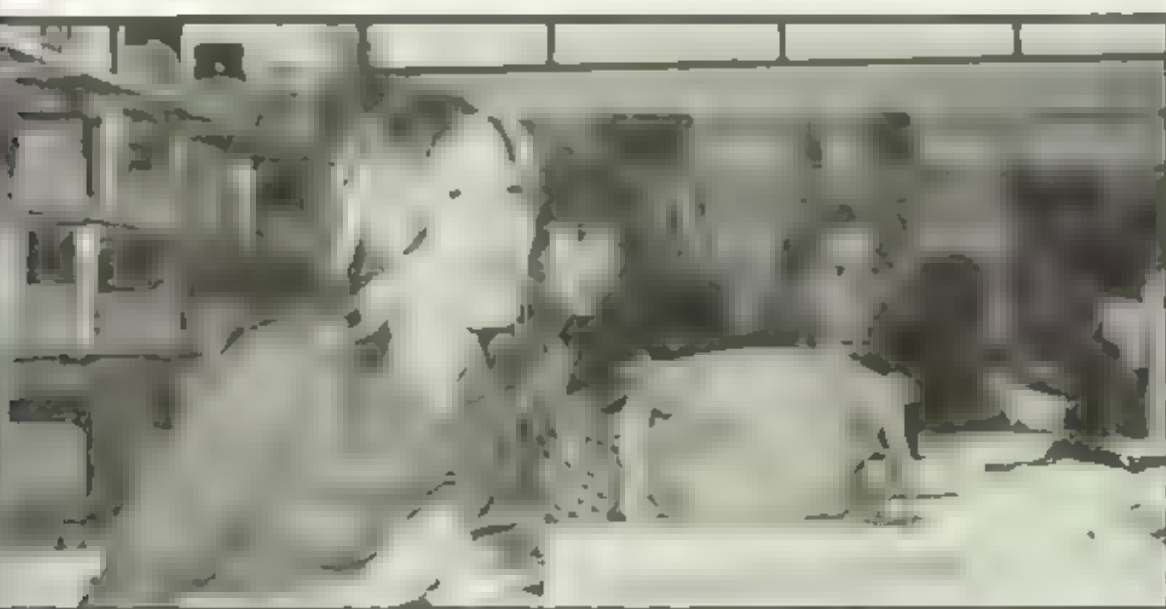

Girls practice gymnastics

Although the school does not sponsor a gymnastics team, sophomores Paula Panaceck, Amy Kristofitz, and Kenda Wilson put in several hours each week practicing for gymnastics competitions that are held in the spring.

"I really enjoy gymnastics," said Amy Kristofitz. "I made a lot of new friends when I started. It would be better if there was a school team. As it is now, I sometimes have trouble keeping up with school and working out at the same time. It really isn't difficult, but it is a hassle."

"Our coaches are very good," said Paula Panaceck. "We usually spend about three hours two or three nights a week working out. It really pays off when meets come around."

Freshmen isolated

Although most freshmen enjoyed the isolation that the east campus offered, a few would rather have been with friends on the west campus

"I feel isolated from the rest of the school because we never get to see any of the upperclassmen unless they come over here," said Shelly Doggett. "We aren't included in hardly anything

I feel isolated because they separate us from the upperclassmen like we are still too immature to be part of the school and associate with anyone but freshmen," said Lillian Bundy

Freshman confusion

The first day at a new school is an experience. When almost 700 freshmen start high school on the same day, however, only chaos can result.

The first day of school was better than I thought it would be," said Amy Brunson.

I thought it was great," said Kim Cagle. "I loved seeing all the good looking guys. I only got lost two or three times.

Kim Wright seemed to express the majority opinion. "My first day of high school was a complete mess but it was a lot of fun.

HELP — Where do I go after lunch? wonders Denise Pittman on the first day of school.

Torture by exams

What was the real purpose of the final exam? Although they were not meant to torture students, finals could sometimes be unpleasant experiences. Everyone who sat in class and listened to the teacher read off the list of exempt students, omitting the most important name, knew what a final exam was.

There were, of course, some students who never took a final exam all during high school. We won't discuss them.

There was something disquieting about walking into a classroom filled with all of five students. All of those five students were, of course, not exempt because of too many absences. With their pen and paper in hand, they sat at the desk they had occupied all year and took an exam over material they swore the teacher hadn't covered.

Usually the tests were short. Really comprehensive, huh. Anyway, when the teacher got around to grading the tests, every student in the room was hovering around her desk.

Then came the moment of truth. Some left the room in a good mood. Others wondered how they were going to tell their parents.

EXEMPTIONS ANYONE? — Students in Mr. Henke's algebra class find out their final grades for the year.

CONGRADS — Christie Heskett and Angela Bryant throw a party for themselves after completing their final exams.

TIME TO EAT — On their way to the DHS lunchroom for the last time are Larry Commons and Pam Gray

KEEPING IN TOUCH — Jennifer Chaffin spends her lunch break signing autograph sheets

ON OUR WAY — Freshmen converse in the pit area during lunch the last day before final exams

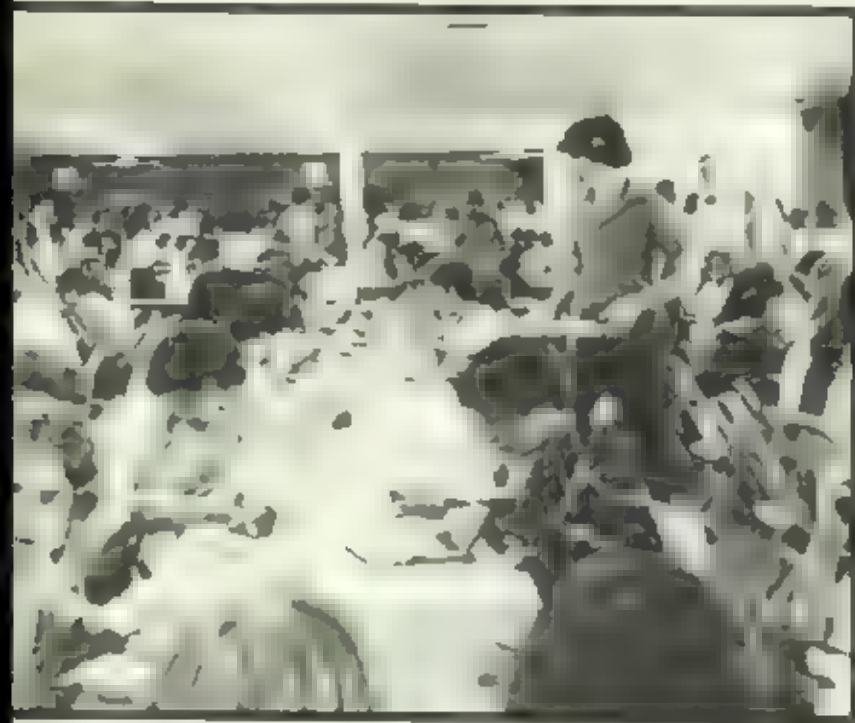

FINAL DAYS — Students at lunch gather with friends to talk about summer plans

Lasting memories

Throughout this annual are scattered pictures of games, teams, classes and clubs. Looking back in a decade or so, you'll come to realize the importance of keeping in touch with your friends

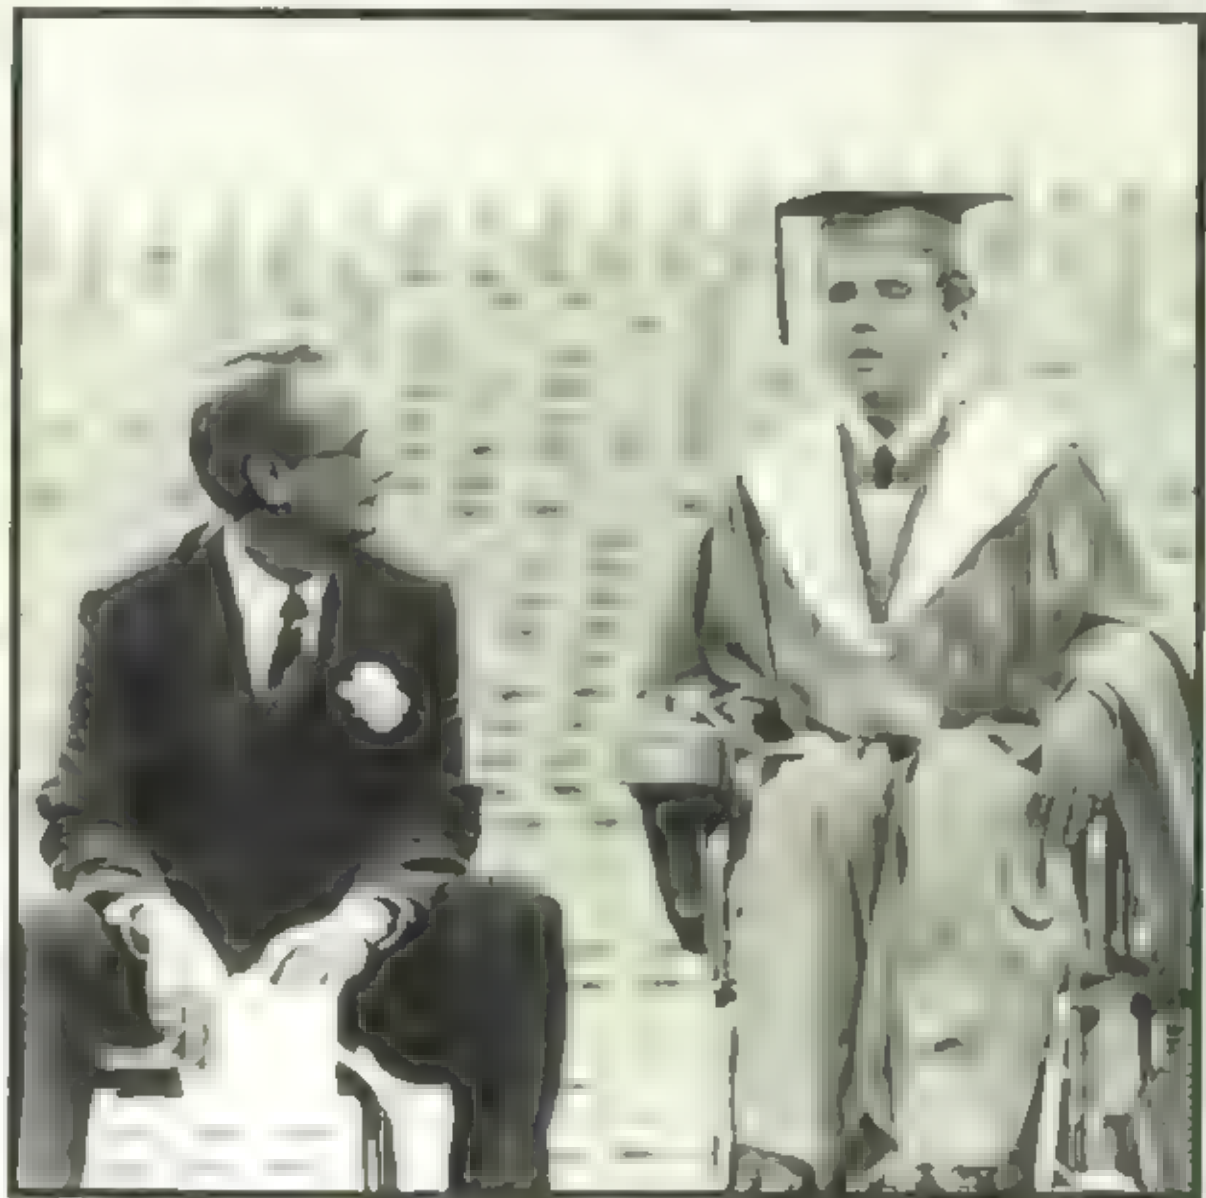

Your friends and the things you did with them are the things you will remember about Duncanville High School. You might not remember your teachers, and you might not remember the clubs you were in, but you will always remember your friends. You'll remember the little things that made coming to school bearable some days — things like the gossip, the talk of parties after school, the jokes during class, the everyday things

When you graduate and go off to college, keep in touch. Find out where your friends are and what they're doing. Drop them a card. The people are what gave DHS personality. The things we'll remember are the things we did together. Together we were strong because together we're better.

MMM MMM GOOD — Students either eat the cafeteria cuisine or brown bag it

COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES — Waiting on stage before graduation is Dr. Art Douglas and honor graduate Jason Boles

BACCALAUREATE — Seniors gather in the commons area before the religious service

FRESHMAN BASKETBALL — Freshman girls present the trophies their team won during the season. The trophies were presented to Dr. Douglas at the Honors Day assembly

SENIOR DAY — Billy Wadle and Debbie Rose announce couples and their accomplishments on Walk Day

BE A PEPPER — Todd Boren and Leah Harrington toast to the last day of school

Saying Goodbye: the editor's notes

The time was 10:30 p.m., Tuesday, May 24. The place was Texas Stadium.

While many new graduates were ecstatic at having finally gotten that "all important" diploma, others were reduced to tears at the thought of this being the last time that they would see many of their friends. Yes, this was the final time that all members of the Class of '83 would be together as a group. Four years sounded like a long time, but for most it went by too quickly.

LOOKS LIKE WE MADE IT — Peter Hartgraves, Wendy Seaman, Cathy Chapman, Angela Bryant, and Christie Heiskell are happy to be graduating.
